

Thompson inaugural gala today

by STEVE BROWN
SPRINGFIELD — Marching bands from Prospect, Wheeling and Stevenson high schools today will participate in the gubernatorial inaugural ceremonies for Republican James R. Thompson.

The Northwest suburban groups will be part of the 142 bands and other marching units that will take part in the first inaugural parade in Springfield since 1948.

But long underwear and galoshes may be needed for parade-goers with 4 inches of snow expected to fall today.

"Do a sunshine dance," David Gilbert, Thompson's press secretary said Sunday.

Besides Thompson, Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, Atty. Gen. William Scott,

Comptroller Michael Bakalis and Sec. of State Alan Dixon will be sworn into office in a joint ceremony.

THE OFFICIALS will get a two-day jump on the Illinois General Assembly, whose members do not take the oath of office until Wednesday.

The inaugural activities will include a host of parties, receptions and dances. The actual swearing-in ceremonies will take place in the Illinois State Armory Building near the State Capitol.

Thompson will not repeat the outdoor ceremonies used by Gov. Daniel Walker four years ago.

The Republican first opted for an outdoor ceremony, but Scott, Bakalis, Dixon and O'Neal all said they preferred an inside location.

WHILE THE armory will seat 5,000, the inaugural committee plans to telecast the ceremonies to two Springfield hotels for persons who may not be able to gain admittance to the building. Several Chicago and Downstate television stations also will broadcast portions of the events.

Thompson selected to organize the activities, Michael Dunn, a 24-year-old Rockford man who worked as a fundraiser during the campaign, and 39-year-old Robert L. Radmacher of Springfield, a campaign advance man.

They relied on the Illinois National Guard and Illinois State Police for advice. Aldes to Walker and former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also provided assistance.

Thompson and his wife, Jayne, will begin the day at a special service at the First Presbyterian Church here. Later in the morning they will meet with Walker and his family at the 50-room governor's mansion that will become Thompson's home this week.

While the 8,000 marchers are shuttled through the armory for a hot dog and baked bean lunch, Thompson and State GOP Chairman Don Adams will host a luncheon for VIPs at the Forum 30 Hotel.

THE EVENING inaugural activities will begin with a concert by the Belleville Symphony Orchestra in the State Capitol.

Two inaugural balls will follow in the evening. Thompson aides said his pledge to be the governor for the entire state will be carried out through the inaugural activities. The committee carefully invited guests from Cook County and Southern Illinois to one party, while Northern and Central

Illinois guests will gather at another hotel.

Both parties are scheduled to end at midnight. Thompson hopes to begin the 1st working day of his new administration Tuesday with the announcement of several cabinet choices, his press aide said.

The cost of inaugural activities carry a $65,000 price tag. A special committee, apart from Thompson's campaign fund-raisers, was established to obtain contributions for the event.

MOST NEW administrations do not plan outdoor events, but a confident Thompson, who appeared in countless parades during the campaign, began inviting high school bands to play for his inaugural during a late October

Perkins to run for trustee post as independent

Leonard F. Perkins, a member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission and board of local improvements, has announced he is a candidate for village trustee.

Perkins, 30, of 700 W. Rand Rd., said he will seek the office in the April 5 municipal election as an independent.

He is the sixth person to announce his candidacy to become a village trustee. Four will be elected.

Perkins, an attorney with the Arlington Heights law firm of Burfeind, Schlickman and Clarke, Ltd., has lived in Arlington Heights since graduating in 1974 from Georgetown University law school, Washington, D.C.

He also has worked as a budget and management analyst in the Wisconsin Bureau of Budget and Management and with the general counsel's office, Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, in Washington, D.C.

THE MAIN challenges facing Arlington Heights deal with intergovernmental coordination, Perkins said.

"Problems such as transportation, criminal justice, justice and water resources are impacted by surrounding communities as well as county, regional and state governmental units. An effective trustee must be aware of the impact other governmental units have on these problem areas and be willing and able to attack problems on a broader scale so that these potential problem areas do not overwhelm this community in the future," he said.

Perkins said the village should push the Regional Transportation Authority to expand the present Arlington Heights-Buffalo Grove commuter service so all areas of Arlington Heights are served. "This would relieve congestion on major thoroughfares, alleviate parking in the central business district and conserve energy," he said.

A LOCAL court building and a water conservation are also needed, Perkins said.

"A (court) facility in the Northwest suburban area also is needed to house

Carter's church won't accept black activist

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter and fellow members of the Plains Baptist Church voted "without opposition" Sunday to reject the membership application of black activist Rev. Clemon King. They said he had been uncooperative and does not live in the community.

The congregation also voted to reject on similar grounds the applications of Austin Black, also a black and Charlotte Weinberger, both of Los Angeles.

As the results of the vote were read to reporters outside the church by state Sen. Hugh Carter, the president-elect's cousin and a spokesman for the congregation, King interrupted him to say:

"You are telling a true lie on the church door steps. You're reading something that faults in the eyes of God."

Bitter cold to follow snowstorm

Northwest suburban residents can expect a couple of clear days this week following an anticipated four-inch snowfall Sunday night and early today on top of an estimated three inches of snow which accumulated Sunday morning.

The National Weather Service Sunday said frigid air from Wisconsin will grip the area until Wednesday, bringing temperatures ranging from zero to 15 below.

Weather service spokesmen warned

travelers in Illinois to be wary of bad road conditions brought on by drifting snow. Heavy snow warnings continue for areas along the Mississippi River. Travelers' advisories are in effect today statewide.

The immediate area was spared from the worst weather this weekend, which raised havoc in communities in Minnesota and Wisconsin, cutting off power and killing at least one person.

Car batteries were frozen near the western Minnesota town of Willmar. Ice crystals formed in the air near the Mississippi River. A power pole snapped near Chippewa Falls, Wis., cutting off heat and power to several families.

In St. Louis, authorities found the body of Roland French, 45, on the front porch of his residence, an apparent victim of exposure. Unofficially, the temperature dropped to 60 degrees below zero in Rice Lake, Wis., early Sunday.

Swine flu vaccine is gathering dust in cold storage

by KURT BAER

- The State of Illinois has 2 million doses of swine flu vaccine in cold storage in Springfield and is uncertain what, if anything, to do with it.
- The Cook County Public Health Dept. has cases of swine flu vaccine it wants to give back to the state.
- Nationally, Some 50 million doses of vaccine are sitting on shelves and still more is in various stages of production.

Such is the aftermath of the nation's $135 million swine flu vaccination program three weeks after it was halted abruptly because of fears the vaccine can cause a rare form of paralysis called Guillain-Barre syndrome.

Officials at the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., say the mass inoculation program will not be restarted unless swine flu reaches epidemic proportions around the nation.

So far, the center reports, there have been relatively few flu cases of any type reported in the country.

The fact that Swine flu vaccine has to be refrigerated adds to the storage problem. If it is out of cold storage for more than eight hours, the vaccine is ineffective, said Austin Hayes, public health educator for the State of Illinois.

AS LONG AS IT is kept cold, swine flu vaccine has a shelf life of one year.

"Some people have given us storage space but if we have to keep the vaccine for a year, I don't imagine anyone will be too happy," Hayes said.

Illinois has more swine flu vaccine in storage than it has been able to dispense. Approximately 1.8 million doses were administered in the state to 25 to 30 per cent of the eligible population, Hayes said.

The state received more than $500,000 from the federal government to pay for the vaccination plan, in addition to the free vaccine. Twenty-three state workers were hired exclusively for the program, Hayes said. The center loaned the state 33 jet injector guns.

"We're all waiting to see what CDC comes up with," Hayes said. "Until we know what they want to do,

we're holding on to it."

DR. JOHN B. HALL, head of the Cook County Public Health Dept., said the county does not have a lot of vaccine in storage. But what the county does have it would like to give back to the state, he said.

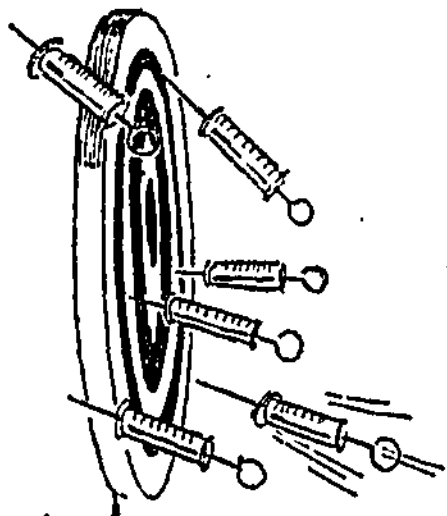

"We did have a problem that the flu vaccine was taking up space we needed for our measles vaccine. But we were able to take care of the measles program," Dr. Hall said.

CDC spokesman Robert Alden said a decision on possibly resuming the vaccination program is possible.

A state-by-state count shows 42 million of the 100 million doses of vaccine shipped have been administered, he said, adding that "manufacturers have a certain amount in processing as well."

Alden said he did not know of any other use for swine flu vaccine. It does not appear that it can be converted into vaccine for other types of flu, he said.

"We're just holding on to what we've got. Whatever is out there is being stored until there is a final determination whether the program will ever proceed."

Body of Sinatra's mother found

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — The bodies of singer Frank Sinatra's 82-year-old mother, another woman and two pilots were recovered Sunday from the wreckage of a Lear jet that crashed three days earlier on snow-covered San Geronio Mountain.

A 17-member search-and-rescue team reached the plane early Sunday. The team was airlifted by helicopter to a spot only 50 yards away but spent more than two hours crawling over the snow-covered rocks to reach the wreckage.

The team moved the bodies of Natalie (Dolly) Sinatra and the others to the helipad area where they were to be held overnight. Preparations were made to transport the bodies back to Palm Springs.

SINATRA AND his son, Frank Jr., waited at the Sinatra compound here for word the bodies had been recovered. Sinatra joined the helicopter search Saturday before returning to his home in Palm Springs.

A UPI photographer flew over the scene and said four body bags were laid out on the snow some yards from the wreckage.

Mrs. Sinatra was en route to Las Vegas for her son's opening performance when the plane crashed 9,500 feet up the mountain in the San Bernardino Range northwest of Palm Springs.

The wreckage was sighted after a pilot noticed a piece of torn clothing hanging from a tree limb.

An 11-man ground party airlifted to the scene reported there were no survivors. The plane had gone off course, left radar screens and apparently struck the side of the mountain and bounced before coming to rest near a ridge.

ABOARD THE PLANE with Mrs. Sinatra were Mrs. Anthony Carboni, widow of a prominent doctor, and pilots Donald Weier and Jerald Foley.

Don Landells, a helicopter pilot who spotted the wreckage, said he first noticed "a disturbance in the snow." He saw several broken trees and then a maroon-colored piece of material swaying from a tree limb.

The plane was painted white, which made it more difficult to see from the air against the blanket of four-foot deep snow.

Sinatra finished the first two shows of his scheduled performance at Caesars Palace Thursday night after hearing of the crash, then canceled the rest of his engagement.

Paul Anka, Johnny Carson and Sammy Davis Jr. filled in for the rest of his scheduled performances.

Man killed in freak 5-car crash

A Palatine man, hit by one car and run over by a second auto, was pronounced dead on arrival early Sunday at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Donald J. Heggem, 47, of 1468 N. Hicks Rd., Palatine was first struck by a car while he was examining damage to his auto from an accident on Dundee Road, just east of Smith Road in Palatine Township. He then was thrown into the road and run over by another car.

State police said the accident began when Heggem's eastbound car rammed the rear of an auto driven by Michael J. McGrath, 20, of 9155 Oakley St., Chicago, also eastbound on Dundee Road.

BOTH MEN STOPPED their cars and got out to examine the damage, without driving their autos off the road, police said. A few minutes later, a third eastbound car rammed the rear of Heggem's car pushing it into McGrath's car again.

The driver of the third auto then put his car in reverse and fled the scene, driving eastbound on Dundee Road. Police said witnesses did not get a description of the driver or car.

As McGrath and Heggem began looking over the damage a second time, a westbound car driven by Robert A. Cook, 38, of 163 Lindburgh Ln., Barrington struck the driver's door of McGrath's car and hit Heggem, who was hurled about 25 feet into the west-bound lane.

Heggem then was run over by a second westbound car driven by Ellen K. Miller, 20, of 401 N. Tomah Ave., Prospect Heights, who apparently did not see Heggem on the road, police said.

Heggem was pronounced dead on arrival at 6:10 a.m., an hour after the initial collision.

"None of this would have happened if the two men had pulled their cars off the road to examine them for damage," a state trooper said.

No tickets were issued.

City seeks cause of Maryville fire

The cause of a fire at the Maryville Academy, 1150 N. River Rd., Des Plaines, is expected to be determined early this week by the Des Plaines Fire Prevention Bureau, a fire department spokesman said. The fire, which broke out in an unoccupied building shortly after 11 p.m. Friday, was brought under control in about seven hours by members of nine area fire departments who responded to assist Des Plaines firefighters. Lt. Charles Provenzano of the Des Plaines Fire Dept., said Sunday the blaze destroyed the eastern portion of the building, causing floors and the roof to collapse. The building had been used for administrative offices before it was vacated. An official from Maryville said the building was scheduled for demolition this week.

Minton in bid for mayor

Mount Prospect Trustee Michael H. Minton has become the second announced candidate for mayor. Minton, 30, says he will file his petitions with the village clerk today. Edward B. Rhea Jr., also a Mount Prospect village trustee, previously announced his candidacy for the post being vacated by the retirement of Mayor Robert D. Telchert. "I'm going to start out by not promising anything I cannot deliver," Minton said.

Carter tax plan aimed at low, mid incomes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jimmy Carter's proposed tax plan is aimed at those most likely to spend the money and thus stimulate the economy: low- and moderate-income Americans who use the simple standard deduction.

That same group of Americans also could find the process of calculating their taxes so simple next year that many, for the first time, may be able to do without professional aid in preparing their tax returns.

Upper-middle and upper-income taxpayers who itemize deductions will find little or nothing to benefit them in Carter's program. Nor will they have an easier time filing their tax returns.

It is difficult to determine the exact effect of Carter's program on any one individual because there was a great deal of confusion when the program was announced Friday in Plains, Ga. Even a adviser by Carter's chief economic adviser, Charles Schultz, left many questioned unanswered.

ANOTHER VARIABLE which could change the program drastically is that Congress alone has the final say in any tax legislation.

Although Carter's plan was developed with congressional leaders and contains the work of congressional staff members, the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee often strike out in directions of their own.

The most important element in Carter's program — $7 billion to $11 billion in tax rebates and special Social Security payments — also is the part about which the least is known.

Schultz said the average family of four making $10,000 would get $100 to $200 back from the federal government. He said someone making $20,000 would get very little.

That indicates two things about the rebate: it will not be very large and it will be directed toward those of low- and moderate-income.

WHILE IT cannot be determined how much any one person might get back, one possible yardstick is that a $30 break to every man, woman and child in tax-paying families in the country would amount to $9 billion.

The other major element of Carter's tax plan is an increase in the standard deduction at the lower levels.

The resulting $4 billion permanent tax cut generally would benefit families making less than $17,500 a year and single persons making less than $14,000 who do not itemize their deductions.

The benefits at the upper levels of that range would be negligible. But no one — at any income level — would gain a particularly large cut.

THE SINGLE greatest benefit of the increased standard deduction would be the potential for simplifying tax calculations. If the plan is carried through, everyone who makes less than $25,000 and who does not itemize deductions may some day calculate income taxes with a glance at one table.

Under current law, the standard deduction is 16 per cent of income to a maximum of $2,800 for couples and $2,400 for single persons, and a minimum of $2,100 for couples and $1,700 for singles.

Carter's plan would do away with the percentage calculation and give everyone the maximum deduction of $2,800 for couples or $2,400 for singles.

One element of Carter's tax plan is likely to die in Congress: his $2 billion tax cut for business, which would be created by giving businesses a credit for part of the Social Security payroll taxes they pay.

Sources in Congress said this provision was insisted upon by the Carter transition team, but that lawmakers are unlikely to go along with it.

DISABLED VETERANS from WW II and the Korean and Viet Nam wars, are being trained for the next 19 weeks, to be radio dispatchers. The program, financed by Cook County and conducted by Capt. Raymond Kordecki of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept., is the first of its kind in the state. Veterans who pass the course will be placed in jobs at various Northwest suburban communications centers.

Disabled vets dispatched to radio operating class

by MARSHA S. BOSLEY

Each weekday for the next 19 weeks, 16 men will arrive in Mount Prospect at 8:30 a.m. and stay in the village until 3 p.m. to learn the ins and outs of firefighting and communications.

None of the Chicago area residents work in the village. None, in fact, are currently employed. But the tie that binds them is that they all are disabled veterans of war. Some saw combat in World War II. Some fought in the Korean War. Others fought in Vietnam.

The reason for their daily visits to the village is to participate in the Communications Operators Training Program, the first of its kind in the state that offers instruction in radio dispatching to handicapped veterans. The 20-week program, which began Monday, is being taught by Mount Prospect Fire Capt. Raymond Kordecki. It is funded by Cook County for an estimated $14,000.

FROM DES PLAINES to Calumet City, the men arrive each day using canes and crutches. Six of them are confined to wheelchairs. But all of the men carry with them a spirit of enthusiasm and determination. For upon completion and passage of the training course they hope to be placed — through the Veterans Administration — in communications centers throughout the Northwest suburbs where the demand for radio dispatchers is high. Their average starting salaries may range from $7,000 to $10,000.

The first week of the course consisted of personal introductions and an orientation to the workings of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept. Later in the course, the men will tour different areas of the village. Trainees range in age from 34 to 60.

"Communications is transmitting and receiving messages of any means," Kordecki said in his first lecture.

The potential radio dispatchers are graded daily in class participation on a numerical scale from 1 to 100. "There will be written exams after each section and a final exam at the end," said fire inspector Edward Cavello, Kordecki's right-hand man in teaching the course.

FIRE CHIEF LAWRENCE A. Pairitz said, like in any classroom, textbooks are used as course guidelines. Among the books used are "Fire Service Communications for Fire Attack," "Fire Department Technology" and the "Radio Communications Procedure Manual."

"Engine, truck, squad, tanker, ambulance," Kordecki differentiates between the various firefighting vehicles. He then instructs the alarm room operator to sound the different tones used to designate emergencies, telling the rest of the people in the firehouse to disregard the warning signals.

Using a yellow ladder truck as his guinea pig, Kordecki shows his students the basic fire-fighting apparatus, detailing the function of each piece of equipment.

The class is informal and fun. One student, boasting of his Polish-American heritage, introduced himself by telling his classmates, "I'm pushing for (Chicago Alderman) Roman Pucinski for mayor."

CIA linked to outbreak of swine fever in Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The CIA declined comment Sunday on a report the agency may have been involved in a deliberately planned outbreak of African swine fever which resulted in the slaughter of 500,000 pigs in Cuba in 1971.

Newsday, a Long Island, N.Y., newspaper, Sunday said "with at least the tacit backing of Central Intelligence Agency officials, operatives linked to anti-Castro terrorists in introduced African swine fever virus into Cuba in 1971. Six weeks later an outbreak of the disease forced the slaughter of 500,000 pigs to prevent a nationwide animal epidemic."

African swine fever, unlike swine flu, does not infect human beings but is highly contagious and lethal to pigs.

An unidentified United States intelligence source, said early in 1971 he was given a container of virus at Ft.

Gulick, an Army base in the Panama canal zone also used by the CIA, and the container was taken by fishing boat to agents in Cuba.

Shortly after, Havana swine fever showed up in Havana where many Cubans, faced with food shortages, raised pigs in their backyards or apartment roofs. It was the only time the disease has hit the western hemisphere.

A CIA spokesman said there would be no comment on the story.

By their own admissions, the CIA and U.S. Army then were experimenting with poisons and substances for sabotage and assassinations, including that of Cuban leader Fidel Castro.

The CIA until 1970 was involved in an 18-year, multi-million dollar, secret project to develop poisons and substances for sabotage and assassinations, including that of Cuban leader Fidel Castro.

Doctors spent nearly an hour at his bedside at his home at Alverston, near Salisbury, 85 miles west of London, where he was driven by ambulance from the RAF airfield at Lyneham. "His health was deteriorated rapidly in recent days due to progressing liver failure," said a bulletin signed by Dr. Richard Bayliss and Dr. Christopher Brown. Eden, who is conscious, said he "is very happy to be back home."

lowed, said members should "take down the sign saying this is a church of God."

Alton Carter, the president-elect's 88-year-old uncle, shouted back at King: "They don't want you in this church. You've got no business here. They never will vote you in the church and they ain't going to."

King, who lives 40 miles away in Albany, Ga., touched off the controversy just prior to the presidential election. His initial effort to attend the church led the congregation to approve, Nov. 14, a desegregation resolution.

Hugh Carter said Jimmy Carter did not speak during the 45-minute closed meeting about King's application, but voted to accept the "Watch Care" committee report recommending that King's application be denied.

A CONGREGATION spokesman said the rejection was "without opposition" although some members did not cast a vote.

The president-elect who taught Sunday school earlier in the day, left the church by a side door and did not speak to reporters.

Hugh Carter read the Watch Care Committee's recommendation on King:

"He was invited to appear with the Watch Care committee but did not appear or acknowledge our request."

"He has not shown a willingness to cooperate with the membership of the church..."

"We believe it would be difficult for him to carry out the spirit of our church covenant because of the distance of his residence from our community."

THE CHURCH pastor, Bruce Edwards, said he was "completely" satisfied that King was not rejected on racial grounds.

"We didn't talk about Clennon King being a black man or a white man or a purple man or anyone else," Edwards said. "We simply talked about his failure to cooperate."

Both Edwards and Carter had advocated an end to the church's segregationist policies.

Edwards said he both wrote to and tried to telephone King in Atlanta and Albany without success.

THE PASTOR said he believed King's initial effort to join the church "was an attempt to embarrass Gov. Carter before the election."

"You don't join a church because it's the church of the President of the United States," Edwards said.

Asked if he believed the congregation would accept the membership application of a black person living in Plains, Edwards said: "Yes, I do."

During the meeting, church members also approved a recommendation that Sumter County reject applications for liquor licenses in the Plains area.

The congregation also voted 62 to 23 to table for 30 days a recommendation that cameras and tape recorders be banned from church grounds during worship services.

Inauguration bound

by DIANE GRANAT

"Jimmy Carter Slept Here" reads the inscription on the brass plaque Rodney and Mary Ruth received as a Christmas gift.

The gift was a gag, but Carter's March 10 visit with the Park Ridge couple was no joke. Now their hospitality is being returned with an invitation from their former house guest to a reception at the White House after Carter's inauguration Jan. 20.

The Ruths, 620 S. Vine Ave., were among 200 persons who welcomed Carter or members of his family into their homes during Carter's trek across the country as a presidential candidate. Rodney Ruth thinks this personal touch in Carter's campaign helped win some votes by setting off "a chain reaction of good will."

"THAT WAS A very sharp idea he had, staying in private homes instead of motels," Ruth

said. "You don't make any hay staying in hotels."

The Ruths were selected to host Carter just before the Illinois primary because they are friends of Jim Wall, Carter's Illinois campaign chairman.

"We always thought Jim asked us because we were close to O'Hare," said Ruth, 64. "But Jim said, 'We chose somebody we thought would get the biggest kick out of it.'"

"We did," Ruth admitted. "We were just knocked out by it. We've been laughing ever since."

Preparing the Ruth's home for Carter's stay was a detailed process. Secret Service men arrived a week in advance to inspect the house, three telephones were installed and the night Carter stayed there, five Secret Service men guarded the house.

"I NEVER FELT so secure in my life," Ruth said.

Besides the impression left by the candidate's entourage, the Ruths say they were equally stirred by Carter himself.

"He had been briefed so well," Ruth said. "He knew that I was a book illustrator. He came in and looked at my watercolors on the wall and he said he'd like to see some of the books I illustrated."

Carter talked with the Ruths and their son and daughter-in-law for about 30 minutes before retiring, Ruth recalled. "He had a glass of milk and some cookies before he went to sleep," Mrs. Ruth said.

For breakfast the next morning Ruth said there were "no grits, just the regular scrambled eggs, bacon, toast, juice and coffee routine." Carter was off by 7 a.m. with only one neighbor having the slightest suspicion, Ruth said.

"HE LEFT A warm feeling in our home and I assume he did in other places," Mrs. Ruth said. The Ruths continued to follow Carter throughout his campaign and just before Christmas they got an invitation to the inauguration.

"But we found out that invitation goes out to 300,000 people, so we decided we weren't going to go," Ruth said.

"Then we got an invitation to one of the balls," he said. "But 25,000 are invited, so I said no."

"The Monday after Christmas we got a third invitation to a reception at the White House the day after the inauguration for 400 couples who opened their homes to Carter and his family. Now we're going to the whole deal."

Ruth said he and his wife will take a charter flight for Illinois residents attending the inaugural. "It's going to cost 300 bucks," he said. "But once in a lifetime you have to shoot the works."

620 S. VINE AVE., Park Ridge, is the place where Jimmy Carter slept and now Rodney and Mary Ruth have a plaque to commemorate the visit of their newsworthy house guest. The Ruths have been invited to the White House after Carter's inauguration as a thank-you for their hospitality during the campaign.

Conservative unit denies backing village coalition

A Conservative Caucus official has denied reports the national political lobby organization is behind the creation of the new Village Independent Coalition Party in Arlington Heights.

"It's distinctly separate," said Donald Tetzlaff, the Conservative Caucus' 12th Congressional District director and chairman of its affiliate, the Independent Conservative Party.

The formation of the new party was announced Thursday by George Grulke, who was unavailable to comment on reports the new party was conceived by members of the Conservative Caucus.

FRANK PALMATIER and Alfred Barboro, incumbent village trustees seeking reelection, said they are "very concerned" VIC may signal the emergence of national party politics in Arlington Heights.

"If the information we're hearing is correct, that the 12th District Conservative Caucus is the motivating force in this party, it is of course a situation where a nationally based party is taking a hand in village politics and is cause for concern," Palmatier said.

"Both of us would hate to see the (village) board controlled by people who express the archconservative philosophy of the national Conservative Caucus," Barboro said.

Tetzlaff said he has been at organizational meetings for the new party. "But we've tried our best to keep the Independent Conservative Party and the Conservative Caucus out of this whole thing. It's a distinct effort to keep national politics out of the local political arena," Tetzlaff said.

THE VIC PARTY will form a committee to interview prospective candidates and form a slate with a "common philosophy," Grulke said when he announced the formation of the new party.

"They want candidates with a common philosophy so it will be possible to have a board that can cooperate and work together. With the Arlington Heights Caucus' system you could have two conservatives and two ultra-liberals who could constantly be fighting with each other," Tetzlaff said.

The Conservative Caucus has more than 200,000 members nationally with coordinators in all 50 states. The 2-year-old organization is intended as a lobbying force, not a political party, according to Howard Phillips, its national director.

"There is sufficient water for all health and safety needs; there is not sufficient water to irrigate the entire village all summer long. The trustees must strengthen local ordinances to reach this goal. Since an essential ele-

The way we see it

Finances, welfare face Thompson governorship

James R. Thompson takes office today, backed by one of the largest electoral mandates in state history.

The new governor also faces a number of significant problems. The plurality he received from voters should help him meet those problems while keeping his many campaign pledges.

Last week Thompson called for fiscal belt tightening and warned education officials that he will put a lid on spending.

This is a message that Thompson will have to hammer home in the coming months. His administration will receive constant pressure from all elements of state government for new programs and more spending.

State finances and the search for ways to control spending, in fact, must be the top priorities of the Thompson administration. Thompson will face a legislature run by Democrats who will pressure him at every turn on this and other issues, safe in the knowledge that Thompson will be blamed if things go wrong. He must find a way to balance competing financial demands without plunging head-long into destructive confrontation politics.

As a candidate, Thompson received much attention with his stands on public aid, government ethics, employment and other issues. His campaign pledges in these fields should determine the priorities of his administration.

Outside of finance, top priority should be given reorganization of the Illinois Department of Public Aid in order to bring the agency under control. While the public has long supported aid to the deserving needy, it will not stand for massive welfare fraud much longer.

Another top priority should be the reorganization of the executive branch of state government, a project not undertaken since 1971.

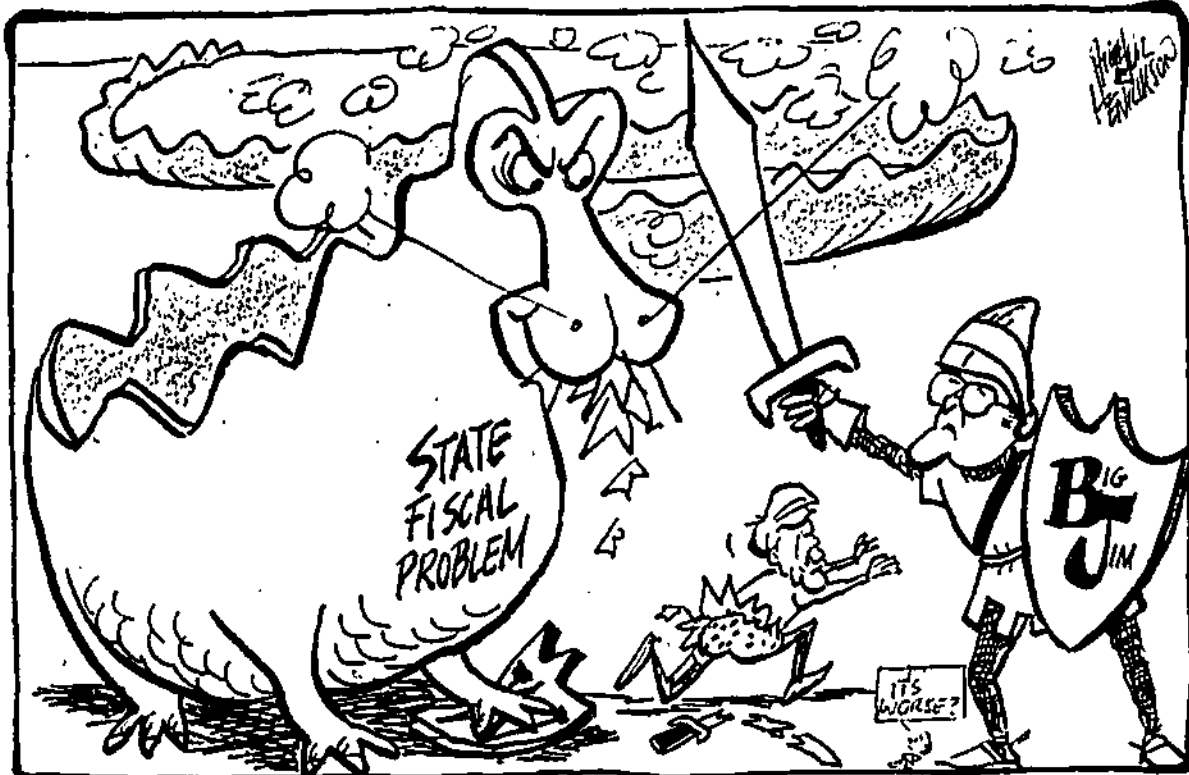

Thompson will step into a bureaucracy that includes more than 100 departments, agencies, boards, commissions and task forces. There is duplication of services under the present system. While a reorganization will not automatically mean a lower payroll, it should provide more efficient government services.

In addition to fulfilling his campaign promises to the voters, Thompson must work to retain the same energy and enthusiasm in office that he showed as a candidate.

The voters, Republicans and Democrats, who elected Thompson did so because he provided a fresh new political approach and unquestioned honesty. He must take care to retain public support, remaining candid with the people on issues and demanding the highest possible ethics of himself and his subordinates.

Thompson has the opportunity to prove that an honest politician can succeed in Illinois. During the next two years, the public will watch closely to see if he fulfills his promise.

He's all yours. He isn't as bad as he looks!

'SIN' program for coffee

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Further predictions for 1977:

Jan. 20 — In his inaugural address today, President Carter announced an ambitious new plan to make the United States self-sufficient in beverage production within the next decade.

"No country can control its own economic destiny as long as it is dependent on imported coffee," the president declared. He said constantly rising foreign coffee prices threatened to delay recovery from the 1975 recession and play havoc with morning coffee breaks.

The first phase will be a conservation program aimed at cutting back coffee consumption. The president revealed he had ordered 100 million buttons imprinted with the letters "SIN," which stand for "Suppress Ingestion Now."

HIS SPEECH was a ringing refutation of charges that the government has failed to develop an overall national beverage policy.

Feb. 20 — Coffee consumption in the United States has increased 25 per cent in the past month, it was reported today.

March 20 — The Senate Beverage Committee began hearings today on proposed new standards for coffee pots.

OFFICIALS OF the new Office of Beverage Consumption (OBC) testified that improved filters could produce 18 per cent more cups per pound.

However, coffee pot manufacturers strongly opposed the measure. They said it would be impossible to meet the filter requirements by the 1985 deadline without a 12 per cent loss in flavor.

April 20 — A Japanese coffee pot company claimed today it had perfected a new four-cup espresso machine that uses 18 per cent less coffee.

MAY 20 — The Senate Beverage Committee voted today to postpone the 1985 deadline for new coffee pot filter standards until 1996.

June 20 — The new Federal Beverage Administration (FBA) today recommended a system of tax incentives to encourage development of alternate types of beverages.

A spokesman said discovery of acceptable coffee substitutes offered the best hope of achieving beverage self-sufficiency in this century.

JULY 20 — The newly created Department of Beverages unveiled plans today to turn the state of Colorado into a coffee-growing region by erecting a giant plastic dome over the Rocky Mountains.

A spokesman said the dome would create a tropical climate that would make the ski slopes at Vail and other resorts ideal for mountain grown coffee.

He said the project would begin as soon as the department could complete the required environmental impact statement. It represents America's best hope of achieving beverage self-sufficiency in the next century, he added.

Coffee boycott best consumer tool

No institution — not even motherhood or apple pie — is quite as American as the coffee break.

Now that bastion of society is being threatened, along with the wake-up cup of java and the free refills in restaurants.

There is only one solution for America's coffee drinkers in the face of this new threat to our way of life. It's worked before and with united action it can work again:

Boycott!

As difficult as it may be for a nation where coffee is the national beverage, there seems little alternative for consumers than to resort to the same tactic that they used several years ago when the price of meat rose out of sight.

Coffee exporters claim the simple law of supply and demand is working to drive up prices. A freeze in Brazil destroyed much of the world's coffee supply, they say, and prices won't come down until 1979.

At the same time, the suffering consumer must face reports that the exporters are recording record profits for the past year.

It is true that Chicago area stores have agreed to a self-imposed freeze on coffee prices for the next 21 to 45 days. However, that public relations tactic is not a real solution for the consumer. If the grocers pay more for coffee, they must find some way to pass their increased costs on in indirect ways, even if they use coffee as a "loss leader."

It is therefore up to the consumer to take the matter into his or her own hands and to turn the law of supply and demand against the coffee exporters.

Who knows, we might even learn to enjoy tea.

'Des Plaines needs administrator'-league

In light of recent city council actions in Des Plaines, the League of Women Voters in our city wishes to again bring to the attention of the mayor, city council and residents our position in favor of a full-time administrative assistant as the result of our two year local government study.

Fence post letters to the editor

Letters must be signed, and no letters will be published anonymously. Letters in excess of 300 words are subject to condensation. Direct your mail to The Herald Fence Post, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60008.

Our consensus reached through our interest, discussion and study states that "the city council create by ordinance the position of administrator, with specified qualifications and duties. The administrator should be appointed by the mayor with the advice and consent of the council . . . (and) should be chosen on the basis of professional training and/or experience in management."

The league feels that a full-time administrative assistant is necessary to assist any Mayor (full or part time) in instilling management information and competence into the operation of city government.

The study also recommended that instead of 16 city council committees, "that the committees of the council be reorganized into a few major areas. We suggest for consideration the following: municipal development, finance, public welfare - safety - and services and public works. The study also recommended that "committees meet on as regular a basis as possible," perhaps on alternate Mondays, to encourage maximum participation by all of the aldermen.

Copies of our study are still available and the league urges our council members to examine these areas of change with the purpose of providing their constituents an even better and more efficient city government.

Should we be planning to win a nuclear war?

by RAY CROMLEY
Commentary

WASHINGTON — Like President Ford's policymakers, the men Carter has chosen for foreign affairs and defense, almost without exception, were schooled in a concept dominant since World War II: Wars are not winnable.

This belief led to our experiment with limited wars in Korea and in South Vietnam — to collapse in Saigon and to continued dangerous uncertain bubbling on the Korean peninsula.

Even more seriously, this policy has dominated our strategic defense buildup. That is, it has led to the concept that our arms have one aim and one aim only — the prevention of war. Our thinking is based on the belief that nuclear war, once it starts, is not only unwinnable, but unthinkable.

ANYONE IN HIS right mind must agree that prevention of war must be our paramount aim. But once we add the belief that a nuclear conflict is unwinnable, and so tailor our forces, we invite war.

If our forces are not designed for victory — only to threaten destruction — and if the opponent's are designed for winning regardless of the destruction involved, this "an open invitation to a power-minded totalitarian state."

There's another basic flaw in our logic. We assume that whoever is running Russia at any particular moment will be moved by the same reasoning and worries we face. And by the same concern over loss of life and property.

We have, therefore, assumed that if this country has a nuclear force large enough to withstand a Soviet first strike and retaliate, destroying a significant percentage of the Soviet population and Soviet industry, the Kremlin will back away from war.

OUR PLANNERS as a result are greatly influenced by reports the mass-evacuation civil defense programs of the Soviet Union are largely paper plans, unlikely to be workable in an emergency.

I submit this false logic. Viet namese Communist leader Ho Chi Minh demonstrated in the war against the French, in the political and economic programs he fostered and in the fighting against the South Vietnamese and ourselves that he would risk any loss of life and of property if necessary to achieve his aims.

History teaches us also that the Soviet Union does not regard the lives of ordinary citizens as democracies do. To achieve economic objectives, they have allowed millions to starve. To achieve political goals, they have eliminated or imprisoned virtually for life untold numbers of their citizenry.

WHAT OUR planners ignore in their comforting reports on the ineffectiveness of Soviet mass evacuation programs, is that these same plans call for thorough protection for selected officials, essential production workers and for key military defense personnel.

The data suggests, in fact, that the Soviet Union could survive a nuclear war with sizable powers of recuperation though with a decimated population.

This is not to suggest Leonid Brezhnev and his associates are planning a nuclear war. They have, to date, shown great caution. It is more likely they will use their new strength as an umbrella to give them more leeway in Africa, the Middle East, Asia and Latin America — believing that we will not stand firm if the odds are clearly against our own survival in a showdown.

But in a totalitarian system it is impossible to foresee who will rule next year, or 10 years down the pike.

In sum, we don't know what the eventual Russian goal is. But we do know that at present they're building more than they require for purely defensive purposes.

EMOTIONAL, physical and intellectual cycles mark the Biorhythm Calendar sold by Frank Livermore of Arlington Heights and friends.

Biorhythm calendar charts your daily ups and downs

by LEA TONKIN

Frank Livermore and his partners hope they'll find a horde of takers willing to shell out six bucks for a chart marked by squiggly lines.

Livermore, an Arlington Heights resident who works as a catalog copy editor, is marketing the Biorhythm Calendar for 1977 to biorhythm believers. They're folks who look to the ups and downs of their emotional, physical and intellectual cycles for guidance.

Biorhythmic cycles, as described by Livermore, are natural patterns of activity which are theoretically accompanied by the peaks and valleys of everyday life. Just how much impact these cycles have on bad or good days is debatable, he concedes.

"BIORHYTHMIC critics contend that the only difference between biorhythms and fortune cookies is that fortune cookies taste better," he said.

"Biorhythm fans point out that the biorhythm theory has been the subject of much research and that accident prevention is a successful application of the biorhythmic theory, so don't knock it."

Regardless of human feelings about this theory of behavior, Livermore and three friends got together during their lunch breaks at a Chicago office to discuss the possibility of cashing in on the increasing popularity of biorhythmic studies.

Art Paolini of Downers Grove, John Henek of Oak Park, Jerry Moses of Chicago and Livermore pooled their efforts to create the specialized calendars.

Dubbing their new enterprise the Heartland House, the partners used an electronic calculator called the Biolator to chart individual biorhythms. The Biolator is produced by Casio Inc., which has an office in Schaumburg. The current date, the user's birth date and other figures are used with the Biolator to chart a person's physical, emotional and intellectual state.

"JERRY MOSES is a graphic arts specialist," Livermore said. "He designed the calendar and the others worked up the charts."

Red, green and blue wavy lines on each calendar mark the biorhythmic cycles of the customer. The red line charts physical stamina and strength. When the line is above a center line on the chart, the user is supposed to feel generally strong and healthy.

Conversely, a line that dips to a low point shows less physical stamina and the tendency to be accident prone.

Green lines mark the emotional cycles from increased sociability to the blues. Intellectual or reasoning cycles are shown by a blue line on the chart.

Livermore said a low point shows extra consideration should be given to important decisions. Any day when a cycle crosses the center line is known as a critical day, he said.

WHEN A CUSTOMER'S chart shows his cycles are heading downward, should he crawl back in bed to await a brighter day? Livermore says a person must test the biorhythmic theory to determine its impact on his life.

He said President Ford's intellectual cycle dropped to a low point when he faced poorly in a nationally televised debate with Jimmy Carter.

"This is more than just a fad," Livermore said. "It's a theory that's just becoming more well known."

"It's nice to think we could make a killing," Livermore said. "But in any case, it's been fun."

Best to swim clear of loan sharks

It's a problem common to families and businesses alike, and our old friend Snake Oil Sam has devised a devilish way to take care of the businessman who finds himself in a cash bind that his bank can't, or won't, help him out of. It's called the advance loan scheme, and it usually follows close on the heels of tight money periods, such as the last two years have been.

For whatever reason, a businessman finds he can't get the cash he needs through his normal and reasonable financing channels. He may answer an innocent-seeming advertisement, or he may be approached by Sam if word of his plight has spread through the community grapevine.

Sam offers his assistance: He can arrange to get the loan for the businessman, in return for a fee, paid in advance. The fee will likely depend on the size of the loan and the size of the plight — perhaps as little as 1 per cent, perhaps as much as 10 per cent.

The simplest trick of all is for the advance-loan schemer to just disappear with the fees that he has collected. And that's usually what happens.

In some instances, a loan may actually be arranged, but at such onerous terms that the businessman might be better to shut down rather than comply with the stiff terms of the deal.

There is a legitimate lending activity involving loan procurement. It does involve a fee — often a hefty one — but if you're dealing with legitimate people, it can offer a way out of the financial bind.

In effect, your bank says it can't meet your loan request. But if you probe a bit, you may find that it will give you some short-term help, provided you have a firm commitment from another lender to convert the bank's short-term loan to a longer term situation. In other words, take the bank out of the loan. This commonly is referred to as a "take-out." It occurs frequently in the construction industry: A bank will advance construction financing if another lender will commit to long-term mortgage financing once the building is completed. This assures the bank of being a paid-risk it might not otherwise want to take.

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

It can happen in any business situation. The businessman's protection is that the bank will insist on approving the take-out. It will make its own determination to see if the promise of the ultimate financing is bankable.

If it won't go along with such a proposal, it has reason to believe the arrangement won't work out. And so should you.

SENATE MAJORITY LEADER Robert Byrd, (D-W.Va.) said Sunday he thinks Jimmy Carter should retain FBI Director Clarence Kelley unless there are "justifiable reasons" for dismissing him. Byrd said he has not talked to Carter personally about Kelley.

Aftershocks rock Frisco Bay area

For the second day a swarm of tiny earthquakes were recorded Sunday in the San Francisco Bay Area. University of California seismologists expected aftershocks to continue for several days. The quakes began Friday night, and the largest occurred at 1:38 a.m. Saturday, rattling dishes and awakening hundreds of thousands of people. Its revised rating on the Richter scale was 4.6. The largest quake, the strongest in 11 years, caused no injuries and no significant damage. Few of the earthquakes, numbering 54 at midday Sunday, were strong enough for anybody to feel.

No trace of oil tanker

Six U.S. Coast Guard planes and a cutter searched an 11,600-square-mile section of the stormy North Atlantic Sunday but failed to find any trace of the Panamanian oil tanker Grand Zenith and its 38 crewmen. "There have been no sightings," said a spokesman at the Coast Guard search and rescue center in Boston. The planes and the cutter Dallas began scouring the search area about 8 a.m. and reported no new sightings by 4 p.m., the spokesman said. A helicopter aboard the Dallas was also used. The Grand Zenith, carrying 8.2 million gallons of oil and a crew of Nationalist Chinese sailors, disappeared Dec. 30 just south of Nova Scotia just after radioing it encountered heavy weather.

Bolles trial in 3rd week

Jury selection for the trial into the slaying of investigative reporter Don Bolles goes into its third and perhaps final week Monday, with authorities wondering if the motive was old-style frontier revenge. Bolles, prize-winning newsmen of the Arizona Republic, was killed when his car blew up half a year ago, and the motive is still as much a mystery as it was then. John Adamson, 33-year-old dog breeder, is charged with murder in the case and has pleaded innocent.

Nineteen of 37 prospective panelists from which the jurors will be chosen have been selected, and Superior Judge Ben Birdsall hopes to seat a jury this week. Authorities trying to pin down a motive speculated it might be old-fashioned western revenge because Bolles made many enemies with his investigative articles, but also studied the possibility that the killing may have been the simple misguided act of an underling trying to impress a superior.

Teng Hsiao-ping returning

Diplomatic analysts in Peking said Sunday there is no longer any question whether former Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping will return to power. The only doubt remains about when the twice purged Communist leader will be rehabilitated. New wall posters went up in Peking late Sunday demanding that Teng, who was stripped of his official posts eight months ago, be returned to power as premier, Peking sources said.

The strongest indication that Teng is on the road to political recovery came during weekend observances of the first anniversary of Chou's death. Posters in Peking's Tien An Men Square, where wreaths paying tribute to Chou were placed, called for Teng's reinstatement. They said Teng had "always followed a correct line" and was a victim of a malicious campaign led by the "Gang of Four."

Halt Israeli suicide probe

Government legal experts in Jerusalem decided Sunday to stop the police investigation into charges that led to the suicide last week of Housing Minister Avraham Ofer. But government sources said fresh allegations of illegal campaign contributions to the ruling Labor in 1973 may lead to a new police investigation. Atty. Gen. Aharon Barak told the cabinet in its weekly session the investigation by police into the Ofer case should cease. "The general rule in law is that a man is innocent until proven guilty by a court of law," Barak told the cabinet. "Minister Ofer was regarded innocent in his lifetime and remained innocent at his death."

Syria prepared for 'dialogue'

Syria said Sunday it is prepared for "dialogue" with President-elect Jimmy Carter's administration and called on the United States to "shoulder its responsibilities" to help achieve peace in the Middle East. "Syria is confident of itself and the justice of its cause," Syrian Information Minister Ahmad Iskandar Ahmad said in an interview with the Beirut English-language weekly Monday morning. "There is nothing that would make it afraid of conducting a dialogue with anybody in the world who is willing to understand the justice of our cause and who is capable of initiating a move towards peace and security in the Middle East," he said.

Suspected chief of 1972 Olympic attack arrested

PARIS (UPI) — Police said Sunday they have arrested Abou Daoud, a founder of the Palestinian Black September commando group and the suspected mastermind of the 1972 Munich Olympics attack that left 11 Israeli athletes dead.

The French Justice Ministry said West Germany, which issued the warrant for Daoud's arrest, will press for his extradition. A government spokesman in Bonn said the move will come early this week.

Parliamentarians in Israel, which claims jurisdiction over those accused of crimes committed against the Jewish state, called on their government to demand Daoud's extradition there.

The Syrian ambassador, dean of the Arab diplomatic corps in Paris, protested the arrest as an "unfriendly gesture toward the Arab world," diplomatic sources said, and unconfirmed reports said Libya, Iraq and Algeria also filed protests with the French government.

DAOUD, a leader of the Al Fatah branch of the Palestine Liberation Organization, was arrested at a Paris luxury hotel Friday on an international warrant issued earlier that day against Youssef Raji, alias Abou Daoud.

A West German Justice Ministry spokesman said in Bonn, "The international arrest warrant was issued by Munich police and conveyed to Interpol (the international police organization) for action."

Paris police did not specify the formal charges against Daoud. Police sources said Daoud was presented to a French investigating magistrate Saturday.

The French foreign ministry and the representatives of the PLO in Paris refused to comment.

DAOUD, WHO traveled with an Iraqi passport made out in the name of Raji, arrived in Paris Wednesday with a PLO delegation that planned to attend the funeral of Palestinian Militant Mahmoud Saleh, slain last week at his Arab bookshop here.

The delegation was scheduled to attend Saleh's funeral Saturday but never showed up. After Daoud was taken into custody, the delegation left Paris for Beirut via Geneva to inform the Palestinian high command of the circumstances of the arrest, Arab sources said.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon set up a special team to discuss the legal and political implications of the extradition issue with man said.

Daoud was a founder of the Black September group that carried out the 1972 Munich raid. The guerrillas, who killed two Israelis at the Olympic Village and held nine others hostage, demanded freedom for 200 Arab prisoners in Israel and a flight to Egypt.

FIVE OF THE Palestinians, one policeman and the nine hostages died in a shootout at the Munich airport with West German police.

Daoud, a lawyer by profession, did not personally take part in the Munich attack but reportedly he has participated in several other terrorist attacks. The Black September group also claimed responsibility for the assassination of Jordanian Premier Wasfi Tal in Cairo in November 1971.

Daoud was arrested in February 1973 by Jordanian police as part of a commando group which attempted to kidnap the country's cabinet. He was sentenced to death but Palestinian protests won him a life sentence.

WHILE DAOUD was in prison Black September staged two major attacks. The group stormed the Saudi Arabian embassy in Khartoum March 1, 1973, and killed three diplomats, including U.S. Ambassador Cleo Noel. On Sept. 5, 1973, a Black September commando raided and occupied the Saudi embassy in Paris and held 15 hostages for three days.

Despite the life sentence, Daoud was released from prison Sept. 18, 1973, and returned to his Al Fatah activities shortly thereafter.

Economy to grow at slower rate in '77

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's economy will grow at a lower rate in 1977 despite a near record output of cars and continued strong housing production, the Commerce Department said Sunday.

The department said all phases of the manufacturing industries it covers in its annual survey predict increased production and sales this year except for four minor categories. Beet sugar, macaroni, cigars and power boilers for electrical utilities were the only industries expecting a downturn in the new year.

Commerce said auto production should be about 11 million units, which would be the second best on record.

Total economic output after adjustment for inflation will increase about 5 per cent this year, it said. This would be above the necessary 4 per cent minimum required to reduce unemployment but not enough to make any major reduction in the 8.1 per cent unemployment rate in December.

The Commerce Department's annual outlook did not take into consideration President Ford's proposed $12.5 billion tax cut or Jimmy Carter's suggested, $30 billion economic package over the next two years.

Congressional enactment of either of the programs would push the economy at a faster rate in 1977 and provide a significant increase in hiring and production.

Sew simple

by Eunice Farmer

Protector will make fabrics water repellent

Dear Eunice Farmer: Quite often when reading the fashion pages, I come across "water-repellent" rain suits, coats or pants. Yet, it is almost impossible to find fabrics that are actually water repellent. What can we home sewers do? — Mrs. P. A. M.

Dear Mrs. P. A. M.: Manufacturers can have any fabric treated for water repellency, but since our needs are more varied, it would be impossible to market a huge variety of such fabrics. However, you may take any fabric that you love and would like to use for rainwear and make it water-repellent yourself with Scotchgard fabric protector. It comes in a spray can with full directions included.

I have put this product to other uses that have been very successful — men's ties, scarves, collars of dresses and even silk hosiery. There are very few limitations, but as usual, I would suggest testing a sample piece of your fabric before any application.

Dear Readers: We're beginning a beautiful new year. I personally hope that all of my readers (who I feel are my friends, too) will experience a more rewarding year ahead than they have ever had before. Of course, I am an eternal optimist, but is there any other way to go?

For these first few days of the new year, let's not make too many resolutions we can't keep. Instead, make some rather serious plans that seem workable. One of the most common complaints I receive is being behind the season with sewing. Instead of ready for it, I suggest that you give yourself the next three weeks only to finish off old projects. Anything that isn't done by that time should be packed away so you won't see it and it won't bother your conscience.

Then, happily, embark on your spring projects so that you can plan while selections of fabric are complete and have them ready for the first day of spring. Fill your gloomy winter days by sewing bright, colorful, fun clothes and the days will fly by much faster.

Decide just how much time you have for your sewing, and plan your wardrobe accordingly, remembering that some things take more time than others. Coordinate your clothes so that you get the most mileage out of every article.

Above all, sewing is a good deal of work, so lighten the burden by making only garments that will give you pleasure and anticipation. Imagine the finished garment every minute you are working on it — not every seam, gusset and buttonhole that sometimes mean problems.

I love hearing from you, no matter how small your questions and problems are. If you have a problem, it probably affects someone else as well. Even though it is impossible to answer your letters personally, I will always try to answer those of the most common interest in my column. Thanks for reading my letter — I'll be waiting for yours!

When Gerry moved to Palatine, Southern hospitality came, too

by BETSY BROOKER

A Kentucky miss transported to Chicago at 23, Gerry Cosby has made the Midwest her home for half a century.

The old Southern code of hospitality and a slight inflection in her speech betray her origin, but the drawl has disappeared if it ever was there. Gerry's energy and enthusiasm preclude wasting time stretching out a sentence.

"I never was one to just sit," she said, laughing at the understatement of her words.

Mention Gerry to anyone involved in Palatine community affairs and they'll immediately recognize the white-haired village veteran. Charter member of Palatine Presbyterian Church and choir, and the Palatine Park Garden Club, and the Palatine Human Relations Commission and Friends of the Library, she has an impressive record of civic involvement.

PLAQUES AND certificates of merit? She has a drawer full. Just last month she received a "Patchwork Patriot" award from the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County.

Gerry is not one to boast about her recognition. In fact, she claims, "I'm just now able to cope with the fact that I'm not a real sharp intellect. But, I'm learning to appreciate what God has given me. Evidently there is an awfully strong motor in there pushing me."

Tagging herself a "late bloomer," Gerry said the turning point in her life came when she moved to Palatine from the city in 1945.

"During my marriageable years I was still retreating from life. When I moved out here, I learned to face a few challenges."

GERRY'S EARLIER years mapped a succession of moves from the time of her physician father's death when she was 11 years old. She left the security of the upper social strata of small town Dixon and spent several years in a Catholic boarding school in Lexington. Her mother obtained a position as dietitian at a state hospital, and Gerry joined her there during her high school and university years.

In 1929 Gerry and her mother moved to Chicago to join Gerry's two older sisters. She led a "swinging" life with her sister Vivian, 10 years her senior, at the Allerton Hotel on Michigan Avenue. Days of working as a secretary at the Chicago Tribune and nights of dancing, operas and speakases — she had "a ball."

Vivian's marriage and her oldest sister's move brought Gerry and her mother together again in a series of apartments.

"I supported us both on $22.50 a month, which was a $2.50 cut in pay after the crash. In those days you could get a good pork chop for five cents so it wasn't too bad. As my income increased with periodic $2 raises, we moved to better locations. Chicago, to me, was like a big overgrown country town."

VIVIAN JOINED the family of women again in 1941, and the three moved to a larger apartment on the North side of Chicago.

"I was approaching 40 by that time. I had gone through the dating era and I wanted a house with some land. I couldn't afford anything in the city, but in 1945 I found a $6,500 'war house' in Palatine Park and mother, Vivian and I moved in.

"Buying the house was my declaration of independence. Something I did on my own. It meant going from a life of living one day at a time to becoming involved. It opened a new and beautiful world for me."

She likes to recount the story of GERRY COSBY NOW shares her home with this friend presented Gerry with the animal after she was unable to locate its owner.

standing on the brick platform at the old train depot (some of the five-pound bricks can be found in backyard patios today): "It was early morning, the trees were in full leaf and I could hear the cardinals singing. It was just heavenly after living in Chicago for so many years."

RESIDING IN THE same home today, Gerry feels the pride of 31 years of watching the infant shrubbery she planted grow to maturity. Hedges of viburnums, lilac, witch hazel and honeysuckle screen the brick cottage from the road and offer the birds a feast in berry season. Bird feeders balancing on stakes and hanging from the old apple tree provide a vista of wildlife from her dining room table.

Gerry's house is the only one in the block that hasn't been sold, but she can remember the days of seeded lawns as if they were yesterday. As the first subdivision in the village, Palatine Park offered its residents the immediate intimacy of pioneers struggling together in a new settlement.

"The septic systems weren't working and we were having trouble with the developer. We organized a homeowners association and then encouraged the village board to reactivate the plan commission in 1947 to draw up a subdivision ordinance."

Blending an adventurer's spirit with a commitment to plan commission service, she sought membership on the village board to reactivate the plan commission where she stayed for seven years and was then elected to the village board on a double slate with Harry Olson (now township supervisor) for two years.

GERRY WAS NOT only the first woman to be elected to the village board, she was the third "newcomer."

"In those days you couldn't get on the board unless you were born in Palatine. But a group of us thought the board needed new blood. We saw a period of great growth coming and we wanted to see a better calibre of person in local government."

Her political efforts were also instrumental in the addition of a professional village manager to the village staff, in the redrafting of the real estate ordinance to allow minorities (as a member of the Human Relations Commission), in the passage of the third library referendum (as president of the Friends of the Library), and in a proposal for low and moderate income housing (as a board member of the League of Women Voters).

More than a tally of achievements or a record of liberalism, Gerry's history is a story of friendships. Her pictures form a collage on her refrigerator door — a variety of faces reflecting different ages and different races.

THERE ARE THE neighbors who took her along whenever they drove because she couldn't afford a car during her first five years of house payments, and now the daughter of the family has invited her to Madrid for a visit. There is Dr. Konishi whom she met commuting to the Chicago Tribune 18 years ago and now acts as "granny" to his four children and accompanied the family on a Hawaiian vacation last summer.

"Most of my friends are not my contemporaries. I guess it's because I'm more active than most people at 70. The people I work with are active and that usually means they are younger."

With older friends her role is often supportive. Having nursed her mother and sister through their last days, she now drives friends to doctor appointments, and in one case, called the paramedics for a neighbor who had suffered a stroke.

Official welcome on her block and "Aunt Gerry" to neighborhood children, she likes to keep an open door so she can "enjoy the life that comes in."

Reminiscing over 56 years she said, "I can remember having an overwhelming revelation: kindness is the greatest objective in the world. The more you practice it the easier it is to stay in the slot."

Campus Greeks are enjoying revived interest

by CHARLES J. CANNON

College fraternities and sororities which "hit bottom" in the Vietnam war protest years are growing again since student unrest has quieted down.

It's partly a nostalgic return to the days of beer busts and moonlight pinings, homecomings and floats and drunken toasts to the "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi."

Fraternity and sorority officials throughout the country claim their organizations, which started losing members in big numbers in 1966 are now on an upswing.

Undoubtedly one reason is there are more students on campus today. But there are other factors as well.

"We heard about all the fun our parents had doing things like this when they were in school and we wanted to do it too," said Martha Bittner as she and her "sisters" were decorating their Pi Beta Phi sorority house for homecoming at Colorado.

"A FEW YEARS AGO, everybody was into drugs and apathy, but now it's 'in' to be a cheerleader."

But even some campus "Greeks" don't agree it's a welcome trend.

"I think Greeks are dying out and as far as I'm concerned, I think they should," said Bob Lair, president of Alpha Delta Gamma at Loyola University at New Orleans. "I think they're worthless. I don't think people have time and it costs money, which college students don't like."

And Jerry Gallups, assistant dean of students at Georgia Tech and secretary of the Southeastern Interfraternity Council, said campus social life is on the wane.

"The days of debutante teas are dead," Gallups said.

NEVERTHELESS, membership in fraternities and sororities is growing again.

Jack Anson of Indianapolis, executive director of the National Interfraternity Conference, said fraternities averaged 49 members per chapter at their peak in 1965. He said they "hit bottom on the Vietnam campus disruption period" with an average of only 34 per chapter but are now back up to an average of 44.

At the same time, Anson said, the number of chapters has increased from about 2,500 at the end of World War II to 3,900 in 1965 and 4,600 today.

In Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. Robert L. McKeeman, chairman of the executive committee of the National Panhellenic Conference, said the sororities' membership growth rate dropped to a low of 4 per cent between 1971 and 1973. But there has been a 9.6 per cent increase over the past two years.

There are several reasons, probably.

FRATERNITY OR sorority affiliation often is viewed as a stepping-stone to business or social contacts which could be valuable later in life. Others join simply because mom or dad did.

"The legacy part is still evident at Ole Miss," said David Hall of Memphis, Tenn., vice president of the Interfraternity Council at the University of Mississippi.

Then there is the human trait of needing to belong.

"We all have a need to belong to and participate in exclusive, intensive associations in closed groups, just as we need to engage in mass activities and intimate family relationships," said Hernan Veragodo, a sociology professor at the University of Florida where 13 per cent of the student body is Greek-affiliated. "We'd go crazy if we didn't belong to them."

Some Greeks claim the downtrend was reversed when their organizations altered their goals. They like to stress their charity work.

CHRIS MCKOWN, Sandy Creek, N.Y., membership chairman of the Interfraternity Council at Penn State, said fraternities today "have adapted to student needs."

"We stress academics, service, leadership opportunities and athletics," said McKown. "Last year, Penn State fraternities raised $60,000 for numerous charities."

The desire to become involved in charitable or community services is one of the prime reasons students join fraternities or sororities, according to Louise D. Smith, a University of Texas graduate and national executive secretary of Delta Delta Delta.

"We really believe in what we are doing," said Mrs. Smith, noting her group has contributed more than $750,000 to various charitable groups since 1946. She said Tri-Deltas on campuses throughout the nation raised money for college libraries and research on cancer in children.

Joan Forest, president of the Panhellenic Council at the University of Florida, said sororities there donated more than 200 pints of blood and contributed $5,000 to the Kidney Foundation and cystic fibrosis funds last year.

"WE HAD A DISCO party recently and raised $450 for the cancer fund," said Tim Herd of Logansport, Ind., president of Sigma Nu at the University of Kentucky. "We also collect for the heart fund and held a voter registration in our lobby this year."

Herd said the Greek resurgence was due in part to the organizations' "recognition of individualism."

"I think the dormitory is rather impersonal but the fraternity is personal," he said. "I like the closeness of the friendships that can be developed in a fraternity."

Kim Fuller, president of Alpha Chi Omega at Idaho's Boise State University, said she joined because "I didn't know anyone. I was uninvolved. And I was, to put it bluntly, bored."

"A sorority is not necessarily a mating bureau. It's more a matter of a lot of friends and getting to know people and it's kept me here at school."

Some gas the result of swallowing air

I have diverticulosis. Many years ago my internist showed me the X rays with a number of pockets coming out of my colon. At that time the doctor said I could eat most anything but to stay away from seeds and nuts. Three summers ago I started eating corn on the cob again and haven't had any new problems due to the corn. Can I eat seeds, nuts and tomato skins again? I am going to try using All-Bran for bulk.

I have gas some days. It is always worse after dinner, but it doesn't bother me after breakfast or lunch. Why?

A certain amount of gas in the digestive system — and in some cases most of it — comes from swallowing air. Since this goes on all day, the largest amount of gas accumulates by evening before you even a meal. So you notice the gas more when you add more evening-occupying food at that time.

During the night you don't swallow air, and your digestive system is fairly empty of gas. So you don't notice the gas after breakfast or lunch.

The gas is probably trapped because of spasm of your colon. This commonly goes along with diverticulosis. Many specialists now think the pockets are small ruptures through the wall of the colon as a result of colon spasms. The spasms are thought to be related to a diet that doesn't contain enough cereal fiber.

The only reason for not eating seeds, nuts and skins is the concern that one of these may become impacted in one of the little pockets, block it and cause it to act like an acute appendix. A good plan is to try to modify your diet by adding whole wheat cereals and bran to your diet first. If you get along all right and your colon function seems pretty normal, then you should talk to your doctor about your status and whether it would be all right for you to relax some of your other dietary restrictions. Don't try to do too much at one time.

Meanwhile, I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-6, Diverticulosis, to give you more information. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1351, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

In one of your columns you mentioned that isometric exercises raised the blood pressure. As an exercise teacher for pregnant women, I am interested in knowing about the mechanism that causes the increase.

Blood pressure will rise any time the small arteries constrict. The same amount of blood being pumped to the body through smaller arteries results in the increased pressure.

The small arteries contract or dilate in response to several factors, some chemical, others as a nerve reflex response. When a muscle is firmly contracted and held in that state momentarily — as a simple firm handshake — it triggers a reflex response. The arteries constrict and the blood pressure goes up. This is only momentary, soon the arteries relax and the blood pressure returns to normal. Sometimes the arteries dilate to a size larger than before the reflex response. In this case the pressure may momentarily be lower than it was before the muscular contraction.

Orlon is acrylic so spot removal same

Dear Dorothy: I got out some baby clothes that had been put away for five years. There are yellow spots on two sweater outfits — one made of 100 per cent acrylic fiber and the other 100 per cent Orlon. What do I have to do to get out these spots? —Mary Ruth Ethington

Orlon is an acrylic fiber, too, so you treat both outfits the same way. Because these garments have been stored such a long time, you don't know whether the stains are airborne, organic or mineral. And the age of a stain can make it permanent. You have nothing to lose, however, to soak these in an enzyme presoak, then launder with an all-purpose detergent. If there are still spots, you should soak in any of the peroxy bleach and relauder.

Dear Dorothy: Leave it to the young. I was on jury duty and my teenage daughter made dinner one evening. She sprinkled salt, pepper and oregano on a small roasting chicken in a roasting pan. After it had baked for a little while, she poured over it a can of thawed, reconstituted orange juice and baked it several times. Super. — Mrs. James Knauft.

Dear Dorothy: My husband always keeps an extra pair of shoe laces in his desk at the office "just in case." —Robin Billings

Dear Dorothy: Our church had a big white elephant sale and I picked out a set of fine old goblets to give. Two had little nicks on the edges. I buffed them out with a fresh emery board. Came out absolutely perfect. —Gretchen Wagner

"When buying buttons, an excellent way to tell if the button will look good on the article you are making is a problem. I always make a buttonhole on a scrap of the material I am using. When I go shopping for buttons, I slip the buttonhole over the button on the card and can see instantly how it will look on my garment."

P. S. Unfortunately, most of the buttons that are available today are carded; therefore, it is often difficult to imagine the button on the garment as well as getting the correct number you need. This is the result of self-service, however, so we must learn to live with it.

Three ways

Sunglasses work on three different principles, says a manufacturer. Some lenses absorb or soak up light. Others use the polarization principle, admitting light in one plane only. The third principle uses coating on lenses to reflect light. Some sunglasses combine two or more of these principles in a single lens.

Susan Jones-Joe Kejr

It took a summer in Liberia, West Africa, for Susan Kathleen Jones of Mount Prospect to meet the man she was to marry this past Dec. 18.

Susan spent a recent summer working at a mission hospital in Liberia where she met a brother of Larry Joe Kejr of Brookville, Kan. Later that year he introduced her to Larry when he came to the states on furlough, and a romance developed between the two.

They were married at 11 a.m. in Des Plaines Christian & Missionary Alliance Church and later greeted guests at a luncheon at the Black Fox Restaurant in Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn.

THE BRIDE'S PARENTS are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Jones, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kejr.

Susan's wedding gown was of ribbed satin appliqued in Venise lace and her fingertip mantilla veil was also edged in lace. She carried red roses, stephanotis, holly and baby's breath.

Rosalie Kejr, the groom's sister, was maid of honor, wearing a green knit jumper with ivory crepe blouse and carrying two red roses with baby's breath and holly.

Bridesmaids, attired exactly like the maid of honor, were Mrs. David Presher, Newton, Iowa; Rebecca Baldock, Oak Park; Ruth Faul, Upland, Ind.; and Mrs. John Heemstra, Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Joe Kejr

LARRY'S BEST man was his brother, Melvin, and another brother, Joe, was a groomsman along with the bride's brothers, Art, Bill and Larry. After a honeymoon at Lake Lawn, Delavan, Wis., the newlyweds left for Hillsboro, Kan., where the groom is a student at Tabor College.

He is a graduate of Oak Hills Bible Institute in Bemidji, Minn., and Susan is a graduate of West Suburban Hospital School of Nursing, Oak Park. Before that she attended Forest View High School and Taylor University, Upland, Ind. She worked at Holy Family Hospital prior to her marriage.

Recycled paper comes out like new

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Brian Vickrey, 13, of Kewanee, Ill., for his question:

HOW IS PAPER RECYCLED?

In the recycling process, prepared pulp stock is transformed into paper on huge papermaking machines. One method uses a machine called a fourdrinier — among the largest industrial machines in existence. It can be up to 600 feet long and produces paper as much as 320 inches wide at speeds up to 4,000 feet per minute.

Stock blended of various pulps and suitable for a particular kind of paper enters the machine from a storage tank called a machine chest, flowing into a tank called the headbox. At the bottom of the headbox is an adjustable opening called the slice, through which the stock flows, often through pressure, onto a continuous traveling belt made of fine wire mesh.

As the stock flows onto the moving belt, the water drains away and the fibers mat together in a matter of seconds to form a wet, fragile sheet of paper that is about 85 per cent water. Suction boxes under the belt help remove some of the moisture.

As the sheet of paper travels the length of the belt, a roll smooths its surface. When the sheet reaches the suction roll, it is strong enough to be lifted off the wire by an endless woolen blanket called a wet felt. It is then conducted through two press sections where the moisture is also reduced. Then follows drying, calendering and rolling.

Paper that has been recycled is somewhat like dehydrated coffee and soup mixes. The ingredients in the original recipe still are there; they merely became solid and dry when the moisture was removed.

When paper is recycled, it is mashed and moistened to change it back into a soupy pulp. This may or may not be mixed with a new batch of pulverized wood and various chemicals.

In any case, the pulp is squeezed and warmed, rolled and dried to remove the moisture a second time. The recycled paper is as good as it was the first time.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Virginia Urgan, 13, of Staten Island, N.Y., for her question:

WHAT IS THE APPALACHIAN TRAIL?

The Appalachian Trail is the longest marked footpath in the world. Hikers and campers enjoy this famous mountain path as it extends 2,050 miles along the crests of the Appalachian Mountains between Mount Katahdin in northern Maine to Mount Oglethorpe in northern Georgia.

It takes a hiker about four months to travel the full trail as it crosses 14 states, eight national forests and two national parks. Campsites and cabins are located along the way.

Benton MacKaye, a forester and regional planner, proposed the idea for the path in 1921. It was completed in 1937.

West's discard fools all

Jim: "Dick Miller's new book 'More Bridge Brilliance and Blunders' might give us a chance to show a few of each."

Oswald: "Remember the story about the man who started a rumor and wound up believing it himself. Today's West decided to fool declarer, but he fooled his partner at the same time."

Jim: "South slam-banged his way into six notrump in a match-point game. West opened the eight of spades. East took his ace after dummy played the queen and led a spade back. South could count 11 easy tricks and normally would gather in the 12th by means of a heart finesse to make his notrump slam and beat all the players who wrapped up six diamonds."

Oswald: "Anyway, South started to run off the diamonds and on the first diamond West threw the seven of hearts. South noted this and assumed that West was showing the king of hearts. Maybe a squeeze would develop. South ran the diamonds while discarding two hearts. Then he came to his hand with the king of clubs, cashed the last high spade and entered dummy with the ace of clubs. He thought a while, led a heart with every intention of trying to drop West's unguarded king when low-and-behold East played the king. He had believed his partner's signal and chucked two of his hearts."

A California reader asks which defender should take in the tricks for his side.

The answer is that it makes no difference, although in most games the first defender to win a trick keeps it and all later tricks.

Raiders super in Super Bowl XI

by JOE CARNICELLI
PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders vented themselves of a decade of frustration with a Super Bowl total offense record Sunday as they routed Minnesota 32-14 for their first NFL championship ever and handed the Vikings a record fourth loss in title play.

The Raiders owned the best record in the NFL for the past decade but had never won "the big game" until Sunday when they rolled up 423 yards to erase the record they had surrendered to Green Bay in their only other Super Bowl appearance.

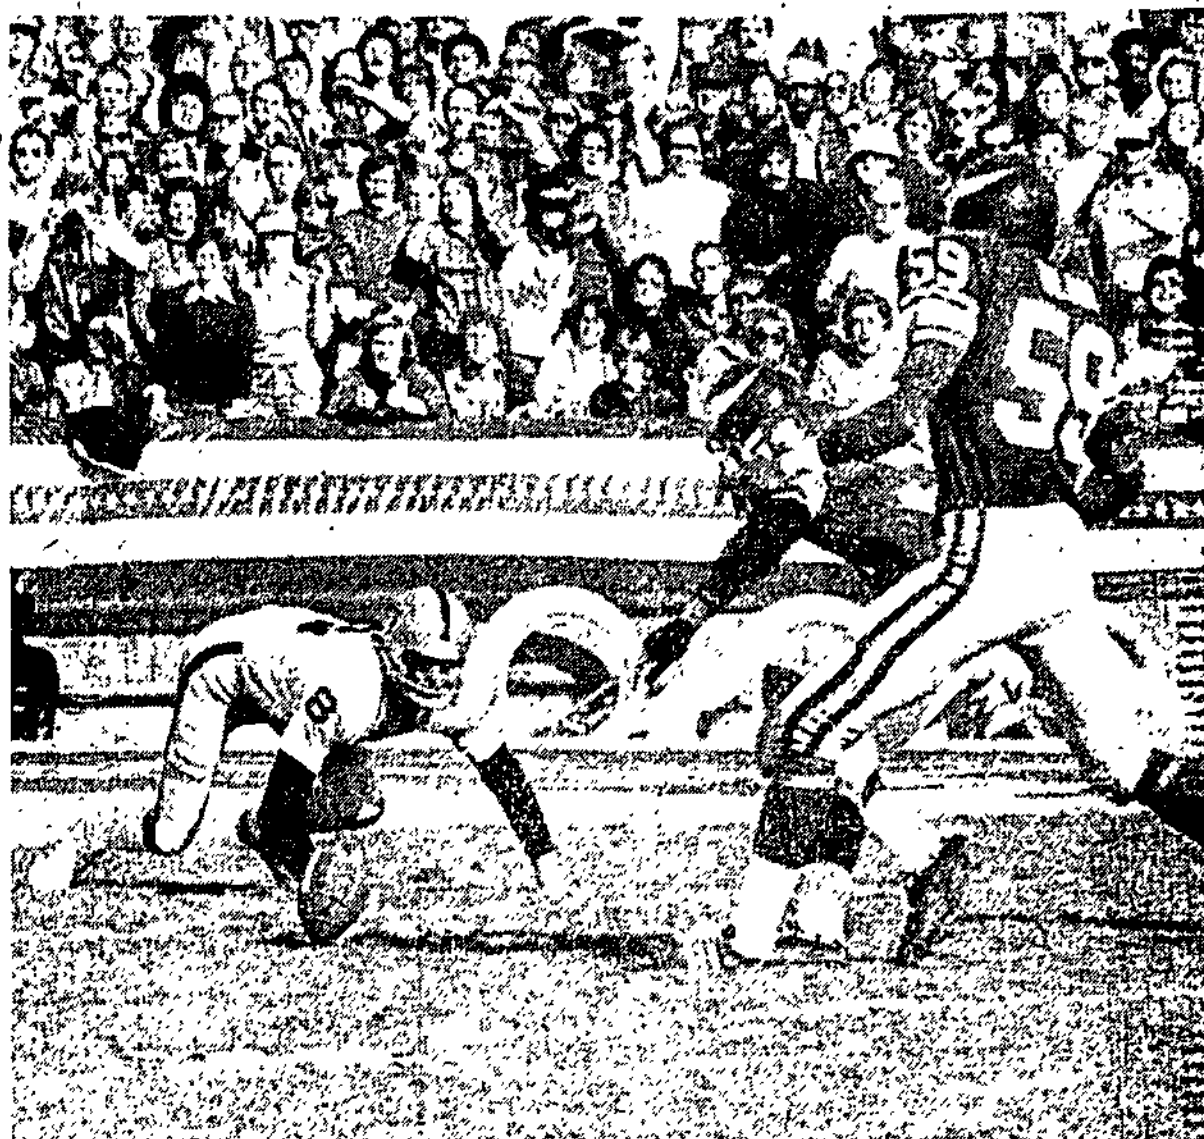

Two veterans from that previous Super Bowl appearance, Pete Banaszak and Willie Brown, accounted for three touchdowns. Banaszak ran for touchdowns of two and one yards and Brown, a 36-year-old cornerback, set a Super Bowl record when he returned an interception 75 yards for a score in the final period.

KEN STABLER, who hit 12 of 19 passes for 180 yards, threw a one-yard touchdown pass to Dave Casper and Errol Mann, a castoff by Detroit picked up in midseason, hit field goals of 24 and 40 yards to spark the victory before a Super Bowl record crowd of 100,421.

Minnesota's first score came on Fran Tarkenton's eight-yard pass to Sammy White late in the third period — Tarkenton's first touchdown pass in three Super Bowls. Bob Lee, who replaced Tarkenton with 5:33 remaining, added a 13-yard touchdown pass to tight end Stu Voigt with just 25 seconds remaining.

The victory was Oakland's 16th against one loss and gave the American Conference its fifth Super Bowl title in a row and eighth in the last nine games. Minnesota, the NFC representative, lost its previous appearance.

'Our offensive line made it all work'

by JIM COUR

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Ken Stabler, the bearded left-handed quarterback of the Super Bowl XI champion Oakland Raiders, stared at the mob of reporters when the question was asked.

Someone wanted to know what the seven-year pro from Alabama had to say to the people who had pegged the Raiders with a loser's image.

"I don't have to say anything at all," he said, tersely. "All I know is all of you are here and want to talk to me now. That should be enough."

IN THE RAIDERS' 32-14 victory at the Rose Bowl Sunday, Stabler completed 12 of 19 passes for 180 yards and one touchdown. He directed Oakland to a 16-0 halftime lead.

"Our offensive line beat the hell out of them," Stabler continued. "Our offensive line made it all work. Minnesota did the things that got them here and stuck with them. We did the things that got us here and stuck with them, too. We just beat them physically."

"I couldn't imagine dominating the game this way but I thought we'd score a lot of points."

FRED BILETNIKOFF, who caught four passes for 79 yards, including a 48-yarder, was named the game's Most Valuable Player. He stood quietly smoking a cigarette, standing on a platform while being interviewed.

"I don't know what to say about

665 teams in field

District play begins in volleyball tourney

CONCENTRATION. That's the key word for area girls as the state volleyball series begins this week with district competition. District play will be conducted at 64 sites with winners advancing to 16 correlated sectionals.

A record 665 schools have entered teams in the third annual Illinois High School Assn. Girls State Volleyball Tournament series, which gets under way with district competition this week.

A few matches are set for tonight, but most districts officially get under way Tuesday.

Last year, when LaGrange posted one of the most dramatic comebacks in IHSA title history to nip Barrington by two points in the third and final game of the championship match, a total of 608 schools entered the series.

DISTRICT TOURNAMENTS will be conducted at 64 sites with the winners advancing to 16 correlated sectionals, which will be conducted Jan. 18-22. The sectional champions will advance to correlated super-sectional matches Jan. 25.

The eight super-sectional winners advance to the third annual state finals, which will be conducted the weekend of Jan. 28-29 at Horton Fieldhouse on the campus of Illinois State University, Normal.

Super-sectionals this year will be hosted by Quincy (Sr.), Oak Lawn Richards, Charleston, (Eastern Illinois), Carbondale (Southern Illinois University), Rolling Meadows, Normal Community, Sterling and Aurora East.

Correlated matchups for the super-sectionals will pit the following sectional winners:

AT AURORA EAST — Lansing winner vs. Lisle winner.

AT CARBONDALE — Albion winner vs. Freeburg winner.

AT CHARLESTON — Champaign winner vs. Nokomis winner.

AT NORMAL — Normal winner vs. Peoria Heights winner.

AT OAK LAWN — Chicago Public League winner vs. Glenbrook North Winner.

AT QUINCY — Macomb winner vs. Mt. Olive winner.

AT ROLLING MEADOWS — Elgin winner vs. Harvard winner.

AT STERLING — East Moline winner vs. Sterling winner.

HERALD AREA teams are hooked up in five districts with competition at Elgin and Barrington getting under way tonight.

In matches tonight at Barrington, Rolling Meadows is slated to meet the Palatine-Lake Zurich Sub-District winner while Crystal Lake plays Dundee. Action begins at 7 p.m.

The Elgin District matches Schaumburg vs. the Conant-Driscoll Sub-District winner and Addison Trail vs. Elgin with a 7 p.m. start.

ON TUESDAY evening at Elgin, also starting at 7 p.m., Elgin St. Edward will meet Lake Park and Hoffman Estates will play Elgin Larkin.

In Tuesday action starting at 7:00 at Barrington Fremd will meet Cary Grove and Crown will tangle with the host school.

Buffalo Grove meets Stevenson at 7:00 Wednesday in the Libertyville District, and Tuesday night play at Highland Park will match Forest View against the Maine North-Deerfield Sub-District winner and Hersey against Wheeling. The first serve is at 7 p.m.

Play will continue Wednesday at Highland Park with Prospect playing the host school and Maine West meeting Arlington, again opening at 7:00.

The West Leyden District will open Tuesday with Maine South meeting the Elmwood Park-Elk Grove Sub-District winner.

DRIVER EDUCATION. When it comes to taking the ball to the hoop, nobody drives like Rob Totten of Conant, putting it up here against Hoffman's Ron Warring (53). Totten couldn't do his thing enough

Friday to avoid a 49-46 Hoffman Estates victory, led by Warring's 19 points. Conant fell Saturday, 57-40 at Naperville Central. (Photo by Mike Seeling)

Sports World

ON TARGET. Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar arches a shot past Kevin Porter (11) of the Detroit Pistons while helping the Lakers to 124-118 triumph Sunday. Jabbar finished with 28 points, getting 15 of them in the final quarter.

Pate nips Stockton to win Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. — U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, in a sudden-death playoff with PGA king Dave Stockton, tapped in a putt of less than two feet on the first extra hole Sunday to win the $200,000 Phoenix Open.

The two finished the regulation 72 holes tied with seven-under-par 277s.

They went to the 15th hole to begin the fight for the $40,000 top prize in the first event on the 1977 schedule, and Pate, 12 years Stockton's junior, gained an edge immediately when he put his tee-shot on the par-three, 203-yard hole 18 feet from the pin.

Stockton was 35 feet away, and his first putt rolled four feet past the hole. Pate's first putt was 1½ feet short, but then Stockton, one of the best putters on the tour, went a 1½ feet past the hole on his second putt.

Pate made good on his second putt to end the match and start the New Year almost where he left off in the old, when he won $153,102, the most ever by a rookie.

Larry Nelson, had a final round 71, par for the Phoenix Country Club course, and finished at 278, a shot behind Pate and Stockton.

Lakers rally to topple Detroit

DETROIT — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 15 of his 28 points in the fourth quarter and Cazzie Russell contributed a season-high of 33 points to lead the Los Angeles Lakers past the Detroit Pistons 124-118 Sunday in a nationally-televised National Basketball Association game.

Los Angeles outscored Detroit 18-2 in a five minute stretch of the last quarter to turn a 108-100 deficit into a lead the Lakers never relinquished in winning their second straight game on the road and 12th of their last 15 overall.

Detroit, which used a press to open a 42-22 lead in the third quarter, got 25 points from Bob Lanier, 24 from Howard Porter, 22 from Chris Ford and 21 from J.L. Carr. Lanier won the battle of rebounds from his taller counterpart, getting a season's high of 19 while helping hold Abdul-Jabbar to 13, but the big Los Angeles center was devastating when it mattered.

Evert upset in tourney opener

LANDOVER, Md. — A trimmed down Martina Navratilova out-hustled and out-hit Chris Evert Sunday to score an upset 6-2, 6-3 triumph in the first 1977 tournament of the Virginia Slims women's tennis tour.

The 20-year-old Czechoslovakian expatriate needed less than an hour to defeat the reigning queen of women's tennis and collect the $20,000 winner's purse — her first on the circuit since a year ago.

Navratilova said after winning only her fourth match in 10 encounters with Evert: "I felt very confident I could win because I was serving well and that kept the pressure on her." The No. 3 seed, who has slimmed down 25 pounds to 145 for this season, said of Evert: "She started making mistakes."

Evert said after the match: "Martina played superior tennis and I wasn't patient enough."

Maryland trips Wolfpack, 87-80

RALEIGH, N.C. — Maryland lost an overtime squeaker to 13th ranked Wake Forest Saturday 86-85 but recovered Sunday to take an 87-80 Atlantic Coast Conference win over North Carolina State.

Maryland, now 1-1 in ACC play and 11-2 overall, got 26 points from Brad Davis and another 22 from Steve Sheppard in the win over the Wolfpack.

The Terps, tied for 18th in the UPI coaches' poll, built a firm 59-34 halftime lead and hung on for the win as North Carolina State started trimming the lead.

North Carolina State was led by Kenny Carr with 20 points, followed by freshman guard Clyde "The Glide" Austin with 14.

"I thought that this was a good win after a tough loss yesterday," said Maryland Coach Dreisell. "I am still a little concerned about getting a 25-point lead and then not being able to blow the other team out."

Schechter takes Argentine Prix

BUENOS AIRES — South African Jody Schechter endured the sweltering heat with his Wolf Ford W11 to win the Argentine Grand Prix Sunday after most of the Formula One cars dropped.

"We were very lucky to win" the 20-odd Schechter said, "It was really amazing and I was really lucky."

The South African, who only took the lead for the final six of 53 laps, completed the race in one hour, 40 minutes and 11.19 seconds at an average speed of 117.4 miles per hour.

Brazil's Jose Carlos Pace, in a Brabham BT45, came in second and was immediately rushed to the infirmary to be treated for heat stroke, but he recovered rapidly.

To the delight of the 50,000 spectators sweating out the 95-degree heat, Argentina's own Carlos Reutemann was third, only three seconds behind Pace.

Emerson Fittipaldi, driving the trouble-plagued Copersucar F2004, came from behind to take fourth place. He had only been in 18th place after the two days of time trials for the 21 cars entered in the race.

Only four finished the 53 laps of the 196-mile race.

ances to Kansas City, Miami and Pittsburgh. The Vikings finished the season 13-3-1.

Oakland dominated play, taking a 16-0 lead at halftime and then used two big plays in the fourth period to put away the game and earn $15,000 each.

THE RAIDERS surged down the field on their first possession as Stabler threw a 25-yard pass to Casper and Clarence Davis, who ran for 137 yards, carried 20 yards to set up a first-and-10 at the Viking 11.

Minnesota held Mann's 29-yard field goal attempt hit the left upright and bounced away.

It was one of the few times Oakland would be stopped.

The Vikings' first big chance came midway through the first period when Ray Guy, who had not had a punt blocked in his four years in the NFL, saw his kick bounce off the chest of Minnesota's Fred McNeill and deflect toward the Raider goal line. McNeill recovered and Minnesota had a golden opportunity with a first and goal at the Raider three.

IT DIDN'T last long. Minnesota's Chuck Foreman, the NFC player of the year, was stopped for a one-yard gain and on the next play, Phil Villapiano jarred the ball loose from Bront McClanahan and Willie Hall recovered for Oakland on the two.

Stabler then went to work, moving the club 90 yards to set up Mann's 24-yard field goal for a 3-0 lead. Stabler hit Casper with a key 25-yard pass during the drive and Davis had a 35-yard run to set up Mann's kick just 48 seconds into the second period.

Then Oakland put on the pressure with 13 more points in the period.

Stabler took his club 84 yards in 10 plays, hitting five-of-five passes in the drive.

STABLER HIT Casper on a third-and-12 at the Minnesota 45, Carl Garrett ran 13 yards, and then Stabler completed a five-yard pass to Fred Biletnikoff, voted the game's Most Valuable Player, on a third-and-three from the Viking six. That set up the TD — a one-yard flip to Casper who was wide open after Stabler's brilliant fake.

Minnesota again was unable to mount an offense and Neal Colzie recovered a punt 25 yards to the Viking 35. Three runs gained 17 yards and Stabler rifled a pass to Biletnikoff, who made a sliding catch at the one. Banaszak drove over for the TD on the next play but Mann's conversion missed and Oakland led 16-0.

In the third period, Oakland took over on its own 45 and Davis' 18-yard run and Stabler's 10-yard pass to Branch put the ball on the Viking 22, where Mann connected on his 40-yarder for a 19-0 lead.

Minnesota then made its best drive of the game, aided by two key breaks. Bugged down with a fourth-and-10 on their own 31, the Vikings got a key break when Raider linebacker Ted Hendricks was called for running into the kicker on a punt.

MINNESOTA GOT a first down on its 36 and Tarkenton began to chip away, hitting Voigt for 10 yards and Ahmad Rashad for 21. A defensive holding call against Charles Phillips also aided in the drive and Tarkenton threw his touchdown pass to White, cutting across the end zone to his left after Foreman picked up a key first down on a fourth-and-three from the Raider 18.

Minnesota then threatened to get back into the game as Tarkenton marched the Vikings to the Raider 37 but his pass over the middle to Foreman was picked off by Hall and returned 16 yards. That was Minnesota's last gasp.

Stabler hit Biletnikoff, who had four receptions for 79 yards, with a 48-yard pass to the Viking two and Banaszak went over on the next play.

Tarkenton tried to bring Minnesota back again but Brown, the 14-year veteran, stepped in front of a pass and raced unimpeded down the right sideline for the touchdown. Brown's run broke a record of 60 yards set by Green Bay's Herb Adderley in Super Bowl II against Oakland.

MINNESOTA CONCEDED when Tarkenton was removed in favor of Lee with 5:33 left and the Raider defense, playing loosely, allowed him to peck away for the final score.

Five records were established in the game, Oakland set standards for the most yards gained by a team, 429; most yards gained rushing by a team, 266; and longest interception return, 75 yards for a touchdown by Brown. They combined with the Vikings for the most yards gained by two teams, 782 (429 for Oakland and 353 for Minnesota), while the paid attendance of 103,424 also was a new mark.

Vikings have no excuses

that," he said, when asked about his MVP award of a new car. "This is the biggest thing to happen to me as a pro. This Oakland team had more guts than any Oakland team of the past. We fought and scratched all season. We did the things we had to do today."

"I can't verbalize about this game. I'm emotionally drained. It's a nice warm feeling. I feel like someone has just stuck a needle in my arm and filled me up with warm blood. I'm nice and relaxed."

OF STABLER, the 12-year veteran said, "he throws the ball where I can catch it, low and away from other people."

"I don't think there is any way that you can throw the ball that Fred can't catch it," added Stabler.

Pete Banaszak, who played on Oakland's losing Super Bowl team nine seasons ago, scored two touchdowns against the Vikings on short runs and was quick to credit to his blockers, kicking off the names of Art Shell, Gene Upshaw, George Buehler, Dave Dalby and John Vella.

He pointed out that the Raiders had scouted Minnesota's defense and noticed that linebacker Wally Hilgenberg played off the line on the Vikings' right side. That left aging defensive end Jim Marshall to take the brunt of Oakland's running attack.

"SHELL is near 300 pounds and Upple is big and strong, too," Banaszak said. "I knew they couldn't stop us the way they play. You can't play that way and get away with it against us. We proved that. Everybody ran on them all season but nobody scored on them. Well, we rang their bell."

"As soon as you get it rolling Oakland linebacker Phil Villapiano said, 'you forget about the tension and get into the game. This shows all hard work pays off.'"

Villapiano noted that Minnesota's inability to score in the second quarter after recovering a blocked punt on the Oakland three-yard line, was a key factor in the game.

"If they score and get ahead," Villapiano hypothesized, "it could be a different game. When these guys get ahead, they play good ball control. I'm glad we got ahead and let them chase us instead."

THE VIKINGS may have been embarrassed, but Coach Bud Grant was already talking about an encore.

"Hey, we'll be back," Grant said. "We're used to this. A lot of teams haven't been here. We've made more money than any other team in football."

Grant said the key to the game "getting the third-down plays. We just didn't get them. We just played on the wrong day. If we had played tomorrow we would have beaten them."

Grant added there is no way to be happy after any loss.

"If you find a way to feel good after losing, you let me know," he said. "We dropped a couple of key passes — that was one of the big differences of the game. The team that makes the big plays wins."

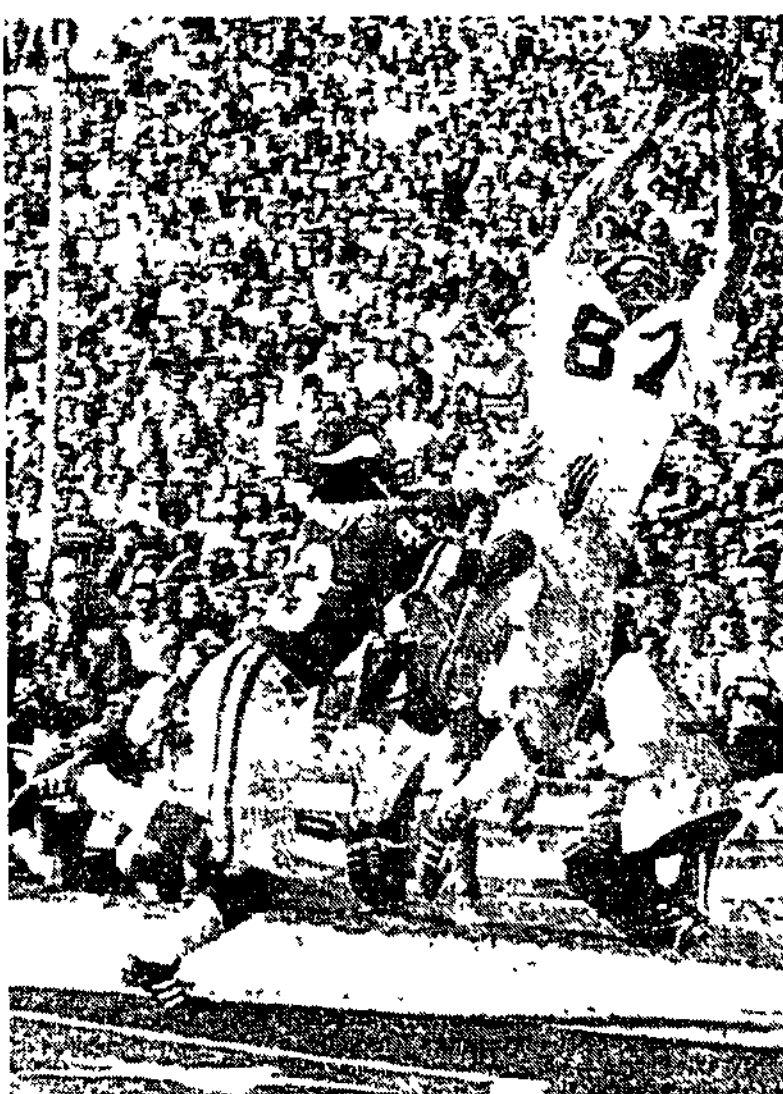

GRANT SAID he thought the team had a good chance to come back from the early 16-point deficit.

"We've been behind by 16 points before and scored 17 points in a half. This is not a game of surprises. I wasn't surprised at anything that happened out there. We thought that if we could keep Oakland from throwing the ball we would have a chance. But when they were ahead 16-0, they were able to do anything they wanted — to run when they wanted and pass when they wanted."

Minnesota's scrambling quarterback Fran Tarenton said, "We played a three-and-a-half hour dice game in front of 105,000 people. If you win, everybody thinks you're great. If you don't, you're dogs."

"I want to get away now and not see a football for a long time. Maybe in March or April I'll be ready to play again. It's a damn long road to the Super Bowl."

ASKED IF he were going to retire, Tarenton said, "I may never play again. But you're asking me at the wrong time. Everybody retires in January but they come right back in July."

Bruins skate past Hawks

Gregg Sheppard fired a shot past Tony Esposito with 18:51 gone in the third period to break a 2-2 deadlock and lift Boston past the Chicago Blackhawks 4-2 in an NHL hockey game at the Stadium Sunday night.

Bobby Schmatz dropped an insurance goal into an empty Hawk net with one second to go in the game. The triumph allowed Boston to keep pace with Buffalo at the top of the Wales Conference Adams Division race.

The setback was the second in a row for Chicago and a heartbreaker for Esposito, who had put in a brilliant effort at goaltender through the first two stanzas.

Esposito turned back 19 of 20 Boston shots in the second period. Going into the third period, the guests had out-shot Chicago, 33-13.

The Blackhawks led briefly in period two when Stan Mikita tipped in a shot off Pit Martin's stick. Pete McNab tied the game back up on a power play, his 27th goal of the season.

The teams had gone into the second period tied at 1-1.

It was Chicago's 22nd loss of the year. They have won 14 and tied six.

In other NHL action Sunday:

Marcel Dionne scored the second of his two goals with just 30 seconds left in the game to help the Los Angeles Kings continue their mastery over the New York Rangers with a 5-4 victory.

Dionne, who had a hand in all five

Los Angeles goals, took a pass from Frank St. Marseille and fired from 40 feet out over Ranger goalie Gilles Gratton's right shoulder. It was Dionne's 23rd goal of the season.

Just 20 seconds earlier, Phil Esposito completed his 27th career hat trick with what appeared to be the tying goal, scoring on one of his patented shots from the slot.

The victory broke a three-game losing streak for the Kings, who have not lost to New York in their last eight meetings, and also snapped a three-game unbeaten skein for New York.

Andre Savard scored his first career hat trick in a six-and-a-half minute span in the first period Sunday night to lead the Buffalo Sabres to a 7-4 victory over the Cleveland Barons.

Arlington takes 4th at Evanston swimming invite

Scott McCratie won in diving and Mike Roessler took second in the breaststroke as Arlington tied for fourth in the strong six-team field at the Evanston swimming invitational.

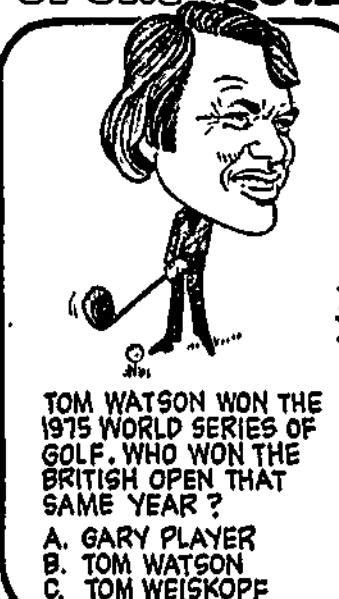

Hinsdale Central collected 87 points to win the event, followed by New Trier East with 64. Glenbrook South turned in a surprisingly strong showing to take third with 41 points.

Arlington tied with the hosts for fourth with 36 points, followed by Thornridge in sixth with 31.

Roessler's time in the breaststroke was 1:03.9. Steve Nitch took fifth in the 100-yard freestyle for the Cardinals with a time of 1:51.67.

Arlington's free relay team took third in 3:31.16.

Zikes rolls to 5th spot on pro tour

Palatine's Les Zikes became a national television celebrity for 25 minutes Saturday afternoon as he appeared in the finals of the $80,000 Miller Lite Classic from Torrence, Calif. — the first step of the professional bowlers' tour in 1977.

The 42-year-old manager of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights qualified for the show by finishing fourth in the week-long competition.

But Zikes was eliminated from the ladder-like playoffs by Dr. Farrell Hinkle, a dentist from Santa Anna, Calif., in a 226-204 thriller and finished fifth over-all.

THE OUTCOME of the opening match was not decided until Hinkle threw the first three strikes in the 10th and final frame.

Hinkle could only manage 170 in his next game and was ousted by Keith Craycraft's 224. Earl Anthony, a 27-time titlist, whipped Craycraft, 237-207 before romping over top-seeded Marshall Holman in the finals, 258-202 for a $10,000 payday.

Zikes, although averaging a whopping 217.8 for the week, was troubled by a thumb injury on his right hand, perhaps the result of rolling over 50 games during the course of the six-day competition.

The 13-year tour veteran finished "light" on half of his shots, but exploded into a nine-pin lead after three frames with his only double of the game following a four-pin leave in the first frame.

A TURKEY in the fourth frame would have propelled Les into a 20-pin lead, but his ball came up short again — leaving the five pin which indicated his ball simply was not finishing.

Hinkle trimmed Zikes' advantage to one pin with a double over the fourth and fifth frames and eventually assumed a two-pin margin as the bowlers matched spares in the sixth, seventh and eighth.

Les needed a strike in the ninth to force the issue and saved his best ball of the match for the occasion, but was unjustly penalized with a solid 10-pin which he converted with a mocking smile.

Zikes carried a light hit for a strike on his first ball in the 10th frame, but a stubborn two-pin on his next shot prevented him from applying pressure on Hinkle.

THE CHUNKY left-hander needing only a mark for a victory, calmly asked for a rare re-rack in the ninth frame and drilled four ringing strikes to close Zikes out.

The television appearance was the second for Zikes who finished third in the Miller Open in April of last year. Saturday's paycheck pushed his career earnings past the $80,000 mark.

POINT FOR PANCRAZ. An official scorer would be safe crediting anything... field goal, free throw, rebound, assist or foul...

Brothers

Pancratz boys get together for some basketball fun

The ball caromed off the rim and No. 12 soared like a Condor to intercept it in midair. Gracefully, he landed and fired in one swift movement to a teammate three quarters of the way down the court.

It was a beautiful fast break play, one worthy of a big round of applause, even after the teammate muffed the throw and it was recovered by the enemy.

But this was no Alumni Hall. It was the Cary Grove High School gym on a weekday evening and hardly any of the two dozen spectators — including both benches, the referees and the official scorer — paid much notice.

SOME THINGS will probably never change though. Number 12, Andy Pancratz, was doing what he loves best. The play could have transpired in a dimly lit Kalamazoo barn with only the chickens watching... as long as there were basketball hoops mounted on opposite doors.

Andy Pancratz. The same boyish smile is there even while the cheers from a hundred similar plays at Hershey and DePaul are now only distant rumbles in the past. And this night was special since "little" brother Kevin was home from school for the holidays to join with four other Pancratz brothers on the court.

Stahnke takes 2 firsts, paces R-B swim meet

Rolling Meadows' Tom Stahnke took two firsts to highlight area entries in the Riverside-Brookfield meet over the weekend. Elk Grove turned in the top area team performance by taking fourth in the 19-team event.

Stahnke took firsts in the 50-freestyle, with a meet record tying time of 22.68, and the 100-butterfly, with a time of 53.797. Meadows' Jim Roland took first in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 49.957.

Elk Grove won only one event, but still managed to amass enough points for a solid fourth place. Oak Park won the meet with Danville taking second and DeKalb third.

The Elk Grove 400-yard freestyle relay team of Mike Soja, Tim Bird, Ron VanDenBussche and Gary Drake, ranked 10th statewide, won their event in 3:28.098.

The Wheeling Wildcats were also entered in the meet, finishing 16th overall. Meadows finished ninth.

Andy's athletic career has left the glamour behind just as Kevin's is beginning to crest at the University of Illinois. "I guess I could have continued... tried out for pro ball," the 6-9 Blue Demon grad explained. "I had a chance to try out for one of the European teams but the clubs over there are already well-stocked with Americans thanks to the ABA folding."

"BESIDES," Andy continued, "my goal is to teach and coach in high school. It's not that easy to get into these days. I figured the sooner I began getting some teaching experience, the sooner I'd get my opportunity."

Currently, Andy teaches social studies to fifth graders at St. Theresa Elementary School in Palatine. Of course he's involved in the intramural athletic program there as well. "I really enjoy it but it's a lot different than working with older kids. It requires a lot of patience. You have to remember to keep things more general too... down at their level."

It was halftime in the Cary Grove gym and Chris, no doubt the biggest, oldest, wisest and most mischievous of the Pancratz boys, started putting the rib on Kevin.

"We had to bench him," Chris said. "He thinks he's a star. No shots from less than 50 feet out."

ON THE MORE serious side, Chris added, "It's rare that we all get this chance to play together. Kevin is usually only home for a couple of days around Christmas. He's in for over a week this time."

Kevin is wrapping up his last wrestling campaign with the Illini but was redshirted one season in football and has a year of eligibility remaining. Will he play it out?

"I'm planning on it. I like the new coach (Gary Moeller). I liked the old one too, for that matter. I think Bob Blackman might have been given a little longer period to prove himself. The program seems to be on the way up."

The mat program has definitely improved since Kevin's arrival at Champaign. It just happened to coincide with the arrival of former Hersey coach Tom Porter to take over the helm. "He's been recruiting some outstanding wrestlers and we're a young team. I'm the only senior on the squad."

KEVIN IS also healthy again after sustaining a couple of crushed feet during the grid wars. It slowed his wrestling start this winter but it was obvious by the way he took command on the basketball court this night that he was back at 100 per cent.

Andy had been teaming with brother Rich and his brother-in-law, former Fremd cager Paul Stanczak, to help the Home Health Center team build up a solid halftime lead. Now Chris signaled to the bench to bring on Matt and all the Pancratz boys were in the lineup at once.

"TD, TD," chanted Andy as Kevin rambled down the floor with the ball on a one-on-four fast break. Chris had obviously been exaggerating because Kevin pulled up to shoot a mere 30 feet away from the hoop. It missed.

Matt, meanwhile, must have been anxious to disassociate himself with this flying circus. "That was my fifth," he boasted when the ref signaled a foul under the opposing bucket.

ASSURED THAT it was only his fourth, Matt resigned himself to continue playing just as two enemy guards made the mistake of attacking a loose ball Kevin was about to pounce on.

Double thud. It was like marshmallows squashing off a brick fence.

Kevin finally connected on one of his twilight shots and the brothers applauded wildly.

All along Rich wasn't saying much: Just taking those long passes Andy was feeding him off the defensive boards and popping in baseline 15-footers.

Chris hit a pretty one from outside just before the game ended. "You know," he admitted, "I never played any sports when I was at St. Viator." It was a definite Lion loss.

The Home Health Center had crushed The Pub, 64-40, and Kevin wanted to go another 40. As they gathered for a photo, Chris smiled and said, "A last place team like us doesn't deserve all this publicity."

It's hard to believe that Andy Pancratz would ever associate himself with cellar dwellers. There was no doubt though that a team like this could go places with a natural such as 250-pound offensive lineman Kevin in the backcourt full time.

Pro sports study will determine baseball's status

by SAM FOGG

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Major league baseball's exemption from the antitrust laws, once described by a federal judge as "an impotent zombie," finally may be certified as dead by the 85th Congress. But don't call the undertaker yet.

The unique blanket immunity granted by the Supreme Court in 1922 was attacked as unjustified last week by the House Committee on Professional Sports. However, the committee delayed recommending immediate legislation to strip baseball of the exemption until a further overall sports antitrust study can be made.

Tony Coelho, chief counsel for the committee and top aide to Chairman B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., predicts a bill to end baseball's unique exemption will be in the works this year but the sport has succeeded for more than half a century in fending off previous legal and legislative challenges.

TWENTY-SEVEN years after the original Supreme Court ruling that baseball was a sport rather than an interstate business, former New York Giant outfielder Danny Gardella brought an antitrust suit protesting he had been barred from playing after he jumped to the short-lived Mexican League. Two U.S. Appeals Court judges — Learned Hand and Jerome N. Frank — ruled for Gardella with Frank declaring the 1922 Supreme Court judgment was "an impotent zombie."

Because baseball settled the 1949 case out of court with Gardella and seven other Mexican League jumpers, the Supreme Court did not deal directly with the question until 1953 when it sustained baseball's immunity and again in 1971 when former St. Louis Cardinal outfielder Curt Flood lost an antitrust challenge to the reserve clause.

But in the Sisk committee's final report, baseball was cast in a loser's role for the first time in congressional action. The report said "adequate justification does not exist for baseball's special exemption from the antitrust laws and . . . its exemption should be removed in the context of overall sports antitrust reform."

It directed that a special successor committee — all but certain to be created — should demand previously confidential bookkeeping figures from the owners and ride herd on possible antitrust legislative action.

HERE IS THE legislative box-score on the committee's other recommendations involving pro baseball, football, basketball and hockey:

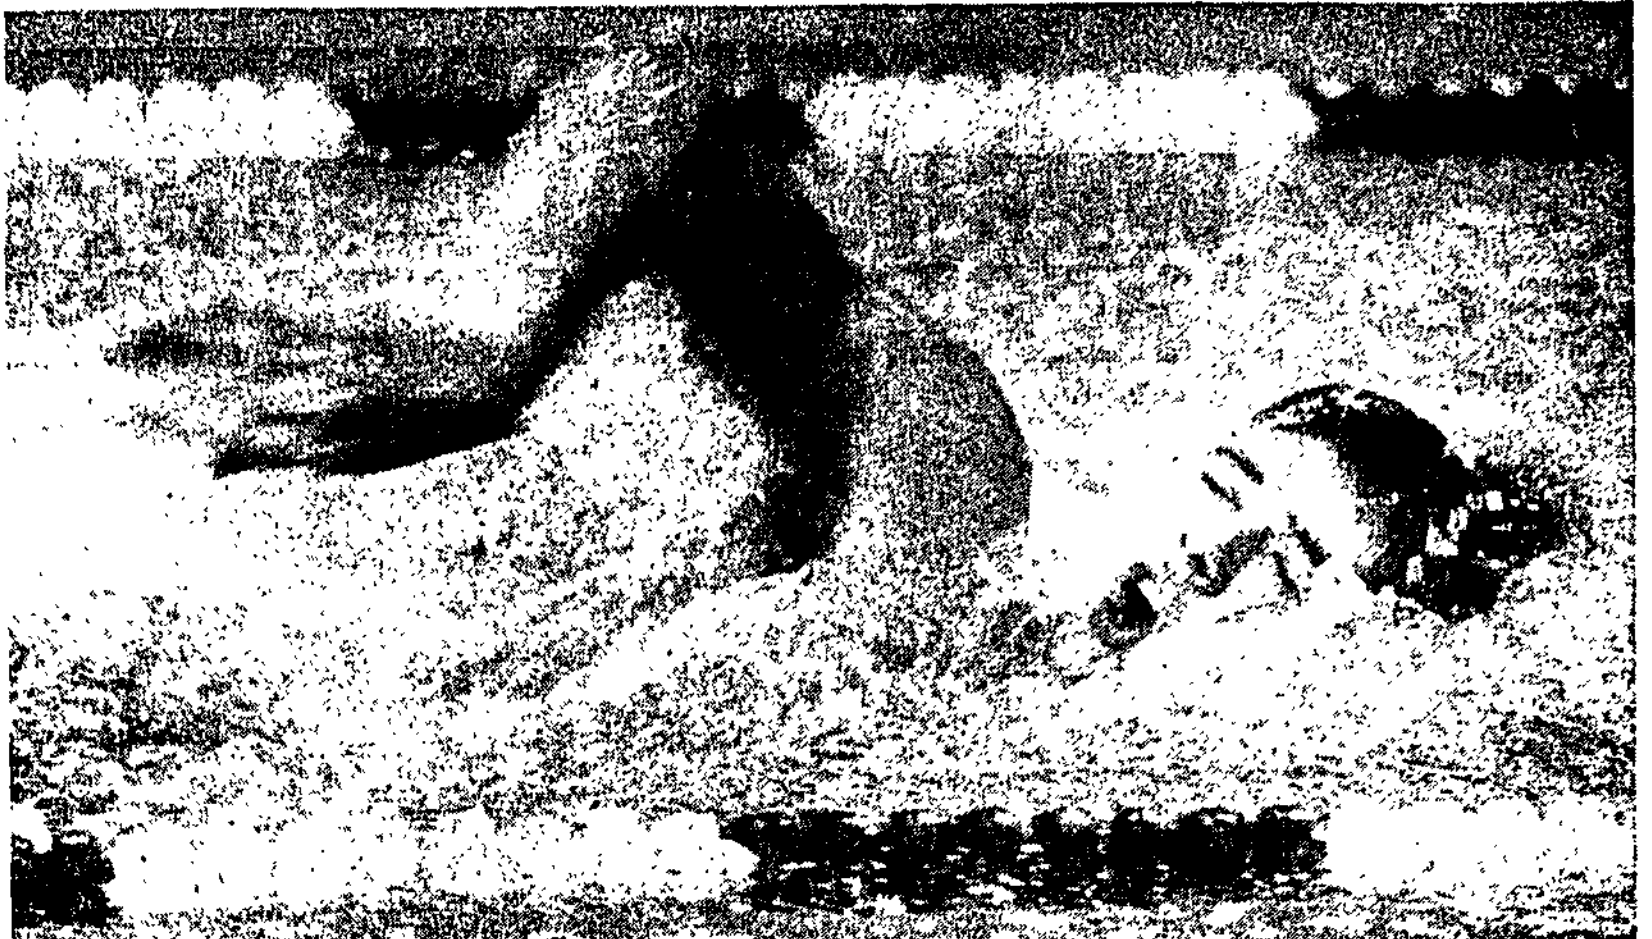

- The NFL Players Assoc. seemed to have won the most favorable treatment. The report advocated two proposals urged by the football players union — expedited handling of unfair labor practice claims by pro athletes and a thorough study by government agencies of whether artificial turf leads to more injuries.

- The football owners were dealt with adversely in a recommendation that the new Congress revive the federal television antitrust law which died in the last session.

- All four sports, but particularly hockey, were criticized for failing to do enough on curbing violence and countenancing the use of drugs to enhance player performances.

- CANADIAN hockey players and referees, Latin American baseball players and soccer stars from abroad would benefit from a recommendation that the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service makes it easier for them to play with American teams without having to unsnarl administrative red tape.

The successor committee which will probably consist of 12 of the original 13 members would be given two years to pursue the investigation into the economics of the sports industry, touch on issues involving both amateur and professional athletics in a minor way, study the problems of other pro sports and the relationship of local governments and sports franchises.

PACESETTER. Rolling Meadows' Tom Stahnke opens up a lead en route to a win in the 20-freestyle against Wheeling. Stahnke butterfly (with a time of 53.797) in the Riverside-Brookfield meet.

Mid-Suburban teams fall outside league; Stevenson coasts, 75-58

A Herald Staff Report

There have been better nights. Herald area basketball teams engaged in four confrontations Saturday, and only one — Stevenson — was able to pull out a victory.

Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows and Conant of the Mid-Suburban suffered setbacks in non-conference activity.

SAXONS FALL, 66-60

Lake Park used a balanced offensive attack and an effective defense on high-scoring John Chmiel to turn back the Schaumburg Saxons, 66-60, in a conference battle at Schaumburg Saturday night.

Four Lancers reached double figures, led by guard Kevin Dolan and center Dan Barnes, who each tallied 16 points. It was three baskets by Barnes, a 6-6 senior, that broke open a 40-49 game midway through the final quarter. The contest had been tied four times during a see-saw third period.

CHMIEL FINISHED with 21 points for the night, slightly below his 23-point average, but the 6-7 junior had only nine in the first half and was completely shut off in the fourth quarter when Lake Park moved out to a 10-point lead.

The Saxons had actually led 21-16 at one point in the second period, opening up the margin on baskets by Chmiel, Jack Breen and John Moran. But the Lancers, taking advantage of their free-throw accuracy and hot shooting by Dolan, Barnes, and Lester Mokrzycki, built a 35-29 lead by halftime.

Moran wound up with 14 points for Schaumburg, 10 of them in the second half. Breen had seven and George Tuzil, a 6-4 sophomore, had eight points.

LAKE PARK SHOT 18-for-28 from the line and made just nine turnovers to the Saxons' 22.

The loss was the Saxons' 11th in 14 games.

MUSTANGS MAROONED

Rolling Meadows, forced to play catchup basketball from the opening tip, rallied to within two points of visiting Elgin Saturday night before falling, 50-38.

The Mustangs were out-rebounded, 21-10 in the first half as the Maroons continually enjoyed the luxury of second and third shots at the basket. Elgin broke on top, 15-6 and 24-15 at the intermission before Meadows caught fire.

Sparked by Bob Rose's eight points and Jeff Schrock's five offensive boards, the Mustangs clawed to within 33-31 late in the third period.

BUT ELGIN, with all-state footballer Richard Hersey and Scott Cole sharing balanced scoring honors with 11 apiece, broke the contest open in the fourth period behind a 12-7 scoring spree.

The Maroons completely shut off Rolling Meadows center Kevin Riley who went scoreless from the field and cashed one of three free throws. Kent Walker tried to pick up the scoring slack with 15. Meadows record slipped to 7-6.

COUGARS LOSE AGAIN

Conant is still looking for its first win of the season after dropping a 57-40 decision at Naperville Central Saturday night.

The Cougars, now 0-10, stayed close for most of the game on the shooting of Rob Totten, Dave Brumm, and sophomore Bill Schimbke. But Naperville and 6-3 gunner Tim Riley were too strong at the finish.

Riley tossed in 24 points, all from his favorite spot in the corner, and teammate 6-4 Jeff Walker added 10 points as Central turned a three-point ball game into a rout in the final three minutes.

"WE PLAYED a good ball game for three and a half quarters," said Conant coach Dick Redlinger. "But that Riley kid just killed us. He hit 12 in a row from that spot of his."

After Conant sliced a 36-29 deficit to three with about four minutes left, Naperville held the ball and forced the Cougars to come out and get it, setting up several easy layups for the winners.

Totten was high scorer for the Cougars with 11 points. Brumm and Schimbke had eight each and Dave Plumb and Roger Schweigert had six points apiece.

CORDES ROLLS ON

Stevenson's Mark Cordes, who had 30 points Friday night, came back with 37 Saturday in a 75-58 conquest of Lake Zurich.

The victory gave the Patriots their biggest weekend of the season. They routed Cary Grove on Friday 89-64 with 10 players scoring.

EASY STREET. Conant's Rick Francisson (40) puts up one of the world's easiest two-pointers as Derek Storm of Hoffman Estates can only watch. Francisson, a junior, led the Cougars with 10 points Friday, but Storm scored five points in the final two minutes as Hoffman won 49-46.

Elk Grove hits season gym high

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Gymnastics Editor

The Mid-Suburban League gymnastics teams began to flex their muscles again after the Christmas break with a heavy schedule of dual meets and invitational over the weekend.

Elk Grove's Grenadiers busted loose for a season high 129.85 to 101.53 conference win over Schaumburg while Palatine, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Rolling Meadows won non-conference dual meets.

Prospect took a second in the Wheaton North Invitational to round out the winners.

THOSE LESS fortunate were Hersey (a slim loser to Niles East) and Hoffman Estates (which dropped a dual meet to Lake Park).

Elk Grove hit their high score of the year despite 11 major breaks on their routines and head coach Fred Gaines is looking forward to the rest of the season.

"We're just now putting it together," he said. "We knew we had the potential to score higher than we had been but we're still pretty shaky.

"The kids throw what they can but I'd like to get another meet like this one so we can get some consistency."

DON BOSSLET (8.2 on free ex), Bob Beaupre (7.7 on side horse) and Doug Phillips (8.0 on P-Bars and 7.9 on rings) led the Grens.

Schaumburg's 101.53 was their high for the season, also.

Mark Sterle's 7.65 free ex routine was the Saxons' best score of the meet.

Rolling Meadows got a fine 7.00 all-around effort from Mike Illingworth to turn back York, 134.85 to 113.10.

THE HIGHLIGHT of Illingworth's afternoon was an 8.85 free ex routine.

"Mike is opening with a double back and closing with a double full," said Mustang coach Vic Avigliano. "That's pretty much a college caliber routine. I think he'll be up to 9.0 pretty soon."

Illingworth also won the high bar event with a 7.85 while Mike DiPiero won P-Bars (8.15) and Mike Meyer took the rings (8.5).

Glenn Johnson, despite shooting an 8.4, lost the tramp to York's Dean Raffan (8.85).

WHEELING GOT event titles from Jim Slepicka (free ex, 7.3), Tim Olson (side horse, 7.55), Jeff Vanyek (high bar, 7.85; P-Bars, 7.45 and all-around, 5.51) and Jamie Wallace (rings, 8.15) as they dumped New Trier East 125.77 to 91.53.

Palatine took all the event titles in an 84.02 to 46.01 dual meet win over North Chicago.

Paul Jacobs took two (free ex, 7.3 and trampoline, 6.0) and Ron Bakken three (high bar, 4.05; side horse, 3.8 and all-around, 4.8). Matt Hass (rings, 4.7) and Bob Cummings (P-Bars, 5.05) completed the Pirate sweep.

Buffalo Grove put together the MSL's best dual meet score of the weekend as they hit 135.94 to defeat Lyons Township and Maine East.

PROSPECT TOOK a second in the Wheaton North Invite as Jeff Christian (first on side horse, 7.4), Joe Miller (second on free ex, 7.6), Brian Hulka (third on rings, 7.6), Mark Norwell (second on tramp, 7.7) and Bob Armstrong (third on tramp, 6.5) provided the Knights' strength.

Hersey was nudged by Niles East 126.26 to 125.04 in a nonconference dual meet. The Huskies' best efforts came from Tim Von Ebers (free ex, 7.25), Paul Brown (side horse, 7.0), Jeff Braddock (high bar, 7.35 and rings, 7.5) Bob Solomon (tramp, 7.5) and Jim Hueck (P-Bars, 7.0 and all-around, 6.35).

Hoffman Estates suffered from a lack of depth as they fell to Lake Park, 73.72 to 67.81.

The Hawks got event titles from Phil Braverman (P-Bars, 6.85; rings, 4.65 and all-around, 4.76), Russ Lewinski (side horse, 3.6) and Mike Soression (trampoline, 4.45) but were missing too many gymnasts to win the meet.

Guard woes at Harper; Hawks fall to Joliet

Harper coach Roger Bechtold got a taste of what a season without guards will be like as the Joliet Wolves jumped to a 29-6 lead and cruised to an 87-67 win Saturday.

Those old devil books stripped the Hawks (3-9) of guards Jim Arden, Ken Hanks and Mike Abraham. That left Bechtold with Ed Chmiel, John Carbery and Mike Nichol to fill in.

"It's such a mental thing to play guard," Bechtold said, "and it takes time to learn. But with Joliet's quickness they just frustrated us completely."

Bechtold's problems will be further compounded as they get into the meat of their conference schedule, taking on powerhouses such as Rock Valley and Wright.

Carbery fared the best of Harper's new guards, popping for 13 points. Scott Green was the game's high scorer with 14 points while Nichol hit for 10.

After trailing 44-18 at halftime, the Hawks regrouped somewhat to make the second half respectable.

Bechtold is hoping that respectability will carry over into the remaining games.

"We've got a long season ahead of us now," he said. "There are a lot of tough transitions to make but I know the kids still on the team want to play."

Thompson inaugural gala today

by STEVE BROWN
SPRINGFIELD — Marching bands from Prospect, Wheeling and Stevenson high schools today will participate in the gubernatorial inaugural ceremonies for Republican James R. Thompson.

The Northwest suburban groups will be part of the 142 bands and other marching units that will take part in the first inaugural parade in Springfield since 1948.

But long underwear and galoshes may be needed for parade-goers with 4 inches of snow expected to fall today.

"Do a sunshine dance," David Gilbert, Thompson's press secretary said Sunday.

Besides Thompson, Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, Atty. Gen. William Scott,

Comptroller Michael Bakalis and Sec. of State Alan Dixon will be sworn into office in a joint ceremony.

THE OFFICIALS will get a two-day jump on the Illinois General Assembly, whose members do not take the oath of office until Wednesday.

The inaugural activities will include a host of parties, receptions and dances. The actual swearing-in ceremonies will take place in the Illinois State Armory Building near the State Capitol.

Thompson will not repeat the outdoor ceremonies used by Gov. Daniel Walker four years ago.

The Republican first opted for an outdoor ceremony, but Scott, Bakalis, Dixon and O'Neal all said they preferred an inside location.

WHILE THE armory will seat 5,000, the inaugural committee plans to tele-

cast the ceremonies to two Springfield hotels for persons who may not be able to gain admittance to the building. Several Chicago and Downstate television stations also will broadcast portions of the events.

Thompson selected to organize the activities, Michael Dunn, a 24-year-old Rockford man who worked as a fundraiser during the campaign, and 39-year-old Robert L. Radmacher of Springfield, a campaign advance man.

They relied on the Illinois National Guard and Illinois State Police for advice. Aides to Walker and former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also provided assistance.

Thompson and his wife, Jayne, will begin the day at a special service at the First Presbyterian Church here. Later in the morning they will meet with Walker and his family at the 50-room governor's mansion that will become Thompson's home this week.

While the 8,000 marchers are shuttled through the armory for a hot dog and baked bean lunch, Thompson and State GOP Chairman Don Adams will host a luncheon for VIPs at the Forum 30 Hotel.

THE EVENING inaugural activities will begin with a concert by the Belleville Symphony Orchestra in the State Capitol.

Two inaugural balls will follow in the evening. Thompson aides said his pledge to be the governor for the entire state will be carried out through the inaugural activities. The committee carefully invited guests from Cook County and Southern Illinois to one party, while Northern and Central

Illinois guests will gather at another hotel.

Both parties are scheduled to end at midnight. Thompson hopes to begin the 1st working day of his new administration Tuesday with the announcement of several cabinet choices, his press aide said.

The cost of inaugural activities carry a $65,000 price tag. A special committee, apart from Thompson's campaign fund-raisers, was established to obtain contributions for the event.

MOST NEW administrations do not plan outdoor events, but a confident Thompson, who appeared in countless parades during the campaign, began inviting high school bands to play for his inaugural during a late October

Bitter cold to follow snowstorm

Northwest suburban residents can expect a couple of clear days this week following an anticipated four-inch snowfall Sunday night and early today on top of an estimated three inches of snow which accumulated Sunday morning.

The National Weather Service Sunday said frigid air from Wisconsin will grip the area until Wednesday, bringing temperatures ranging from zero to 15 below.

Weather service spokesmen warned

travelers in Illinois to be wary of bad road conditions brought on by drifting snow. Heavy snow warnings continue for areas along the Mississippi River. Travelers' advisories are in effect today statewide.

The immediate area was spared from the worst weather this weekend, which raised havoc in communities in Minnesota and Wisconsin, cutting off power and killing at least one person.

Car batteries were frozen near the western Minnesota town of Willmar. Ice crystals formed in the air near the Mississippi River. A power pole snapped near Chippewa Falls, Wis., cutting off heat and power to several families.

In St. Louis, authorities found the body of Roland French, 45, on the front porch of his residence, an apparent victim of exposure. Unofficially, the temperature dropped to 60 degrees below zero in Rice Lake, Wis., early Sunday.

Security checks planned for CB crime patrols

The backgrounds of volunteers for a proposed Des Plaines Citizens Band radio crime patrol will be "thoroughly checked" before the operation begins in April, said Ald. Arthur Erbach, 5th, an organizer of the program.

Erbach said about 30 Des Plaines residents have volunteered to participate in the CB patrol and more are expected. He said, however, applicants will be screened to make sure the program gets "the right kind of people."

"The police department believes the people should be checked out," Erbach said. "We wouldn't want to contribute unknowingly to something like a burglary ring that would take advantage of a program like this."

THE ALDERMAN said he hopes to call another meeting of volunteers in the next two or three weeks to select a committee to work out details of the patrol force with the city police department.

Des Plaines is considering formation of the patrol force modeled on a similar program in Mount Prospect and other suburbs. Volunteers, using their own cars, would patrol the streets of the city looking for accidents, crimes and suspicious activities. Information would be radioed to the police department which would dispatch cars to the scene. The CB patrol volunteers would not become involved in law enforcement.

Erbach said the police department and volunteers for the program both agree the patrol should act only as extra "eyes and ears" of the police.

"The police don't want them to be police officers, and they (the CB volunteers) don't want to be cops," he said. "That's something everybody is agreed upon."

THOSE FORMING the patrol want the program to be geared only to Des Plaines and involve only Des Plaines residents, Erbach said. He said the group will not be associated directly with the Cook County Affiliated League of Emergency Radio Operators, a private organization which uses CB radios.

ALERT has been criticized by suburban law enforcement officials because members wear police-like uniforms, carry badges and become involved in police business.

"The tenor of the Des Plaines residents involved is to discourage that connection," Erbach said. "If someone of that group wants to be a member of the patrol and he lives in Des Plaines, that's fine. That shouldn't be held against him. But other than that, there will be no such connection."

Carter's church won't accept black activist

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter and fellow members of the Plains Baptist Church voted "without opposition" Sunday to reject the membership application of black activist Rev. Clennon King. They said he had been uncooperative and does not live in the community.

The congregation also voted to reject on similar grounds the applications of Austin Black, also a black and Charlotte Weinberger, both of Los Angeles.

As the results of the vote were read to reporters outside the church by state Sen. Hugh Carter, the president elect's cousin and a spokesman for the congregation, King interrupted him to say:

"You are telling a true lie on the church door steps. You're reading something that faults in the eyes of God."

Swine flu vaccine is gathering dust in cold storage

by KURT BAER

• The State of Illinois has 2 million doses of swine flu vaccine in cold storage in Springfield and is uncertain what, if anything, to do with it.

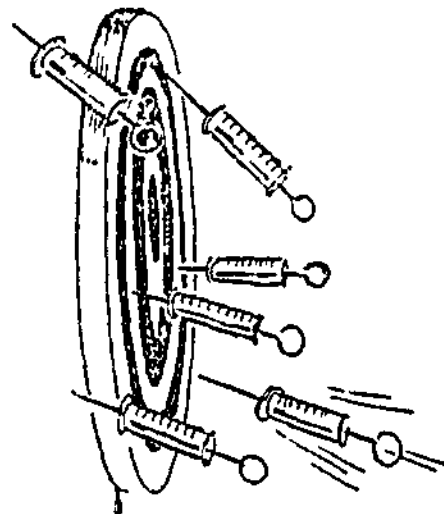

• The Cook County Public Health Dept. has cases of swine flu vaccine it wants to give back to the state.

• Nationally, Some 50 million doses of vaccine are sitting on shelves and still more is in various stages of production.

Such is the aftermath of the nation's $135 million swine flu vaccination program three weeks after it was halted abruptly because of fears the vaccine can cause a rare form of paralysis called Guillain-Barre syndrome.

Officials at the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., say the mass inoculation program will not be restarted unless swine flu reaches epidemic proportions around the nation.

So far, the center reports, there have been relatively few flu cases of any type reported in the country.

The fact that Swine flu vaccine has to be refrigerated adds to the storage problem. If it is out of cold storage for more than eight hours, the vaccine is ineffective, said Austin Hayes, public health educator for the State of Illinois.

AS LONG AS IT is kept cold, swine flu vaccine has a shelf life of one year.

"Some people have given us storage space but if we have to keep the vaccine for a year, I don't imagine anyone will be too happy," Hayes said.

Illinois has more swine flu vaccine in storage than it has been able to dispense. Approximately 1.8 million doses were administered in the state to only 25 to 30 per cent of the eligible population, Hayes said.

The state received more than $500,000 from the federal government to pay for the vaccination plan, in addition to the free vaccine. Twenty-three state workers were hired exclusively for the program, Hayes said. The center loaned the state 33 jet injectors.

"We're all waiting to see what CDC comes up with," Hayes said. "Until we know what they want to do,

we're holding on to it."

DR. JOHN B. HALL, head of the Cook County Public Health Dept., said the county does not have a lot of vaccine in storage. But what the county does have it would like to give back to the state, he said.

"We did have a problem that the flu vaccine was taking up space we needed for our measles vaccine. But we were able to take care of the measles program," Dr. Hall said.

CDC spokesman Robert Alden said a decision on possibly resuming the vaccination program is possible.

A state-by-state count shows 42 million of the 100 million doses of vaccine shipped have been administered, he said, adding that "manufacturers have a certain amount in processing as well."

Alden said he did not know of any other use for swine flu vaccine. It does not appear that it can be converted into vaccine for other types of flu, he said.

"We're just holding on to what we've got. Whatever is out there is being stored until there is a final determination whether the program will ever proceed."

Inauguration bound

They put up Jimmy Carter for a night last March and now they've been invited to White House

by DIANE GRANAT

"Jimmy Carter Slept Here" reads the inscription on the brass plaque Rodney and Mary Ruth received as a Christmas gift.

The gift was a gag, but Carter's March 10 visit with the Park Ridge couple was no joke. Now their hospitality is being returned with an invitation from their former house guest to a reception at the White House after Carter's inauguration Jan. 20.

The Ruths, 620 S. Vine Ave., were among 800 persons who welcomed Carter or members of his family into their homes during Carter's trek across the country as a presidential candidate. Rodney Ruth thinks this personal touch in Carter's campaign helped win some votes by setting off "a chain reaction of good will."

"THAT WAS A very sharp idea he had, staying in private homes instead of motels," Ruth

said. "You don't make any hay staying in hotels."

The Ruths were selected to host Carter just before the Illinois primary because they are friends of Jim Wall, Carter's Illinois campaign chairman.

"We always thought Jim asked us because we were close to O'Hare," said Ruth, 64. "But Jim said, 'We chose somebody we thought would get the biggest kick out of it.'"

"We did," Ruth admitted. "We were just knocked out by it. We've been laughing ever since."

Preparing the Ruths' home for Carter's stay was a detailed process. Secret Service men arrived a week in advance to inspect the house, three telephones were installed and the night Carter stayed there, five Secret Service men guarded the house.

"I NEVER FELT so secure in my life," Ruth said.

Besides the impression left by the candidate's entourage, the Ruths say they were equally stirred by Carter himself.

"He had been briefed so well," Ruth said. "He knew that I was a book illustrator. He came in and looked at my watercolors on the wall and he said he'd like to see some of the books I illustrated."

Carter talked with the Ruths and their son and daughter-in-law for about 30 minutes before retiring, Ruth recalled. "He had a glass of milk and some cookies before he went to sleep," Mrs. Ruth said.

For breakfast the next morning Ruth said there were "no grits, just the regular scrambled eggs, bacon, toast, juice and coffee routine." Carter was off by 7 a.m. with only one neighbor having the slightest suspicion, Ruth said.

"HE LEFT A warm feeling in our home and I assume he did in other places," Mrs. Ruth said.

The Ruths continued to follow Carter throughout his campaign and just before Christmas they got an invitation to the inauguration.

"But we found out that invitation goes out to 300,000 people, so we decided we weren't going to go," Ruth said.

"Then we got an invitation to one of the balls," he said. "But 25,000 are invited, so I said no."

"The Monday after Christmas we got a third invitation to a reception at the White House the day after the inauguration for 400 couples who opened their homes to Carter and his family. Now we're going to the whole deal."

Ruth said he and his wife will take a charter flight for Illinois residents attending the inaugural. "It's going to cost 300 bucks," he said. "But once in a lifetime you have to shoot the works."

620 S. VINE AVE., Park Ridge, is the place where Jimmy Carter slept and now Rodney and Mary Ruth have a plaque to commemorate the visit of their newsworthy house guest. The Ruths have been invited to the White House after Carter's inauguration as a thank-you for their hospitality during the campaign.

FIREFIGHTERS BATTLED a major blaze at the Maryville Academy in Des Plaines Friday night. Cause of the blaze, which took more than seven hours to bring under control, was still unknown Sunday. Nine area fire departments were called.

Officials probing fire at Maryville

Des Plaines fire officials are investigating the cause of a major blaze which broke out at the Maryville Academy in Des Plaines Friday night, causing extensive damage to an unoccupied building at 1150 N. River Rd.

Fire Lt. Charles Provenzano said Sunday the blaze destroyed the inside structure of the building's east end.

"All the floors and the roof have collapsed as a result of the fire," Provenzano said. "The outer structure is still standing, though."

FIREFIGHTERS from nine area departments battled for more than seven hours to bring the blaze under control. Parts of the empty building were reported to be smoldering Sunday.

A Maryville spokesman said the building was scheduled to be demolished this week. The fire was reported by two Maryville youths shortly after it broke out at 11:30 p.m.

Assistance was given by fire departments from Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Niles, Park Ridge, Elk Grove Village, Glenbrook, Rosemont, North Maine, Arlington Heights and the Skokie Civilian Defense Unit.

Early reports said the fire broke out on the building's second floor, which formerly housed administrative offices.

FIRE BROKE OUT at the home for dependent youths April 5, 1976, and firefighters suspected arsonists set fires in a washroom and a bedroom. A major blaze also broke out at the academy Dec. 21, 1975, when flames caused extensive damage to a garage and storage area in the old main building.

In that blaze, two firefighters received minor injuries when they were struck by a falling ladder.

Provenzano said the cause of the blaze may be determined this week by the Des Plaines Fire Prevention Bureau.

Bolek to ask RTA to fix station

Des Plaines will ask the Regional Transportation Authority to finance construction of a new downtown commuter station, or renovate the existing one.

Mayor Charles J. Bolek has asked to meet with RTA officials on ways of improving the old brick commuter station on Milner Street between Lee and Pearson streets. A date for the meeting has not been set.

In a letter to the RTA, Bolek said the station not only looks bad, but causes traffic congestion in the area. The station accommodates frequent loading of trains, buses and taxicabs.

Seven North Suburban Mass Transit District bus routes use the station, Bolek said, with a total of 204 arrivals and departures each weekday. Bolek said traffic is especially heavy at the corner of Pearson and Ellinwood streets.

Finding a new location for the station may be one solution, but the plan is "strictly in the preliminary stage," Bolek said.

The RTA recently purchased commuter services from the Chicago and North Western Ry.

Hearing today on 10-45% water rate hike

A hearing on a request by Domestic Utilities Co., Glenview, to raise Maine Township residential water rates from 10 to 45 per cent will be conducted at 11 a.m. today by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Robert Worski, hearing examiner, said officials of the private utility are expected to finish their testimony in favor of the rate increase at the meeting at the State of Illinois Building, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago. Worski said no ruling will be made at the hearing.

The utility is requesting a residential water rate increase ranging from 10 to 45 per cent depending on the amount of water used. The company serves about 30,000 residents in unincorporated Maine Township. The company also is seeking a 25 per cent increase in sewage rates and a 37 per cent increase in water rates for its large commercial users.

If approved by the ICC, a customer using 10,000 gallons of water or less each month will see his bill increase from $9.00 to $10.90. Company officials say about 8,500 of its 9,000 customers use less than 10,000 gallons a month and are classified as small users.

Thompson will not repeat the outdoor ceremonies used by Gov. Daniel Walker four years ago.

The Republican first opted for an outdoor ceremony, but Scott, Bakalis, Dixon and O'Neal all said they preferred an inside location.

WHILE THE armory will seat 5,000, the inaugural committee plans to tele-

cast the ceremonies to two Springfield hotels for persons who may not be able to gain admittance to the building. Several Chicago and Downstate television stations also will broadcast portions of the events.

Thompson selected to organize the activities, Michael Dunn, a 24-year-old Rockford man who worked as a fundraiser during the campaign, and 39-year-old Robert L. Radmacher of Springfield, a campaign advance man.

They relied on the Illinois National Guard and Illinois State Police for advice. Aides to Walker and former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also provided assistance.

Thompson and his wife, Jayne, will begin the day at a special service at the First Presbyterian Church here. Later in the morning they will meet with Thompson and his family at the 50-room governor's mansion that will become Thompson's home this week.

While the 8,000 marchers are shuttled through the armory for a hot dog and baked bean lunch, Thompson and State GOP Chairman Don Adams will host a luncheon for VIPs at the Forum 30 Hotel.

THE EVENING inaugural activities will begin with a concert by the Belleville Symphony Orchestra in the State Capitol.

Two inaugural balls will follow in the evening. Thompson aides said his pledge to be the governor for the entire state will be carried out through the inaugural activities. The committee carefully invited guests from Cook County and Southern Illinois to one party, while Northern and Central

Illinois guests will gather at another hotel.

Both parties are scheduled to end at midnight. Thompson hopes to begin the 1st working day of his new administration Tuesday with the announcement of several cabinet choices, his press aide said.

The cost of inaugural activities carry a $65,000 price tag. A special committee, apart from Thompson's campaign fund-raisers, was established to obtain contributions for the event.

MOST NEW administrations do not plan outdoor events, but a confident Thompson, who appeared in countless parades during the campaign, began inviting high school bands to play for his inaugural during a late October

Bitter cold to follow snowstorm

Northwest suburban residents can expect a couple of clear days this week following an anticipated four-inch snowfall Sunday night and early today on top of an estimated three inches of snow which accumulated Sunday morning.

The National Weather Service Sunday said frigid air from Wisconsin will grip the area until Wednesday, bringing temperatures ranging from zero to 15 below.

Weather service spokesmen warned

travelers in Illinois to be wary of bad road conditions brought on by drifting snow. Heavy snow warnings continue for areas along the Mississippi River. Travelers' advisories are in effect today statewide.

The immediate area was spared from the worst weather this weekend, which raised havoc in communities in Minnesota and Wisconsin, cutting off power and kiln at least one person.

Car batteries were frozen near the western Minnesota town of Willmar. Ice crystals formed in the air near the Mississippi River. A power pole snapped near Chippewa Falls, Wis., cutting off heat and power to several families.

In St. Louis, authorities found the body of Rolland French, 45, on the front porch of his residence, an apparent victim of exposure. Unofficially, the temperature dropped to 60 degrees below zero in Rice Lake, Wis., early Sunday.

Heroes they're not, but they get the job done

by DEBBE JONAK

Wheeling Fire Department's scuba squad members are not heroes.

They arrive too late for that. They are called when the heroes fall, when a life is lost. Their job is to find drowning victims.

If they are successful, no cheers, awards or hugs await them. Rather, they are greeted with looks of anguish on the faces of the victim's friends and relatives whose worst fears have been confirmed.

"You don't let yourself get personally involved. If you did, you couldn't be in this business," Andy Neargarder, firefighter and underwater recovery team member, said.

"IT'S LIKE working on an accident victim that's in bad shape, or a fire victim — it's part of the job."

The Wheeling group was formed in 1971 with three members. It was one of the first teams in Cook County. Since then most surrounding communities have established similar squads. Wheeling's squad now consists of six firefighters, trained in underwater recovery.

Wheeling fire officials saw a need for the squad because of the lakes and the growing number of retention ponds in the area.

"The potential for accidents is here," Neargarder said.

The area has Echo and Potawatomi lakes, the Des Plaines River, and some retention ponds.

The team averages six recovery missions a year in neighboring Lake County. The squad participates both in the Cook County and the Lake County mutual aid box alarm system.

WHEN A DROWNING occurs, mutual aid members closest to the scene are summoned. They respond with any available divers.

Winter calls usually come from northern Lake County in the Chain o' Lakes vicinity, where snowmobilers sometimes wander on to thin ice.

Although the Wheeling group is training this month for ice recoveries, most of the local drownings occur in summer months.

The quarries near Vernon Hills and Half Day are familiar places to Neargarder. They are "no swimming" areas frequented by youths.

He recounted one of the many drowning recoveries there in which he participated.

"It was a boy in his late teens. He was swimming with some friends in the quarry behind the Roman House."

The Roman House is on Milwaukee Avenue in Prairie View. Vernon Hills Fire Dept. received the call. They notified mutual aid members, including Wheeling.

"WITHIN AN HOUR after he (the boy) went down, we were up there,"

Carter's church won't accept black activist

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter and fellow members of the Plains Baptist Church voted "without opposition" Sunday to reject the membership application of black activist Rev. Clennon King. They said he had been uncooperative and does not live in the community.

The congregation also voted to reject on similar grounds the applications of Austin Black, also a black and Charlotte Weinberger, both of Los Angeles.

As the results of the vote were read to reporters outside the church by state Sen. Hugh Carter, the president-elect's cousin and a spokesman for the congregation, King interrupted him to say:

Swine flu vaccine is gathering dust in cold storage

by KURT BAER

• The State of Illinois has 2 million doses of swine flu vaccine in cold storage in Springfield and is uncertain what, if anything, to do with it.

• The Cook County Public Health Dept. has cases of swine flu vaccine it wants to give back to the state.

• Nationally, Some 50 million doses of vaccine are sitting on shelves and still more is in various stages of production.

Such is the aftermath of the nation's $135 million swine flu vaccination program three weeks after it was halted abruptly because of fears the vaccine can cause a rare form of paralysis called Guillain-Barre syndrome.

Officials at the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., say the mass inoculation program will not be restarted unless swine flu reaches epidemic proportions around the nation.

So far, the center reports, there have been relatively few flu cases of any type reported in the county.

The fact that Swine flu vaccine has to be refrigerated adds to the storage problem. If it is out of cold storage for more than eight hours, the vaccine is ineffective, said Austin Hayes, public health educator for the State of Illinois.

AS LONG AS IT is kept cold, swine flu vaccine has a shelf life of one year.

"Some people have given us storage space but if we have to keep the vaccine for a year, I don't imagine anyone will be too happy," Hayes said.

Illinois has more swine flu vaccine in storage than it has been able to dispense. Approximately 1.6 million doses were administered in the state to only 25 to 30 percent of the eligible population, Hayes said.

The state received more than $500,000 from the federal government to pay for the vaccination plan, in addition to the free vaccine. Twenty-three state workers were hired exclusively for the program, Hayes said. The center loaned the state 33 jet injector guns.

"We're all waiting to see what CDC comes up with," Hayes said. "Until we know what they want to do,

we're holding on to it."

DR. JOHN B. HALL, head of the Cook County Public Health Dept., said the county does not have a lot of vaccine in storage. But what the county does have it would like to give back to the state, he said.

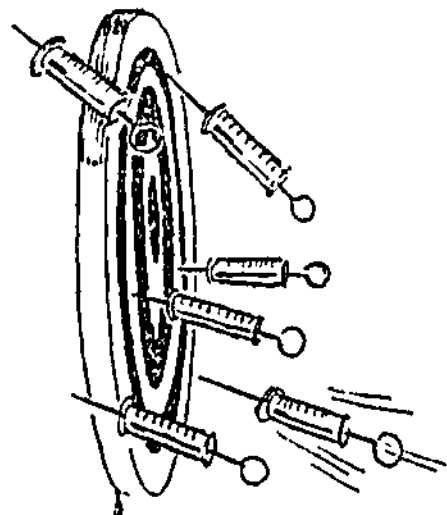

"We did have a problem that the flu vaccine was taking up space we needed for our measles vaccine. But we were able to take care of the measles program," Dr. Hall said.

CDC spokesman Robert Alden said a decision on possibly resuming the vaccination program is possible.

A state-by-state count shows 42 million of the 100 million doses of vaccine shipped have been administered, he said, adding that "manufacturers have a certain amount in processing as well."

Alden said he did not know of any other use for swine flu vaccine. It does not appear that it can be converted into vaccine for other types of flu, he said.

"We're just holding on to what we've got. Whatever is out there is being stored until there is a final determination whether the program will ever proceed."

Inauguration bound

by DIANE GRANAT

"Jimmy Carter Slept Here" reads the inscription on the brass plaque Rodney and Mary Ruth received as a Christmas gift.

The gift was a gag, but Carter's March 10 visit with the Park Ridge couple was no joke. Now their hospitality is being returned with an invitation from their former house guest to a reception at the White House after Carter's inauguration Jan. 20.

The Ruths, 620 S. Vine Ave., were among 800 persons who welcomed Carter or members of his family into their homes during Carter's trek across the country as a presidential candidate. Rodney Ruth thinks this personal touch in Carter's campaign helped win some votes by setting off "a chain reaction of good will."

"THAT WAS A very sharp idea he had, staying in private homes instead of motels," Ruth

said. "You don't make any hay staying in hotels."

The Ruths were selected to host Carter just before the Illinois primary because they are friends of Jim Wall, Carter's Illinois campaign chairman.

"We always thought Jim asked us because we were close to O'Hare," said Ruth, 64. "But Jim said, 'We chose somebody we thought would get the biggest kick out of it.'"

"We did," Ruth admitted. "We were just knocked out by it. We've been laughing ever since."

Preparing the Ruth's home for Carter's stay was a detailed process. Secret Service men arrived a week in advance to inspect the house, three telephones were installed and the night Carter stayed there, five Secret Service men guarded the house.

"I NEVER FELT so secure in my life," Ruth said.

Besides the impression left by the candidate's entourage, the Ruths say they were equally stirred by Carter himself.

"He had been briefed so well," Ruth said. "He knew that I was a book illustrator. He came in and looked at my watercolors on the wall and he said he'd like to see some of the books I illustrated."

Carter talked with the Ruths and their son and daughter-in-law for about 30 minutes before retiring, Ruth recalled. "He had a glass of milk and some cookies before he went to sleep," Mrs. Ruth said.

For breakfast the next morning Ruth said there were "no grits, just the regular scrambled eggs, bacon, toast, juice and coffee routine." Carter was off by 7 a.m. with only one neighbor having the slightest suspicion, Ruth said.

"HE LEFT A warm feeling in our home and I assume he did in other places," Mrs. Ruth said.

The Ruths continued to follow Carter throughout his campaign and just before Christmas they got an invitation to the inauguration.

"But we found out that invitation goes out to 300,000 people, so we decided we weren't going to go," Ruth said.

"Then we got an invitation to one of the balls," he said. "But 25,000 are invited, so I said no."

"The Monday after Christmas we got a third invitation to a reception at the White House the day after the inauguration for 400 couples who opened their homes to Carter and his family. Now we're going to the whole deal."

Ruth said he and his wife will take a charter flight for Illinois residents attending the inaugural. "It's going to cost 300 bucks," he said. "But once in a lifetime you have to shoot the works."

620 S. VINE AVE., Park Ridge, is the place where Jimmy Carter slept and now Rodney and Mary Ruth have a plaque to commemorate the visit of their newsworthy house guest. The Ruths have been invited to the White House after Carter's inauguration as a thank-you for their hospitality during the campaign.

MIKE PROEBSTLE, Wheeling firefighter, struggles with one of eight pieces of equipment he must wear during a drowning victim recovery. A member of the fire department's Underwater Recovery Team, he weighs almost 100 pounds heavier when he is suited up for a call.

Something for everyone at parks

If you're interested in the secrets of Transcendental Meditation or just basics of how to swim, the Wheeling Park District wants you.

During the past few years, crafts and cultural activities have joined the traditional sports lineup in the park district. The aim is to "try to involve as many people in the recreational process as we can," said David Phillips, park superintendent.

Past park programs centered on the interests of the sports-oriented resident, but increased revenues and additional staff members are broadening the activities, Phillips said.

"WE'RE SEEING the quantity of programs increase as we continue to mature as a staff," Phillips said.

Janet Schwass, recreation coordinator, said park patrons are "shifting from the traditional sports to the cultural activities."

"It's not a major shift but they're realizing we offer other things besides sports," she said.

Softball, volleyball, baseball and swimming now are joined by classes in Early American crafts, interior decorating and adult tap dance. Phillips said the added programs have increased participation in park district activities.

"WE HAVE more programs to offer and more people are getting into the programs," he said.

To attract more residents, Wheeling Park officials have turned to the younger set. Preschool programs, designed to bring people into recreational activities at an early age, have expanded during the past few years, Phillips said.

"If you don't learn how to use leisure time when you're young, then you're not well informed and used to taking advantage of it when you're older," he said.

The past three years were a period of growth for the district, with the assessed valuation increasing from $68 million to $100 million. During that time, the park district has acquired 23 acres of park land, Phillips said.

Heroes they're not, but they get the job done

Neargarder said.

Four Wheeling divers joined 25 others from Lake County at the scene. The dive master from Vernon Hills had arranged for fire departments with boats to deliver them. He marked the drowning site with buoys, Neargarder said.

The divers were divided into teams. A team consists of four divers in the water, who hold onto a bar connected to the boat. A driver and an observer always are assigned to the tow boat. Another boat follows behind the divers, with a driver and a diver in full suit.

"It's very safe — as safe as it possibly can be," Neargarder said. "Since you're only going in for a recovery and not a rescue, the main concern is for the safety of the divers."

After he was checked by a safety man, Neargarder joined his teammates on the boat behind the boat.

THEY SANK to the bottom of the lake and began "feeling."

"In most of the lakes around here you can't see, so it's all feel," he said. The divers cannot carry lights, because they must hold the bar with one hand and feel with the other.

Each team usually stays in the water for a half-hour. Neargarder and the diver next to him found the boy within 20 minutes.

"The average time is 20 minutes, if the location is really good," he said, adding, searches have lasted as long as three or four days.

Neargarder said 1976 was a quiet year. The squad responded to just one call — a false alarm. A young boy was missing and his parents were afraid he had drowned in a man-made lake near their Cedar Run subdivision home.

"We were just about to get in the water when he was found sleeping in the basement of Addolorata Villa," Neargarder said.

Thompson inaugural gala today

by STEVE BROWN
SPRINGFIELD — Marching bands from Prospect, Wheeling and Stevenson high schools today will participate in the gubernatorial inaugural ceremonies for Republican James R. Thompson.

The Northwest suburban groups will be part of the 142 bands and other marching units that will take part in the first inaugural parade in Springfield since 1948.

But long underwear and galoshes may be needed for parade-goers with 4 inches of snow expected to fall today.

"Do a sunshine dance," David Gilbert, Thompson's press secretary said Sunday.

Besides Thompson, Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, Atty. Gen. William Scott,

Comptroller Michael Bakalis and Sec. of State Alan Dixon will be sworn into office in a joint ceremony.

THE OFFICIALS will get a two-day jump on the Illinois General Assembly, whose members do not take the oath of office until Wednesday.

The inaugural activities will include a host of parties, receptions and dances. The actual swearing-in ceremonies will take place in the Illinois State Armory Building near the State Capitol.

Dominion has new plan, hopes to settle suit

A new attempt is being made to settle a 2-year-old lawsuit against the Village of Buffalo Grove by the Dominion Development Co., Chicago.

Athur Sheridan, Dominion president, wants to meet with village officials to present a new land-use plan for Dominion-owned property near the southwest corner of Buffalo Grove and Dundee roads, Village Atty. Richard Raysa said.

Sheridan said he would not discuss the new plan because the lawsuit is still in the courts. The case was scheduled to continue Tuesday, but now will be postponed, Raysa said.

DOMINION ALREADY has presented its case and Raysa said he has presented a part of the village's case.

In 1975, Dominion offered the village another compromise plan, but the village board rejected it.

Making a new proposal "shows more cooperation than we've had previously," said Carl Genrich, chairman of the village planning commission.

The suit began in 1974 when Dominion sued the village because it refused to issue building permits for a Pizza Hut and Kentucky Fried Chicken franchise to be built on Dominion's property.

The plan commission and the village board had rejected Dominion's requests for such development, contending the developer was required to abide by its 1972 annexation agreement.

THE AGREEMENT called for construction of a gas station and a commercial building, Genrich said.

Dominion subsequently sold part of the land to an oil company.

The two-restaurant plan was rejected because "We just didn't want that ad hocism type of development," Genrich said, and because it was not approved in the annexation agreement.

"You could see that whole thing (property) going strip by strip like a piece of pie," he said.

Village board members also said the 1974 proposal would have caused traffic problems and that the architectural style of the buildings would be unattractive.

They put up Jimmy Carter for a night last March and now they've been invited to White House

by DIANE GRANAT

"Jimmy Carter Slept Here" reads the inscription on the brass plaque Rodney and Mary Ruth received as a Christmas gift.

The gift was a gag, but Carter's March 10 visit with the Park Ridge couple was no joke. Now their hospitality is being returned with an invitation from their former house guest to a reception at the White House after Carter's inauguration Jan. 20.

The Ruths, 820 S. Vine Ave., were among 800 persons who welcomed Carter or members of his family into their homes during Carter's trek across the country as a presidential candidate. Rodney Ruth thinks this personal touch in Carter's campaign helped win some votes by setting off "a chain reaction of good will."

"THAT WAS A very sharp idea he had, staying in private homes instead of motels," Ruth

said. "You don't make any hay staying in hotels."

The Ruths were selected to host Carter just before the Illinois primary because they are friends of Jim Wall, Carter's Illinois campaign chairman.

"We always thought Jim asked us because we were close to O'Hare," said Ruth, 64. "But Jim said, 'We chose somebody we thought would get the biggest kick out of it.'"

"We did," Ruth admitted. "We were just knocked out by it. We've been laughing ever since."

Preparing the Ruths' home for Carter's stay was a detailed process. Secret Service men arrived a week in advance to inspect the house, three telephones were installed and the night Carter stayed there, five Secret Service men guarded the house.

"I NEVER FELT so secure in my life," Ruth said.

Besides the impression left by the candidate's entourage, the Ruths say they were equally stirred by Carter himself.

"He had been briefed so well," Ruth said. "He knew that I was a book illustrator. He came in and looked at my watercolors on the wall and he said he'd like to see some of the books I illustrated."

Carter talked with the Ruths and their son and daughter-in-law for about 30 minutes before retiring, Ruth recalled. "He had a glass of milk and some cookies before he went to sleep," Mrs. Ruth said.

For breakfast the next morning Ruth said there were "no grits, just the regular scrambled eggs, bacon, toast, juice and coffee routine." Carter was off by 7 a.m. with only one neighbor having the slightest suspicion, Ruth said.

"HE LEFT A warm feeling in our home and I assume he did in other places," Mrs. Ruth said.

The Ruths continued to follow Carter throughout his campaign and just before Christmas they got an invitation to the inauguration.

"But we found out that invitation goes out to 300,000 people, so we decided we weren't going to go," Ruth said.

"Then we got an invitation to one of the balls," he said. "But 25,000 are invited, so I said no."

"The Monday after Christmas we got a third invitation to a reception at the White House the day after the inauguration for 400 couples who opened their homes to Carter and his family. Now we're going to the whole deal."

Ruth said he and his wife will take a charter flight for Illinois residents attending the inaugural. "It's going to cost 300 bucks," he said. "But once in a lifetime you have to shoot the works."

620 S. VINE AVE., Park Ridge, is the place where Jimmy Carter slept and now Rodney and Mary Ruth have a plaque to commemorate the visit of their newsworthy house guest. The Ruths have been invited to the White House after Carter's inauguration as a thank-you for their hospitality during the campaign.

The job is grim, but they get it done

by DEBBE JONAK

Wheeling Fire Department's scuba squad members are not heroes.

They arrive too late for that. They are called when the heroes fall, when a life is lost. Their job is to find drowning victims.

If they are successful, no cheers, awards or hugs await them. Rather, they are greeted with looks of anguish on the faces of the victim's friends and relatives whose worst fears have been confirmed.

"You don't let yourself get personally involved. If you did, you couldn't be in this business," Andy Neargarder, firefighter and underwater recovery team member, said.

"IT'S LIKE working on an accident victim that's in bad shape, or a fire victim — it's part of the job."

The Wheeling group was formed in 1971 with three members. It was one of the first teams in Cook County. Since then most surrounding communities have established similar squads. Wheeling's squad now consists of six firefighters, trained in underwater recovery.

Wheeling fire officials saw a need for the squad because of the lakes and the growing number of retention ponds in the area.

"The potential for accidents is here," Neargarder said.

The area has Echo and Potawatomi lakes, the Des Plaines River, and some retention ponds.

The team averages six recovery missions a year in neighboring Lake County. The squad participates both in the Cook County and the Lake County mutual aid box alarm system.

WHEN A DROWNING occurs, mutual aid members closest to the scene are summoned. They respond with any available divers.

Winter calls usually come from northern Lake County in the Chain o' Lakes vicinity, where snowmobilers sometimes wander on to thin ice.

Although the Wheeling group is training this month for ice recoveries, most of the local drownings occur in summer months.

The quarries near Vernon Hills and Half Day are familiar places to Near-garder. They are "no swimming" areas frequented by youths.

He recounted one of the many drowning recoveries there in which he participated.

"It was a boy in his late teens. He was swimming with some friends in the quarry behind the Roman House."

The Roman House is on Milwaukee Avenue in Prairie View. Vernon Hills Fire Dept. received the call. They notified mutual aid members, including Wheeling.

"WITHIN AN HOUR after he (the boy) went down, we were up there," Neargarder said.

Four Wheeling divers joined 25 others from Lake County at the scene. The divermaster from Vernon Hills had arranged for fire departments with boats to deliver them. He marked the drowning site with buoys, Neargarder said.

The divers were divided into teams. A team consists of four divers in the water, who hold onto a bar connected to the boat. A driver and an observer always are assigned to the tow boat. Another boat follows behind the divers, with a driver and a diver in full suit.

"It's very safe — as safe as it possibly can be," Neargarder said. "Since you're only going in for a recovery and not a rescue, the main concern is for the safety of the divers."

After he was checked by a safety man, Neargarder joined his teammates on the bar behind the boat.

THEY SANK to the bottom of the lake and began "feeling."

"In most of the lakes around here you can't see, so it's all feel," he said. The divers cannot carry lights, because they must hold the bar with one hand and feel with the other.

Each team usually stays in the water for a half-hour. Neargarder and the diver next to him found the boy within 20 minutes.

"The average time is 20 minutes, if the location is really good," he said, adding, searches have lasted as long as three or four days.

Neargarder said 1976 was a quiet year. The squad responded to just one call — a false alarm. A young boy was missing and his parents were afraid he had drowned in a man-made lake near their Cedar Run sub-division home.

MIKE PROEBSTLE, Wheeling firefighter, struggles with one of eight pieces of equipment he must wear during a drowning victim recovery. A member of the fire department's Underwater Recovery Team, he weighs almost 100 pounds heavier when he is suited up for a call.

Thompson inaugural gala today

by STEVE BROWN
SPRINGFIELD — Marching bands from Prospect, Wheeling and Stevenson high schools today will participate in the gubernatorial inaugural ceremonies for Republican James R. Thompson.

The Northwest suburban groups will be part of the 142 bands and other marching units that will take part in the first inaugural parade in Springfield since 1949.

But long underwear and galoshes may be needed for parade-goers with 4 inches of snow expected to fall today.

"Do a sunshine dance," David Gilbert, Thompson's press secretary said Sunday.

Besides Thompson, Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, Atty. Gen. William Scott,

Comptroller Michael Bakalis and Sec. of State Alan Dixon will be sworn into office in a joint ceremony.

THE OFFICIALS will get a two-day jump on the Illinois General Assembly, whose members do not take the oath of office until Wednesday.

The inaugural activities will include a host of parties, receptions and dances. The actual swearing-in ceremonies will take place in the Illinois State Armory Building near the State Capitol.

Thompson will not repeat the outdoor ceremonies used by Gov. Daniel Walker four years ago.

The Republican first opted for an outdoor ceremony, but Scott, Bakalis, Dixon and O'Neal all said they preferred an inside location.

WHILE THE armory will seat 5,000, the inaugural committee plans to tele-

cast the ceremonies to two Springfield hotels for persons who may not be able to gain admittance to the building. Several Chicago and Downstate television stations also will broadcast portions of the events.

Thompson selected to organize the activities, Michael Dunn, a 24-year-old Rockford man who worked as a fundraiser during the campaign, and 39-year-old Robert L. Radmacher of Springfield, a campaign advance man.

They relied on the Illinois National Guard and Illinois State Police for advice. Aides to Walker and former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also provided assistance.

Thompson and his wife, Jayne, will begin the day at a special service at the First Presbyterian Church here. Later in the morning they will meet with Walker and his family at the 50-room governor's mansion that will become Thompson's home this week.

While the 8,000 marchers are shuttled through the armory for a hot dog and baked bean lunch, Thompson and State GOP Chairman Don Adams will host a luncheon for VIPs at the Forum 30 Hotel.

THE EVENING inaugural activities will begin with a concert by the Belleville Symphony Orchestra in the State Capitol.

Two inaugural balls will follow in the evening. Thompson aides said his pledge to be the governor for the entire state will be carried out through the inaugural activities. The committee carefully invited guests from Cook County and Southern Illinois to one party, while Northern and Central

Illinois guests will gather at another hotel.

Both parties are scheduled to end at midnight. Thompson hopes to begin the 1st working day of his new administration Tuesday with the announcement of several cabinet choices, his press aide said.

The cost of inaugural activities carry a $65,000 price tag. A special committee, apart from Thompson's campaign fund-raisers, was established to obtain contributions for the event.

MOST NEW administrations do not plan outdoor events, but a confident Thompson, who appeared in countless parades during the campaign, began inviting high school bands to play for his inaugural during a late October

Bitter cold to follow snowstorm

Northwest suburban residents can expect a couple of clear days this week following an anticipated four-inch snowfall Sunday night and early today on top of an estimated three inches of snow which accumulated Sunday morning.

The National Weather Service Sunday said frigid air from Wisconsin will grip the area until Wednesday, bringing temperatures ranging from zero to 15 below.

Weather service spokesmen warned

travelers in Illinois to be wary of bad road conditions brought on by drifting snow. Heavy snow warnings continue for areas along the Mississippi River. Travelers' advisories are in effect today statewide.

The immediate area was spared from the worst weather this weekend, which raised havoc in communities in Minnesota and Wisconsin, cutting off power and kilink at least one person.

Car batteries were frozen near the western Minnesota town of Willmar. Ice crystals formed in the air near the Mississippi River. A power pole snapped near Chippewa Falls, Wis., cutting off heat and power to several families.

In St. Louis, authorities found the body of Rolland French, 45, on the front porch of his residence, an apparent victim of exposure. Unofficially, the temperature dropped to 60 degrees below zero in Rice Lake, Wis., early Sunday.

Smith won't debate Kenna until vote is in

A heated political debate is shaping up in Elk Grove Village.

But a candidate for village president says he won't debate an incumbent trustee, who's secure for another two years, until after the April municipal election.

Trustee Edward Kenna, whose term expires in 1979, challenged presidential candidate Michael Smith to a debate last week, saying Smith has made derogatory statements about incumbent village officials.

"I will accept Kenna's challenge to debate," Smith replied. "But in May, after the election, because he is not a candidate for village office."

"If he thinks I'm running interference (for Zettek), I think someone ought to explain to him the election's in April," Kenna said.

Zettek said he thinks the debate would be "wonderful."

Neither Zettek nor Smith has issued a challenge to the other, but both say they'd be willing to debate each other.

"I'd debate Zettek, sure," Smith said.

"I'd be happy to debate him," Zettek said. "I'd be happy to meet Mr. Smith as many times and in as many places as he'd like. I couldn't be more enthusiastic about it."

Carter's church won't accept black activist

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter and fellow members of the Plains Baptist Church voted "without opposition" Sunday to reject the membership application of black activist Rev. Clennon King. They said he had been uncooperative and does not live in the community.

The congregation also voted to reject on similar grounds the applications of Austin Black, also a black and Charlotte Weinberger, both of Los Angeles.

As the results of the vote were read to reporters outside the church by state Sen. Hugh Carter, the president-elect's cousin and a spokesman for the congregation, King interrupted him to say:

"You are telling a true lie on the church door steps. You're reading something that faults in the eyes of God."

Swine flu vaccine is gathering dust in cold storage

by KURT BAER

- The State of Illinois has 2 million doses of swine flu vaccine in cold storage in Springfield and is uncertain what, if anything, to do with it.
- The Cook County Public Health Dept. has cases of swine flu vaccine it wants to give back to the state.
- Nationally, Some 50 million doses of vaccine are sitting on shelves and still more is in various stages of production.

Such is the aftermath of the nation's $135 million swine flu vaccination program three weeks after it was halted abruptly because of fears the vaccine can cause a rare form of paralysis called Guillain-Barre syndrome.

Officials at the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., say the mass inoculation program will not be restarted unless swine flu reaches epidemic proportions around the nation.

So far, the center reports, there have been relatively few flu cases of any type reported in the county.

The fact that Swine flu vaccine has to be refrigerated adds to the storage problem. If it is out of cold storage for more than eight hours, the vaccine is ineffective, said Austin Hayes, public health educator for the State of Illinois.

AS LONG AS IT is kept cold, swine flu vaccine has a shelf life of one year.

"Some people have given us storage space but if we have to keep the vaccine for a year, I don't imagine anyone will be too happy," Hayes said.

Illinois has more swine flu vaccine in storage than it has been able to dispense. Approximately 1.8 million doses were administered in the state to only 25 to 30 per cent of the eligible population, Hayes said.

The state received more than $500,000 from the federal government to pay for the vaccination plan, in addition to the free vaccine. Twenty-three state workers were hired exclusively for the program, Hayes said. The center loaned the state 33 jet injector guns.

"We're all waiting to see what CDC comes up with," Hayes said. "Until we know what they want to do,

we're holding on to it."

DR. JOHN B. HALL, head of the Cook County Public Health Dept., said the county does not have a lot of vaccine in storage. But what the county does have it would like to give back to the state, he said.

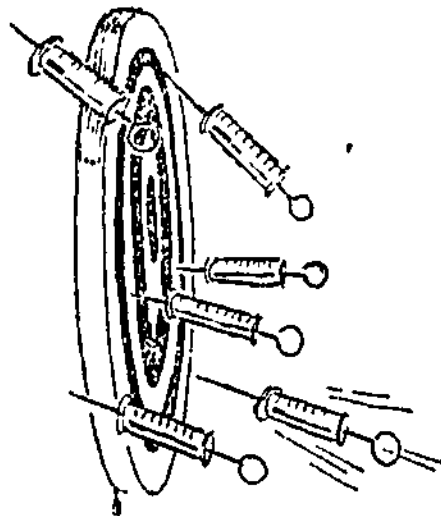

"We did have a problem that the flu vaccine was taking up space we needed for our measles vaccine. But we were able to take care of the measles program," Dr. Hall said.

CDC spokesman Robert Alden said a decision on possibly resuming the vaccination program is possible.

A state-by-state count shows 42 million of the 100 million doses of vaccine shipped have been administered, he said, adding that "manufacturers have a certain amount in processing as well."

Alden said he did not know of any other use for swine flu vaccine. It does not appear that it can be converted into vaccine for other types of flu, he said.

"We're just holding on to what we've got. Whatever is out there is being stored until there is a final determination whether the program will ever proceed."

93 destroyed last year

Strays still share doubtful future

By some measures, Elk Grove Village was a safer place for stray animals last year.

Records show that the police department answered fewer complaints about stray animals last year than in 1975 and spent less money to impound, feed and, in some cases, eliminate stray pets.

But it's not clear whether the strays had better luck at avoiding destruction after they were picked up.

Trustee Nancy Vanderveel said last year that the village spent approximately $9,000 to destroy more than 600 stray dogs during 1975.

In 1976, says Deputy Police Chief William Kohnke, the village paid $1,400 to kill 93 of the 234 animals it impounded.

Did the death toll actually drop from 600 to 93?

Kohnke says no. He gave the number 600 to Mrs. Vanderveel as a projection of the number of stray dog complaints the police department would receive, he says, not the number of animals killed. An exact count of the number of animals killed is not available for 1975, he adds, because some were taken to an anti-cruelty society shelter where they may have been adopted.

Nor do the records show how many strays were picked up in 1975. The only firm figures available show that the number of animal complaints dropped from 1,400 in 1975 to 962 last year and the number of stray dog complaints fell from 680 to 617.

But Kohnke says there has been some improvement. "We find more owners now," he says, adding that many residents who call in complaints about stray animals are now identifying the owner. "People are becoming more aware of their responsibilities."

Until two years ago, the village operated its own kennel and worked with a private group called Pets Etc. to find homes for stray animals. The Illinois Dept. of Agriculture ordered the kennel closed late in 1974, and strays picked up the following year were sent either to Carroll's Kennels in Wood Dale or to a humane society shelter.

Last year, though, all of the strays were sent to the Wood Dale kennel. If they were not claimed or adopted within three days, they were destroyed.

Kohnke said a six-month-old village ordinance requiring licenses for cats as well as dogs has made little impact. "People don't really license anything," he says.

Talks with a Palatine volunteer organization called Save-A-Pet are in limbo, Kohnke adds, because the community service officer who was looking into the possibility of sending the village's strays to Save-A-Pet has left the police department.

"It seems like something that should be looked into," Kohnke says.

But Save-A-Pet people said Elk Grove might have difficulties bringing its strays to that organization.

"The only way we can take another community is for it to give us a large enough fund to build some extra (dog) runs," said Gloria Barinholtz, vice president in charge of shelter.

Save-A-Pet serves Skokie, Highland Park, Deerfield, Northbrook, Wilmette, Golf, Kenilworth, Winnetka and Glencoe.

Those communities pay the organization between $4,500 and $3,500 per year or $10 an animal, Barinholtz said.

"They are giving us the money to save their animals they used to give to euthanize them," she said.

"No matter what they (another community) would offer us per animal at this point we would need a lump sum — in the thousands," she said.

Dist. 54 unit making phone survey

by HOLLY HANSON

An education survey developed by a citizens' committee of the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education will be conducted today through Wednesday.

About 50 volunteers from the district's 28 schools will telephone residents to ask them about the district's average class size, cutting back or eliminating programs not required by the state and raising taxes, said citizens' advisor committee director Elizabeth Carpenter.

The committee will use survey results to analyze community opinion, Mrs. Carpenter said.

The committee was directed by the board to study the district finances and to evaluate the board's financial options.

THE EFFECTS of inflation, salary raises and a decrease in state financing have led the board to take steps to offset projected budget deficits.

As a result of budget cuts made in 1975-76, the board expects a surplus of $62,525 in the 1976-77 year, if the district receives at least 87.5 per cent of its state financing.

The district's budget projects an accumulated deficit during the next five years of from $10 million to $22 million, depending on the amount of salary raises.

EVEN WITHOUT salary raises, the forecast states that 1977-78 is the last year the district can expect to break even.

Mrs. Carpenter said volunteers will call residents from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. each of the three days. Callers will receive a list of random telephone numbers to call but will not know the names of the respondents, she said.

The 12-question survey asks residents to determine acceptable class size, to rate the importance of programs not required by the state and to indicate if they would favor tax increases, larger classes or program cuts to balance the budget, she said.

About 400 residents will be contacted, said Mrs. Carpenter.

The results of the survey will be tallied this week for presentation to the committee at a meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 18 at Keller Junior High School, 820 Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

The committee will report its findings at a board meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 20 at Keller.

2 park officials to seek reelection

Two incumbents up for reelection are the only candidates who have taken out nominating petitions for the Elk Grove Park District Board.

James L. Cashman, 956 Brantwood Ave., and Lewis L. Smith, 171 Shadywood Ln., have taken out petitions for reelection to six-year terms.

Cashman serves as the board's vice president, a position he was elected to by the commissioners.

Today is the first day to file petitions, which must be signed by at least 27 registered voters. Jean Vermittag, park district office manager, said she has suggested candidates get 50 signatures in case any are ruled invalid.

The election is scheduled April 19, the same day of the Elk Grove Village municipal election.

The last day for filing petitions is Jan. 24.

Thompson inaugural gala today

by STEVE BROWN
SPRINGFIELD — Marching bands from Prospect, Wheeling and Stevenson high schools today will participate in the gubernatorial inaugural ceremonies for Republican James R. Thompson.

The Northwest suburban groups will be part of the 142 bands and other marching units that will take part in the first inaugural parade in Springfield since 1948.

But long underwear and galoshes may be needed for parade-goers with 4 inches of snow expected to fall today.

"Do a sunshine dance," David Gilbert, Thompson's press secretary said Sunday.

Besides Thompson, Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, Atty. Gen. William Scott,

Comptroller Michael Bakalis and Sec. of State Alan Dixon will be sworn into office in a joint ceremony.

THE OFFICIALS will get a two-day jump on the Illinois General Assembly, whose members do not take the oath of office until Wednesday.

The inaugural activities will include a host of parties, receptions and dances. The actual swearing-in ceremonies will take place in the Illinois State Armory Building near the State Capitol.

Thompson will not repeat the outdoor ceremonies used by Gov. Daniel Walker four years ago.

The Republican first opted for an outdoor ceremony, but Scott, Bakalis, Dixon and O'Neal all said they preferred an inside location.

WHILE THE army will seat 5,000, the inaugural committee plans to telecast the ceremonies to two Springfield hotels for persons who may not be able to gain admittance to the building. Several Chicago and Downstate television stations also will broadcast portions of the events.

Thompson selected to organize the activities, Michael Dunn, a 24-year-old Rockford man who worked as a fundraiser during the campaign, and 38-year-old Robert L. Radmacher of Springfield, a campaign advance man.

They relied on the Illinois National Guard and Illinois State Police for advice. Aides to Walker and former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also provided assistance.

Thompson and his wife, Jayne, will begin the day at a special service at the First Presbyterian Church here. Later in the morning they will meet with Walker and his family at the 50-room governor's mansion that will become Thompson's home this week.

While the 8,000 marchers are shuttled through the armory for a hot dog and baked bean lunch, Thompson and State GOP Chairman Don Adams will host a luncheon for VIPs at the Forum 30 Hotel.

THE EVENING inaugural activities will begin with a concert by the Belleville Symphony Orchestra in the State Capitol.

Two inaugural balls will follow in the evening. Thompson aides said his pledge to be the governor for the entire state will be carried out through the inaugural activities. The committee carefully invited guests from Cook County and Southern Illinois to one party, while Northern and Central

Illinois guests will gather at another hotel.

Both parties are scheduled to end at midnight. Thompson hopes to begin the 1st working day of his new administration Tuesday with the announcement of several cabinet choices, his press aide said.

The cost of inaugural activities carry a $65,000 price tag. A special committee, apart from Thompson's campaign fund-raisers, was established to obtain contributions for the event.

MOST NEW administrations do not plan outdoor events, but a confident Thompson, who appeared in countless parades during the campaign, began inviting high school bands to play for his inaugural during a late October

Dist. 54 failing to keep parents informed: survey

by PAM BIGFORD

Parents say they don't know what's going on in their school district and that nobody listens to them. Administrators say they know some parents are dissatisfied but they don't know how to please everyone.

Andi Friedman says communication in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 needs a lot of improvement—and she's got lots of ideas she says can help.

Mrs. Friedman, 26 of 1770 Robins Walk, Hoffman Estates, taught school for three years in Pittsburg and recently completed an eight-month study of how well people in Dist. 54 communicate as her thesis for a master's degree in communication science.

After interviewing and surveying parents, teachers, principals and administrators, Mrs. Friedman said she found communication to be the worst between parents and administrators—the two groups farthest removed from each other.

THE STUDY also found no one, not even the parents themselves, thinks enough parents are taking an active role in education.

"I think it's about time the public realized its potential—it's tremendous," Mrs. Friedman said. "But the people I talked to said they felt like they were powerless in the district, that they couldn't find out what they wanted to know."

"Some parents said they have had bad experiences with the school district," Mrs. Friedman said. Parents most often cited conflicts about the

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter and fellow members of the Plains Baptist Church voted "without opposition" Sunday to reject the membership application of black activist Rev. Clennon King. They said he had been uncooperative and does not live in the community.

The congregation also voted to reject on similar grounds the applications of Austin Black, also a black and Charlotte Weinberger, both of Los Angeles.

As the results of the vote were read to reporters outside the church by state Sen. Hugh Carter, the president-elect's cousin and a spokesman for the congregation, King interrupted him to say:

"You are telling a true lie on the church door steps. You're reading something that faults in the eyes of God."

Bitter cold to follow snowstorm

Northwest suburban residents can expect a couple of clear days this week following an anticipated four-inch snowfall Sunday night and early today on top of an estimated three inches of snow which accumulated Sunday morning.

The National Weather Service Sunday said frigid air from Wisconsin will grip the area until Wednesday, bringing temperatures ranging from zero to 15 below.

Weather service spokesmen warned

travelers in Illinois to be wary of bad road conditions brought on by drifting snow. Heavy snow warnings continue for areas along the Mississippi River. Travelers' advisories are in effect today statewide.

The immediate area was spared from the worst weather this weekend, which raised havoc in communities in Minnesota and Wisconsin, cutting off power and killing at least one person.

Car batteries were frozen near the western Minnesota town of Willmar. Ice crystals formed in the air near the Mississippi River. A power pole snapped near Chippewa Falls, Wis., cutting off heat and power to several families.

In St. Louis, authorities found the body of Roland French, 45, on the front porch of his residence, an apparent victim of exposure. Unofficially, the temperature dropped to 60 degrees below zero in Rice Lake, Wis., early Sunday.

Swine flu vaccine is gathering dust in cold storage

by KURT BAER

- The State of Illinois has 2 million doses of swine flu vaccine in cold storage in Springfield and is uncertain what, if anything, to do with it.
- The Cook County Public Health Dept. has cases of swine flu vaccine it wants to give back to the state.
- Nationally, some 50 million doses of vaccine are sitting on shelves and still more is in various stages of production.

Such is the aftermath of the nation's $135 million swine flu vaccination program three weeks after it was halted abruptly because of fears the vaccine can cause a rare form of paralysis called Guillain-Barre syndrome.

Officials at the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., say the mass inoculation program will not be restarted unless swine flu reaches epidemic proportions around the nation.

So far, the center reports, there have been relatively few flu cases of any type reported in the country

The fact that swine flu vaccine has to be refrigerated adds to the storage problem. If it is out of cold storage for more than eight hours, the vaccine is ineffective, said Austin Hayes, public health educator for the State of Illinois.

AS LONG AS IT is kept cold, swine flu vaccine has a shelf life of one year.

"Some people have given us storage space but if we have to keep the vaccine for a year, I don't imagine anyone will be too happy," Hayes said.

Illinois has more swine flu vaccine in storage than it has been able to dispense. Approximately 1.8 million doses were administered in the state to only 25 to 30 per cent of the eligible population, Hayes said.

The state received more than $500,000 from the federal government to pay for the vaccination plan, in addition to the free vaccine. Twenty-three state workers were hired exclusively for the program, Hayes said. The center loaned the state 33 jet injector guns.

"We're all waiting to see what CDC comes up with," Hayes said. "Until we know what they want to do,

we're holding on to it."

DR. JOHN B. HALL, head of the Cook County Public Health Dept., said the county does not have a lot of vaccine in storage. But what the county does have it would like to give back to the state, he said.

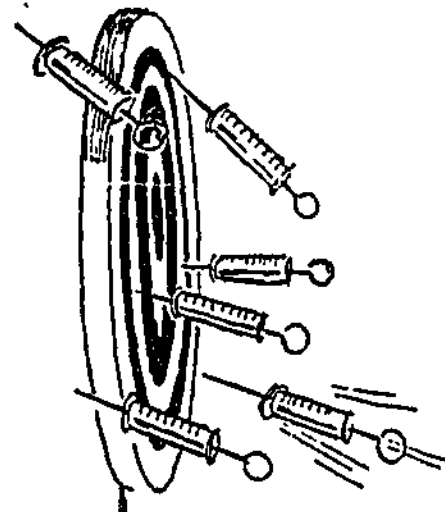

"We did have a problem that the flu vaccine was taking up space we needed for our measles vaccine. But we were able to take care of the measles program," Dr. Hall said.

CDC spokesman Robert Alden said a decision on possibly resuming the vaccination program is possible.

A state-by-state count shows 42 million of the 100 million doses of vaccine shipped have been administered, he said, adding that "manufacturers have a certain amount in processing as well."

Alden said he did not know of any other use for swine flu vaccine. It does not appear that it can be converted into vaccine for other types of flu, he said.

"We're just holding on to what we've got. Whatever is out there is being stored until there is a final determination whether the program will ever proceed."

Dist. 54 information gap cited

parent-paid lunch program, busing problems and the tax referendum defeated in February.

"As a researcher, even I was getting frustrated because everybody (residents) had given up. But instead of moving away from each other, problems should bring these groups together."

ALTHOUGH communication problems exist in smaller districts, Mrs. Friedman said the problems are intensified in Dist. 54, the largest elementary school district in the state. The mobility of district residents, with residents moving in and out constantly, adds to the difficulties.

"The size and mobility of the district makes it even more important that people get information they can understand," she said.

She said residents commonly complained they often do not know about a decision made by the board or the administration until it has been made.

Mentioning an upcoming decision in a newsletter like the board-o-gram, which describes past and future board action, is not enough when important decisions are being made, Mrs. Friedman said. "People should be bombarded with information when something is going to happen," she said, and it shouldn't be up to the parents alone to search out what is happening.

MRS. FRIEDMAN said there are many ways communication between the administration and board and the public can be improved, and she asked residents to rate the value of six specific methods.

"Their first choice was a handbook," she said, which would be more extensive than the district's annual report and would include detailed information on anything a resident could want to know, including who can help them with specific concerns.

Residents without children in the district and residents who never have received a board-o-gram from their children said their second preference would be a mailed newsletter that would explain different things happening in the district.

Parents who have received board-o-grams rated them second after the handbook. Their third choice was having an administrator briefly attend a school program discuss the district concerns.

Residents without children in school said only the handbook and mailed newsletter would be of value to them, but those with children in school said all six types of communication would be at least 50 per cent useful to them.

The other two types of communication were a mailed journal that would explain educational issues every so often in depth; and an administrator appearing at a PTA meeting to talk to parents about the district.

"RESIDENTS SAID to me, 'When I see an administrator, especially the superintendent, face-to-face, it makes him seem so much more human,'" Mrs. Friedman said. "There has to be face-to-face contact."

One idea would be to divide the district into regions and have one administrator act as a region's liaison to the administration, she said. The administrator would attend PTA meetings or school programs once in a while to give residents a chance to talk to him.

This might work with board members too, she said, because in such a large district most residents aren't familiar with their board members.

"IT MAY SEEM that people are interested in the district only when they're feeling a pinch in their pockets, but if they were aware of the things going on, there might be a lot of things they would show an interest in," she said.

"Residents should be made to feel that they're a part of the school system because they really are a vital part. They shouldn't feel that they had these children and now they're done with it."

Mrs. Friedman said the first step in improving communication is finding out what the needs are—of parents, administrators, principals and teachers.

"You can't just set up three committees to improve communication and say you've improved it," she said. "It may take a long time, but you have to start somewhere. You may not see the effects right away. People will have to understand that communication doesn't happen overnight."

Communication in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 probably could stand some improvement and Andi Friedman's study on communication in the district might help, administrators say.

"This study could be something very positive," said Milton Derr, associate superintendent. He suggested Mrs. Friedman present her information to the district's citizens' advisory committee and perhaps the committee might suggest ways to improve communication.

Elizabeth Carpenter, board member and director of the advisory committee, said Friday she has not yet seen Mrs. Friedman's study, but said she is interested in having the committee work on improving communication.

MRS. FRIEDMAN'S eight-month study concluded that while residents have good contact with their neighborhood schools, they have little contact with the district as a whole.

Derr said the administration is "definitely aware" it has been difficult for residents to have personal contact with administrators and board of education members in a district with 28 schools.

About eight years ago the district mailed a newsletter to residents to keep them in touch with what was happening in the district, but "that went out when a budget crisis came up," he said.

Since then, however, the administration has encouraged each school to send out newsletters periodically to parents, and about half of the schools do this weekly while others do it less often, Derr said. This has helped communication on the local school level, he said.

SUPT. WAYNE Schaible said many school districts must cut back on public relations because of costs. The cost of printing and mailing a district newsletter to all district residents would be "out of sight," he said.

"Our best communication is when we have people into the schools to visit," Schaible said. The principals are encouraging parents to spend more time in the schools to understand what is happening there, he said.

Derr agreed there may be ways to improve the quality of communication without increasing costs, and the citizens' advisory committee might derive some new methods based on Mrs. Friedman's report.

"This study may have some far-reaching effects," he said.

Dist. 54 citizens' group conducting phone survey

by HOLLY HANSON

An education survey developed by a citizens' committee of the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education will be conducted today through Wednesday.

About 50 volunteers from the district's 28 schools will telephone residents to ask them about the district's average class size, cutting back or eliminating programs not required by the state and raising taxes, said citizens' advisor committee director Elizabeth Carpenter.

The committee will use survey results to analyze community opinion, Mrs. Carpenter said.

The committee was directed by the board to study the district finances and to evaluate the board's financial options.

THE EFFECTS of inflation, salary raises and a decrease in state financing have led the board to take steps to offset projected budget deficits.

As a result of budget cuts made in 1975-76, the board expects a surplus of $62,525 in the 1976-77 year, if the district receives at least 87.5 per cent of its state financing.

The district's budget projects an accumulated deficit during the next five years of from $10 million to $22 million, depending on the amount of salary raises.

EVEN WITHOUT salary raises, the forecast states that 1977-78 is the last year the district can expect to break even.

Mrs. Carpenter said volunteers will call residents from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. each of the three days. Callers will receive a list of random telephone numbers to call but will not know the names of the respondents, she said.

The 12-question survey asks residents to determine acceptable class size, to rate the importance of programs not required by the state and to indicate if they would favor tax increases, larger classes or program cuts to balance the budget, she said.

About 400 residents will be contacted, said Mrs. Carpenter.

The results of the survey will be tallied this week for presentation to the committee at a meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 10 at Keller Junior High School, 820 Bode Rd., Schaumburg.

The committee will report its findings at a board meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 20 at Keller.

Bad image fades, 'Glen' dwellers look to better life

She cried too when her daughter came home from school in tears because the teacher had said, "Oh, you're one of those Meadows Ghettos kids."

"Those sure weren't the good old days," says Mrs. Caroline De Witt of Rolling Meadows.

It wasn't easy for Mrs. De Witt to talk about old days in the Whispering Glen apartment complex where she and her husband have lived for the past 11 years.

"You're talking about our home. Just because it's not a single-family house, doesn't make it any less my home, does it?" she asked.

"I'M SICK and tired of people thinking rats and roaches every time someone mentions Whispering Glen. At one time things did get pretty bad around here, but it was some of the trash tenants that lived here, not the buildings, that made the mess.

The apartment complex, built in the early 60s, is one of the oldest in the city and was built before the city adopted strict multi-family housing and fire codes. It is located near Algonquin Road and I-90.

It's had a reputation as a run-down apartment complex plagued by fires and building complaints.

Before it changed management, Whispering Glen did have a "bad reputation," said Donald Jusk, manager.

Jusk said money and residents' pride in their apartments made it possible to change the 692-unit complex's image.

JUSK SAID the complex also is a lot more strict about who rents the apartments. "We've been more selective. We have about a 75 per cent occupancy now and we don't accept bums," Jusk said.

Until just recently the complex had been a municipal headache, said Rolling Meadows housing inspector Lewis Blue, with violations that ranged from rotting balconies to leaky ceilings.

Some of the changes through the new management were as basic as applying a fresh coat of paint to the outsides of buildings.

Others involved installing elaborate sprinkler systems in basement locker and laundry areas as well as smoke alarms in hallways. Although current city codes require such safety measures in new construction, the complex was built before the stricter safety measures were adopted.

"We've replaced the fire extinguishers with the sprinklers and have instituted an ongoing inspection

by KURT BAER

• The State of Illinois has 2 million doses of swine flu vaccine in cold storage in Springfield and is uncertain what, if anything, to do with it.

• The Cook County Public Health Dept. has cases of swine flu vaccine it wants to give back to the state.

• Nationally, some 50 million doses of vaccine are sitting on shelves and still more is in various stages of production.

Such is the aftermath of the nation's $135 million swine flu vaccination program three weeks after it was halted abruptly because of fears the vaccine can cause a rare form of paralysis called Guillain-Barre syndrome.

Officials at the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., say the mass inoculation program will not be restarted unless swine flu reaches epidemic proportions around the nation.

So far, the center reports, there have been relatively few flu cases of any type reported in the county.

The fact that swine flu vaccine has to be refrigerated adds to the storage problem. If it is out of cold storage for more than eight hours, the vaccine is ineffective, said Austin Hayes, public health educator for the State of Illinois.

AS LONG AS IT is kept cold, swine flu vaccine has a shelf life of one year.

"Some people have given us storage space but if we have to keep the vaccine for a year, I don't imagine anyone will be too happy," Hayes said.

Illinois has more swine flu vaccine in storage than it has been able to dispense. Approximately 1.8 million doses were administered in the state to only 25 to 30 per cent of the eligible population, Hayes said.

The state received more than $500,000 from the federal government to pay for the vaccination plan, in addition to the free vaccine. Twenty-three state workers were hired exclusively for the program, Hayes said. The center loaned the state 33 jet injector guns.

"We're all waiting to see what CDC comes up with," Hayes said. "Until we know what they want to do,

we're holding on to it."

DR. JOHN B. HALL, head of the Cook County Public Health Dept., said the county does not have a lot of vaccine in storage. But what the county does have it would like to give back to the state, he said.

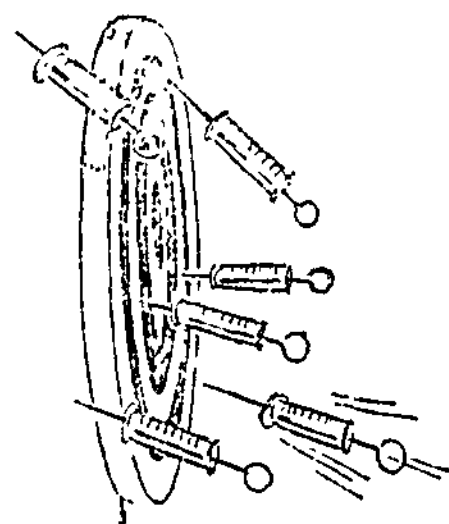

"We did have a problem that the flu vaccine was taking up space we needed for our measles vaccine. But we were able to take care of the measles program," Dr. Hall said.

CDC spokesman Robert Alden said a decision on possibly resuming the vaccination program is possible.

A state-by-state count shows 42 million of the 100 million doses of vaccine shipped have been administered, he said, adding that "manufacturers have a certain amount in processing as well."

Alden said he did not know of any other use for swine flu vaccine. It does not appear that it can be converted into vaccine for other types of flu, he said.

"We're just holding on to what we've got. Whatever is out there is being stored until there is a final determination whether the program will ever proceed."

Inauguration bound

by DIANE GRANAT

"Jimmy Carter Slept Here" reads the inscription on the brass plaque Rodney and Mary Ruth received as a Christmas gift.

The gift was a gag, but Carter's March 10 visit with the Park Ridge couple was no joke. Now their hospitality is being returned with an invitation from their former house guest to a reception at the White House after Carter's inauguration Jan. 20.

The Ruths, 620 S. Vine Ave., were among 800 persons who welcomed Carter or members of his family into their homes during Carter's trek across the country as a presidential candidate. Rodney Ruth thinks this personal touch in Carter's campaign helped win some votes by setting off "a chain reaction of good will."

"THAT WAS A very sharp idea he had, staying in private homes instead of motels," Ruth

said. "You don't make any hay staying in hotels."

The Ruths were selected to host Carter just before the Illinois primary because they are friends of Jim Wall, Carter's Illinois campaign chairman.

"We always thought Jim asked us because we were close to O'Hare," said Ruth, 61. "But Jim said, 'We chose somebody we thought would get the biggest kick out of it.'"

"We did," Ruth admitted. "We were just knocked out by it. We've been laughing ever since."

Preparing the Ruths' home for Carter's stay was a detailed process. Secret Service men arrived a week in advance to inspect the house, three telephones were installed and the night Carter stayed there, five Secret Service men guarded the house.

"I NEVER FELT so secure in my life," Ruth said.

Besides the impression left by the candidate's entourage, the Ruths say they were equally stirred by Carter himself.

"He had been briefed so well," Ruth said. "He knew that I was a book illustrator. He came in and looked at my watercolors on the wall and he said he'd like to see some of the books I illustrated."

Carter talked with the Ruths and their son and daughter-in-law for about 30 minutes before retiring, Ruth recalled. "He had a glass of milk and some cookies before he went to sleep," Mrs. Ruth said.

For breakfast the next morning Ruth said there were "no grits, just the regular scrambled eggs, bacon, toast, juice and coffee routine." Carter was off by 7 a.m. with only one neighbor having the slightest suspicion, Ruth said.

"HE LEFT A warm feeling in our home and I assume he did in other places," Mrs. Ruth said.

The Ruths continued to follow Carter throughout his campaign and just before Christmas they got an invitation to the inauguration.

"But we found out that invitation goes out to 300,000 people, so we decided we weren't going to go," Ruth said.

"Then we got an invitation to one of the balls," he said. "But 25,000 are invited, so I said no."

"The Monday after Christmas we got a third invitation to a reception at the White House the day after the inauguration for 400 couples who opened their homes to Carter and his family. Now we're going to the whole deal."

Ruth said he and his wife will take a charter flight for Illinois residents attending the inaugural. "It's going to cost 300 bucks," he said. "But once in a lifetime you have to shoot the works."

620 S. VINE AVE., Park Ridge, is the place where Jimmy Carter slept and now Rodney and Mary Ruth have a plaque to commemorate the visit of their newsworthy house guest. The Ruths have been invited to the White House after Carter's inauguration as a thank-you for their hospitality during the campaign.

and repair program," Jusk said. "We think it's working."

"THERE HAVE been changes in the building," said Mrs. De Witt, "and, thankfully, it's lost its ghetto image. Once again like those first few years, when it was Ramblin' Rose apartments and brand new, it's a wonderful place to live," she said.

Her best friend and neighbor, Betty Merkel, has lived in the complex eight years.

"I love it," she said. "Despite those times when we had a bad reputation because of those fires and complaints from some tenants, it's been a beautiful place to live and raise a family."

MRS. MERKEL says it made her angry when people assumed everyone who lived in the complex "was a bum."

"You know you can read about a filthy house on a city block and yet no one says the whole city is filthy, but let one apartment owner be a bum and the whole complex gets a bad reputation," she said.

The two friends agreed that things are changing in Whispering Glen. "And, it's not just a new name this time," said Mrs. De Witt.

Heroes they're not, but they get job done

by DEBBIE JONAK

Wheeling Fire Department's scuba squad members are not heroes.

They arrive too late for that. They are called when the heroes fail, when a life is lost. Their job is to find drowning victims.

If they are successful, no cheers, awards or hugs await them. Rather, they are greeted with looks of anguish on the faces of the victim's friends and relatives whose worst fears have been confirmed.

"You don't let yourself get personally involved. If you did, you couldn't be in this business," Andy Neargarder, firefighter and underwater recovery team member, said.

"IT'S LIKE working on an accident victim that's in bad shape, or a fire victim — it's part of the job."

The Wheeling group was formed in 1971 with three members. It was one of the first teams in Cook County. Since then most surrounding communities have established similar squads. Wheeling's squad now consists of six firefighters, trained in underwater recovery.

Wheeling fire officials saw a need for the squad because of the lakes and the growing number of retention ponds in the area.

"The potential for accidents is here," Neargarder said.

The area has Echo and Potawatomi lakes, the Des Plaines River, and some retention ponds.

The team averages six recovery missions a year in neighboring Lake County. The squad participates both in the Cook County and the Lake County mutual aid box alarm system.

WHEN A DROWNING occurs, mutual aid members closest to the scene are summoned. They respond with any available divers.

Winter calls usually come from northern Lake County in the Chain o' Lakes vicinity, where snowmobilers sometimes wander on to thin ice.

Although the Wheeling group is training this month for ice recoveries, most of the local drownings occur in summer months.

The quarries near Vernon Hills and Half Day are familiar places to Neargarder. They are "no swimming" areas frequented by youths.

He recounted one of the many drowning recoveries there in which he participated.

"It was a boy in his late teens. He was swimming with some friends in the quarry behind the Roman House." The Roman House is on Milwaukee Avenue in Prairie View. Vernon Hills Fire Dept. received the call. They notified mutual aid members, including Wheeling.

"WITHIN AN HOUR after he (the boy) went down, we were up there," Neargarder said.

Four Wheeling divers joined 25 others from Lake County at the scene. The divermaster from Vernon Hills had arranged for fire departments with boats to deliver them. He marked the drowning site with buoys, Neargarder said.

The divers were divided into teams. A team consists of four divers in the water, who hold onto a bar connected to the boat. A driver and an observer always are assigned to the tow boat. Another boat follows behind the divers, with a driver and a diver in full suit.

"It's very safe — as safe as it possibly can be," Neargarder said. "Since you're only going in for a recovery and not a rescue, the main concern is for the safety of the divers."

After he was checked by a safety man, Neargarder joined his teammates on the bar behind the boat.

THEY SANK to the bottom of the lake and began "feeling."

"In most of the lakes around here you can't see, so it's all feel," he said. The divers cannot carry lights, because they must hold the bar with one hand and feel with the other.

Each team usually stays in the water for a half-hour. Neargarder and the diver next to him found the boy within 20 minutes.

"The average time is 20 minutes, if the location is really good," he said, adding, searches have lasted as long as three or four days.

Neargarder said 1976 was a quiet year. The squad responded to just one call — a false alarm. A young boy was missing and his parents were afraid he had drowned in a man-made lake near their Cedar Run sub-division home.

"We were just about to get in the water when he was found sleeping in the basement of Adolorata Villa," Neargarder said.

Thompson inaugural gala today

by STEVE BROWN
SPRINGFIELD — Marching bands from Prospect, Wheeling and Stevenson high schools today will participate in the gubernatorial inaugural ceremonies for Republican James R. Thompson.

The Northwest suburban groups will be part of the 142 bands and other marching units that will take part in the first inaugural parade in Springfield since 1948.

But long underwear and galoshes may be needed for parade-goers with 4 inches of snow expected to fall today.

"Do a sunshine dance," David Gilbert, Thompson's press secretary said Sunday.

Besides Thompson, Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, Atty. Gen. William Scott,

Comptroller Michael Bakalis and Sec. of State Alan Dixon will be sworn into office in a joint ceremony.

THE OFFICIALS will get a two-day jump on the Illinois General Assembly, whose members do not take the oath of office until Wednesday.

The inaugural activities will include a host of parties, receptions and dances. The actual swearing-in ceremonies will take place in the Illinois State Armory Building near the State Capitol.

Thompson will not repeat the outdoor ceremonies used by Gov. Daniel Walker four years ago.

The Republican first opted for an outdoor ceremony, but Scott, Bakalis, Dixon and O'Neal all said they preferred an inside location.

WHILE THE armory will seat 5,000, the inaugural committee plans to tele-

cast the ceremonies to two Springfield hotels for persons who may not be able to gain admittance to the building. Several Chicago and Downstate television stations also will broadcast portions of the events.

Thompson selected to organize the activities, Michael Dunn, a 24-year-old Rockford man who worked as a fundraiser during the campaign, and 39-year-old Robert L. Radmacher of Springfield, a campaign advance man.

They relied on the Illinois National Guard and Illinois State Police for advice. Aides to Walker and former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also provided assistance.

Thompson and his wife, Jayne, will begin the day at a special service at the First Presbyterian Church here. Later in the morning they will meet with Walker and his family at the 50-room governor's mansion that will become Thompson's home this week.

While the 8,000 marchers are shuttled through the armory for a hot dog and baked bean lunch, Thompson and State GOP Chairman Don Adams will host a luncheon for VIPs at the Forum 30 Hotel.

THE EVENING inaugural activities will begin with a concert by the Belleville Symphony Orchestra in the State Capitol.

Two inaugural balls will follow in the evening. Thompson aides said his pledge to be the governor for the entire state will be carried out through the inaugural activities. The committee carefully invited guests from Cook County and Southern Illinois to one party, while Northern and Central

Illinois guests will gather at another hotel.

Both parties are scheduled to end at midnight. Thompson hopes to begin the 1st working day of his new administration Tuesday with the announcement of several cabinet choices, his press aide said.

The cost of inaugural activities carry a $65,000 price tag. A special committee, apart from Thompson's campaign fund-raisers, was established to obtain contributions for the event.

MOST NEW administrations do not plan outdoor events, but a confident Thompson, who appeared in countless parades during the campaign, began inviting high school bands to play for his inaugural during a late October

Nothing new in Teamsters, police affiliation

by LUISA GINETTI

While Palatine officials grapple with the question of recognizing the Teamsters union as the official bargaining agent for police, law enforcement officials in many parts of the country have lived comfortably with the labor organization for almost 10 years.

Known predominantly as the union of truck drivers, the Teamsters represent many other working groups, including patrolmen in more than 200 police departments across the country.

The Teamsters union in Michigan has a separate local which deals solely with law enforcement officials. Paul Gully, trustee of Local 214 in Detroit, said the union has never had a problem in almost nine years of representing police.

"We had no problem in the way of recognition and we've never had a strike nor would we ever sanction a strike," Gully said.

GULLY SAID Local 214 represents 98 police departments in the state with a membership of more than 2,500 including patrolmen, sergeants, lieutenants, dispatchers, security guards and department clerks and secretaries.

Gully said he believes the Teamsters union was selected by many policemen to represent them because it is a strong group and because Michigan technically does not recognize fraternal groups, such as the Fraternal Order of Police, as bargaining agents.

"I think you have a problem in negotiations when the bargainer and the employee are the same since policemen are the FOP," Gully said. "It's easier for a third party to come in and deal with the employer."

Gully said Michigan labor laws require compulsory arbitration which can be enforced by a court if impasses are reached in negotiations. Gully said he cannot foresee any instance in which the union would call for a police strike if problems occur in collective bargaining.

Merle Baker, business representative of Local 695 in Madison, Wis., which represents more than 30 police departments in Wisconsin with more than 1,000 members, said police department strikes never occur there.

"I CAN'T FORSEE a strike among any of our people because it's not legal for municipal workers to strike," he said. "One of the things I pride myself on is that we have never had a Teamster strike in Wisconsin."

Baker said police officials who are members of the union generally appear to be happy with their representation. He cited as an example mem-

60 below in Rice Lake, Wis.

Bitter cold to follow snowstorm

Northwest suburban residents can expect a couple of clear days this week following an anticipated four-inch snowfall Sunday night and early today on top of an estimated three inches of snow which accumulated Sunday morning.

The National Weather Service Sunday said frigid air from Wisconsin will grip the area until Wednesday, bringing temperatures ranging from zero to 15 below.

Weather service spokesmen warned

travelers in Illinois to be wary of bad road conditions brought on by drifting snow. Heavy snow warnings continue for areas along the Mississippi River. Travelers' advisories are in effect today statewide.

The immediate area was spared from the worst weather this weekend, which raised havoc in communities in Minnesota and Wisconsin, cutting off power and killing at least one person.

Car batteries were frozen near the western Minnesota town of Willmar. Ice crystals formed in the air near the Mississippi River. A power pole snapped near Chippewa Falls, Wis., cutting off heat and power to several families.

In St. Louis, authorities found the body of Roland French, 45, on the front porch of his residence, an apparent victim of exposure. Unofficially, the temperature dropped to 60 degrees below zero in Rice Lake, Wis., early Sunday.

The Ruths continued to follow Carter throughout his campaign and just before Christmas they got an invitation to the inauguration.

"But we found out that invitation goes out to 300,000 people, so we decided we weren't going to go," Ruth said.

"Then we got an invitation to one of the balls," he said. "But 25,000 are invited, so I said no."

"The Monday after Christmas we got a third invitation to a reception at the White House the day after the inauguration for 400 couples who opened their homes to Carter and his family. Now we're going to the whole deal."

Ruth said he and his wife will take a charter flight for Illinois residents attending the inaugural. "It's going to cost 300 bucks," he said. "But once in a lifetime you have to shoot the works."

620 S. VINE AVE., Park Ridge, is the place where Jimmy Carter slept and now Rodney and Mary Ruth have a plaque to commemorate the visit of their newsworthy house guest. The Ruths have been invited to the White House after Carter's inauguration as a thank-you for their hospitality during the campaign.

Police union decision due Jan. 24

Teamsters nothing new for some

bers of the Dane County Sheriff's Dept. who agreed recently to a three-year contract with the county because they were so pleased with terms of the agreement.

Local 695 has been representing policemen in 10 counties in Wisconsin for eight years, Baker said.

The largest police department affiliated with the Teamsters union is in San Diego, Calif., where more than 1,000 patrolmen are represented during negotiations.

However, San Diego police officers are not officially members of the Teamsters. Alice Downs, office manager with the San Diego Police Officer's Assn., said the union is hired by the association to act as its official representative during collective bargaining with city officials.

"IT'S LIKE an employment agreement," she said. "We have them on a retainer to do our negotiating for salaries and fringe benefits but none of our men belong to the union."

Mrs. Downs said the arrangement came in June 1975 when it was time for the police and city officials to sit down at the bargaining table. She said, "Total frustration with the city administration" is the reason for going to the union.

"We thought they could give us a better wage increase than we would have gotten without them," Mrs. Downs said. The Teamsters negotiated a 7½ per cent salary increase for the police, bringing the starting salary to $12,372 a year. Before the union was brought in, city officials were only promising 5 per cent increases.

Mrs. Downs said the Teamsters have put no pressure on members of the department to join the union, part of the policemen's terms for having the union represent them in contract talks.

SHE SAID the Teamsters will represent San Diego policemen in negotiations again later this year when the current agreement expires in July.

In addition to California, Michigan and Wisconsin, the Teamsters union represents several police departments in the State of Washington as well. The union also represents other municipal workers in addition to policemen.

Local 714 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in Berwyn is in the process of getting the union involved in its first dealings with police departments in Illinois. In addition to Palatine, the local has signed members in police departments in Schiller Park, Addison and Bolingbrook. In each town, municipal officials are considering the options of recognition or nonrecognition of the union as the police officers' bargaining agent.

A decision on whether Palatine will recognize the Teamsters union as the official bargaining agent for village patrolmen is expected Jan. 24 when Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones delivers his state-of-the-village address.

Jones said policy statements are being drafted in line with board discussion of the issue which occurred last week in a special executive session.

Officials have not disclosed the board's attitude toward the Teamsters question. However, Jones has said he is opposed to union representation for municipal workers.

FOLLOWING THE executive session, Jones said the board agreed unanimously about its course of action and he was pleased with the trustees' reaction to the matter.

William Hogan, president of Local 714, said he has received no official reply from the village since the executive session.

"I expect to hear something soon," he said.

Hogan, who said the union has signed more than 90 per cent of the department's 36 patrolmen, said he hopes the village will act reasonably.

"If they come out with a statement that they won't recognize us, then we will meet with the patrolmen and see what they want us to do," Hogan said. "If the patrolmen want us to fight, we'll fight. If they don't want to do anything about it, we won't."

HOGAN SAID the union will be active this year in trying to get the Illinois General Assembly to pass legislation granting municipal workers the right to collective bargaining. Such legislation will give the union a vehicle with which to work in representing police and other city workers, he said.

"If the patrolmen don't want to fight then we'll look for legislation," he said.

Hogan said the union does not approve of police department strikes and would not use this approach to put pressure on the village.

Commission vacancies are filled by Jones

Vacancies on three Palatine commissions have been filled by Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones.

Appointed to the zoning board to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of David Kuhl is Stan Pratt, 1120 Sterling Ave. Pratt is an attorney and certified public accountant and works as a tax consultant in Palatine. He will serve until May 1, 1980.

Max Downham, 1324 St. James Ct., will serve on the plan commission until May 1, 1978. Downham, a director of corporate planning with G. D. Searle and Co., Skokie, will fill the seat left vacant by the resignation of Ronald Kennedy.

The vacancy on the board of health will be filled by Carol Graesser, 1330 St. James Ct. Mrs. Graesser is a registered nurse and will fill the spot vacated by Dr. Alan Krakora, whose term expired this year. Mrs. Graesser's term will run through May 1, 1979.

The appointments have brought each of the village's 10 commissions to full staff.

The win boosted the team's record to 2-1.

Miss Feaker earned 24.6 points for her first-place finish and Miss Campbell tallied 26.9. Denise Shipley scored 22.8 points to take third in the 11-and-under group and Patti Kane took second with 26.5 points among the 12-to 14-year-old group.

Got an opinion on federal funds?

A public hearing to allow citizens to tell Palatine officials how they would like to see federal revenue-sharing money spent will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the village hall, 54 S. Brockway St.

Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig said the hearing has been scheduled in conjunction with new federal requirements approved when the revenue-sharing program was extended by Congress last year.

Under provisions of the original 1972 legislation which created the five-year revenue-sharing program, no special public hearings were required of government agencies receiving the federal funds.

THE LAW EXTENDING the program another three years sets new stipulations including provisions for two public hearings, one before and one after the money is actually budgeted.

Both oral and written comments will be accepted at the hearing, Har-

Harwig said the village will receive about $175,000 this year, according to the revenue-sharing formula. During the first five years of the program, the village received more than $750,000 in revenue-sharing funds.

The money has been used for emergency services in the police and fire departments, Harwig said.

Revenue-sharing money can be used for any local project including matching funds to receive other federal or state grants, a provision not allowed in the first five years but sanctioned in the bill approved last year.

Landmark cemetery joins city

Ernst Weseman, Henry Thies and other members of one of Palatine Township's first farming families are about to become city slickers.

The farmers themselves aren't going anywhere, but the family burial grounds at the corner of Kirchhoff and Plum Grove roads is about to become a part of the City of Rolling Meadows.

All of the streets in the area already are within the city limits, says City Atty. Ray Kulla, leaving the cemetery "a little island surrounded by the city."

Howard Olsen, Palatine Township supervisor says the pending annexation will not change the cemetery. "We've got the title to the land," he says, "and it won't be used for anything else because that cemetery is of historical significance to the area."

The tiny burial ground is tucked into a corner of the parking lot for the Plum Grove Shopping Center. Originally, it was the churchyard for the Salem Evangelical Church of North America, a congregation formed by the Weseman, Thies and Nordmeier farming families — all related to each other by blood or marriage.

Ernst Weseman was buried there two years before the church moved to Palatine in 1912, and his 73-year-old son, Earl, still maintains the cemetery. Henry Thies, who died in 1933, was the last person to be buried there.

Thompson inaugural gala today

by STEVE BROWN
SPRINGFIELD — Marching bands from Prospect, Wheeling and Stevenson high schools today will participate in the gubernatorial inaugural ceremonies for Republican James R. Thompson.

The Northwest suburban groups will be part of the 142 bands and other marching units that will take part in the first inaugural parade in Springfield since 1948.

But long underwear and goshes may be needed for parade-goers with 4 inches of snow expected to fall today.

"Do a sunshine dance," David Gilbert, Thompson's press secretary said Sunday.

Besides Thompson, Ill. Gov. Dave O'Neal, Atty. Gen. William Scott,

Comptroller Michael Bakalis and Sec. of State Alan Dixon will be sworn into office in a joint ceremony.

THE OFFICIALS will get a two-day jump on the Illinois General Assembly, whose members do not take the oath of office until Wednesday.

The inaugural activities will include a host of parties, receptions and dances. The actual swearing-in ceremonies will take place in the Illinois State Armory Building near the State Capitol.

Thompson will not repeat the outdoor ceremonies used by Gov. Daniel Walker four years ago.

The Republican first opted for an outdoor ceremony, but Scott, Bakalis, Dixon and O'Neal all said they preferred an inside location.

WHILE THE armory will seat 5,000, the inaugural committee plans to tele-

cast the ceremonies to two Springfield hotels for persons who may not be able to gain admittance to the building. Several Chicago and Downstate television stations also will broadcast portions of the events.

Thompson selected to organize the activities, Michael Dunn, a 24-year-old Rockford man who worked as a fundraiser during the campaign, and 39-year-old Robert L. Radmacher of Springfield, a campaign advance man.

They relied on the Illinois National Guard and Illinois State Police for advice. Aides to Walker and former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also provided assistance.

Thompson and his wife, Jayne, will begin the day at a special service at the First Presbyterian Church here. Later in the morning they will meet with Walker and his family at the 50-room governor's mansion that will become Thompson's home this week.

While the 8,000 marchers are shuttled through the armory for a hot dog and baked bean lunch, Thompson and State GOP Chairman Don Adams will host a luncheon for VIPs at the Forum 30 Hotel.

THE EVENING inaugural activities will begin with a concert by the Belleville Symphony Orchestra in the State Capitol.

Two inaugural balls will follow in the evening. Thompson aides said his pledge to be the governor for the entire state will be carried out through the inaugural activities. The committee carefully invited guests from Cook County and Southern Illinois to one party, while Northern and Central

Illinois guests will gather at another hotel.

Both parties are scheduled to end at midnight. Thompson hopes to begin the 1st working day of his new administration Tuesday with the announcement of several cabinet choices, his press aide said.

The cost of inaugural activities carry a $65,000 price tag. A special committee, apart from Thompson's campaign fund-raisers, was established to obtain contributions for the event.

MOST NEW administrations do not plan outdoor events, but a confident Thompson, who appeared in countless parades during the campaign, began inviting high school bands to play for his inaugural during a late October

Minton to seek mayor's office for a 2nd time

by MARSHA S. BOSLEY

Trustee Michael H. Minton today will become the second declared mayoral candidate in Mount Prospect's April 19 election.

Minton said he will file his nominating petitions today with the village clerk. This will be Minton's second try for the mayor's post. He lost to outgoing Mayor Robert D. Teichert in 1973.

Edward B. Rhea Jr., also a Mount Prospect trustee, is Minton's only opponent so far in the race for mayor.

Minton, 30, is the youngest candidate to ever seek the Mount Prospect mayor's post. He is running as an independent.

A MOUNT PROSPECT trial attorney, Minton, 1207 W. Lonnquist Blvd., will campaign on a "back to basics" platform, calling for "economy through cooperation."

"I'm going to start out by not promising anything I cannot deliver," Minton said. "The next four years will be building blocks. I'm not criticizing existing programs. We must build on what we have."

Minton said there must be more cooperation between the village and surrounding Wheeling and Elk Grove townships. He also said "the time is right" for more cooperation between Chicago and the suburbs.

"What happens in the City of Chicago certainly affects the residents here," he said, citing future water acquisition and transportation as examples.

The trustee pledged his responsiveness to the needs of village residents, saying he will campaign for creating an employment referral program, a consumer-aid unit, and a tenant-landlord relations board.

If elected, Minton said he will file complete income-disclosure statements.

"When a man assumes the public trust, he becomes public property," he said.

MINTON'S PLATFORM also includes plans for the village to work

Carter's church won't accept black activist

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter and fellow members of the Plains Baptist Church voted "without opposition" Sunday to reject the membership application of black activist Rev. Clemon King. They said he had been uncooperative and does not live in the community.

The congregation also voted to reject on similar grounds the applications of Austin Black, also a black and Charlotte Weinberger, both of Los Angeles.

As the results of the vote were read to reporters outside the church by state Sen. Hugh Carter, the president-elect's cousin and a spokesman for the congregation, King interrupted him to say:

"You are telling a true lie on the church door steps. You're reading something that faults in the eyes of God."

Bitter cold to follow snowstorm

Northwest suburban residents can expect a couple of clear days this week following an anticipated four-inch snowfall Sunday night and early today on top of an estimated three inches of snow which accumulated Sunday morning.

The National Weather Service Sunday said frigid air from Wisconsin will grip the area until Wednesday, bringing temperatures ranging from zero to 15 below.

Weather service spokesmen warned

travelers in Illinois to be wary of bad road conditions brought on by drifting snow. Heavy snow warnings continue for areas along the Mississippi River. Travelers' advisories are in effect today statewide.

The immediate area was spared from the worst weather this weekend, which raised havoc in communities in Minnesota and Wisconsin, cutting off power and killing at least one person.

Car batteries were frozen near the western Minnesota town of Willmar. Ice crystals formed in the air near the Mississippi River. A power pole, snapping near Chippewa Falls, Wis., cutting off heat and power to several families.

In St. Louis, authorities found the body of Roland French, 45, on the front porch of his residence, an apparent victim of exposure. Unofficially, the temperature dropped to 60 degrees below zero in Rice Lake, Wis., early Sunday.

Swine flu vaccine is gathering dust in cold storage

by KURT BAER

• The State of Illinois has 2 million doses of swine flu vaccine in cold storage in Springfield and is uncertain what, if anything, to do with it.

• The Cook County Public Health Dept. has cases of swine flu vaccine it wants to give back to the state.

• Nationally, some 50 million doses of vaccine are sitting on shelves and still more is in various stages of production.

Such is the aftermath of the nation's $135 million swine flu vaccination program three weeks after it was halted abruptly because of fears the vaccine can cause a rare form of paralysis called Guillain-Barre syndrome.

Officials at the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., say the mass inoculation program will not be restarted unless swine flu reaches epidemic proportions around the nation.

So far, the center reports, there have been relatively few flu cases of any type reported in the county.

The fact that swine flu vaccine has to be refrigerated adds to the storage problem. If it is out of cold storage for more than eight hours, the vaccine is ineffective, said Austin Hayes, public health educator for the State of Illinois.

AS LONG AS IT is kept cold, swine flu vaccine has a shelf life of one year.

"Some people have given us storage space but if we have to keep the vaccine for a year, I don't imagine anyone will be too happy," Hayes said.

Illinois has more swine flu vaccine in storage than it has been able to dispense. Approximately 1.8 million doses were administered in the state to only 25 to 30 per cent of the eligible population, Hayes said.

The state received more than $500,000 from the federal government to pay for the vaccination plan, in addition to the free vaccine. Twenty-three state workers were hired exclusively for the program, Hayes said. The center loaned the state 33 jet injectors.

"We're all waiting to see what CDC comes up with," Hayes said. "Until we know what they want to do,

we're holding on to it."

DR. JOHN B. HALL, head of the Cook County Public Health Dept., said the county does not have a lot of vaccine in storage. But what the county does have it would like to give back to the state, he said.

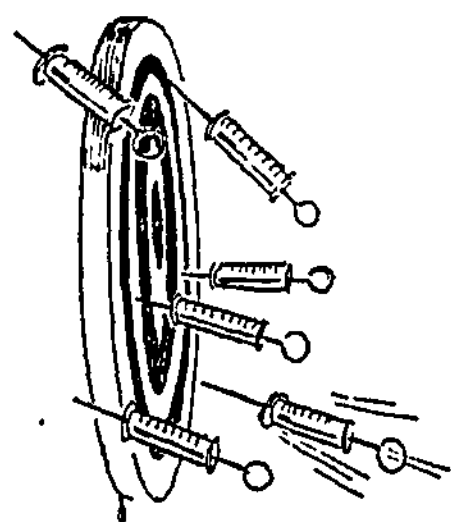

"We did have a problem that the flu vaccine was taking up space we needed for our measles vaccine. But we were able to take care of the measles program," Dr. Hall said.

CDC spokesman Robert Alden said a decision on possibly resuming the vaccination program is possible.

A state-by-state count shows 42 million of the 100 million doses of vaccine shipped have been administered, he said, adding that "manufacturers have a certain amount in processing as well."

Alden said he did not know of any other use for swine flu vaccine. It does not appear that it can be converted into vaccine for other types of flu, he said.

"We're just holding on to what we've got. Whatever is out there is being stored until there is a final determination whether the program will ever proceed."

Inauguration bound

by DIANE GRANAT

"Jimmy Carter Slept Here" reads the inscription on the brass plaque Rodney and Mary Ruth received as a Christmas gift.

The gift was a gag, but Carter's March 10 visit with the Park Ridge couple was no joke. Now their hospitality is being returned with an invitation from their former house guest to a reception at the White House after Carter's inauguration Jan. 20.

The Ruths, 620 S. Vine Ave., were among 500 persons who welcomed Carter or members of his family into their homes during Carter's trek across the country as a presidential candidate. Rodney Ruth thinks this personal touch in Carter's campaign helped win some votes by setting off "a chain reaction of good will."

"THAT WAS A very sharp idea he had, staying in private homes instead of motels," Ruth

said. "You don't make any hay staying in hotels."

The Ruths were selected to host Carter just before the Illinois primary because they are friends of Jim Wall, Carter's Illinois campaign chairman.

"We always thought Jim asked us because we were close to O'Hare," said Ruth, 64. "But Jim said, 'We chose somebody we thought would get the biggest kick out of it.'"

"We did," Ruth admitted. "We were just knocked out by it. We've been laughing ever since."

Preparing the Ruth's home for Carter's stay was a detailed process. Secret Service men arrived a week in advance to inspect the house, three telephones were installed and the night Carter stayed there, five Secret Service men guarded the house.

"I NEVER FELT so secure in my life," Ruth said.

Besides the impression left by the candidate's entourage, the Ruths say they were equally stirred by Carter himself.

"He had been briefed so well," Ruth said. "He knew that I was a book illustrator. He came in and looked at my watercolors on the wall and he said he'd like to see some of the books I illustrated."

Carter talked with the Ruths and their son and daughter-in-law for about 30 minutes before retiring, Ruth recalled. "He had a glass of milk and some cookies before he went to sleep," Mrs. Ruth said.

For breakfast the next morning Ruth said there were "no grits, just the regular scrambled eggs, bacon, toast, juice and coffee routine." Carter was off by 7 a.m. with only one neighbor having the slightest suspicion, Ruth said.

"HE LEFT A warm feeling in our home and I assume he did in other places," Mrs. Ruth said.

The Ruths continued to follow Carter throughout his campaign and just before Christmas they got an invitation to the inauguration.

"But we found out that invitation goes out to 300,000 people, so we decided we weren't going to go," Ruth said.

"Then we got an invitation to one of the balls," he said. "But 25,000 are invited, so I said no."

"The Monday after Christmas we got a third invitation to a reception at the White House the day after the inauguration for 400 couples who opened their homes to Carter and his family. Now we're going to the whole deal."

Ruth said he and his wife will take a charter flight for Illinois residents attending the inaugural. "It's going to cost 300 bucks," he said. "But once in a lifetime you have to shoot the works."

620 S. VINE AVE., Park Ridge, is the place where Jimmy Carter slept and now Rodney and Mary Ruth have a plaque to commemorate the visit of their newsworthy house guest. The Ruths have been invited to the White House after Carter's inauguration as a thank-you for their hospitality during the campaign.

Scouts want to shovel snow

Senior citizens or disabled persons who have problems with sidewalk snow removal will be interested in knowing that John Klaasen Jr. is searching for such situations so that he can assist.

John, 18 of 701 S. Main St., a junior at Forest View High School, has taken on snow removal as a service project for becoming an Eagle Scout. He is a member of Boy Scout Troop 155 sponsored by Lincoln Junior High School PTA.

"It seems that people who are not able to do their own shovelling have made arrangements with neighborhood boys for the service. I'm having trouble finding people who need and want the job done," said Klaasen.

John has 10 fellow scouts who will be working with him on the snow removal work during the current winter season. They would welcome the opportunity to shovel where it is needed. Naturally, there is no cost to the resident. All of the boys will receive service credit hours for their efforts.

Any elderly or handicapped people who live in the neighborhood of the participating boys, which is between Lincoln St. and Golf Rd., Busse Rd. and Main St., are encouraged to call John Klaasen, 253-3214.

THE LADIES AUXILIARY of Mount Prospect VFW Post 1337 recently was presented with a plaque from the State of Illinois for providing "the most outstanding Bicentennial program" of the organization in the state.

Included in the group's activities for which it was cited were: hand-making 13 flags of the original colonies which were presented to the village and soon will be given to the local historical society; creation of a Bicentennial quilt to be used as a raffle prize and the Bicentennial Baby Contest.

The auxiliary, which meets the first Tuesday of each month, is seeking new members. The only requirement for membership is that a woman's husband or a family member be an over seas veteran. For more information, call Laverne Hochleutner, 253-3918.

MOUNT PROSPECT School Dist. 57 is conducting its annual preschool census to determine the number of youngsters under five years of age within its boundaries. Volunteer census takers will be visiting or calling at all homes in the area, sometime before Jan. 23, to glean the statistics.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Nurses Club will hear about "Arthroscopy" from Dr. Ralph Lidge, orthopedic surgeon, at its meeting this month. The group will meet at 7:45 p.m. Jan. 18 in the Guild Hall of St. Paul Lutheran Church, 100 S. School St.

Police still seeking gas station bandit

Police are seeking a man in his early twenties who stole $60 Friday night from attendants at the Clark Gas Station, 698 E. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect.

The bandit entered the service station at 11 p.m. and took the cash at gunpoint from an attendant, police said. The bandit reportedly fled west in a blue 1968 Chevrolet.

The robber was described as in his early twenties, about 5 feet 6 inches, 180 pounds, with black shoulder-length hair, a mustache and a blue ski jacket.

A 6-inch blue revolver was used in the holdup, police said.

Bids for S-curve project stalled

Bid taking for the $623,000 Elmhurst Road S-curve improvement project has been postponed by the state but is not expected to delay construction plans.

Thomas J. Helter of Metcalf and Eddy, the project engineering firm, said bids will be let March 11 rather than later this month as originally scheduled. Helter said a contract would be awarded in April and construction could start later that month.

The delay was caused by Gov. Dan Walker's failure to sign papers that would transfer money to finance four state road projects, including the S-curve, he said. "The state told us Walker was going to let (Gov.-elect) Thompson take care of it," Helter said. "The project is ready to go."

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said the delay in awarding a contract for the project would not affect construction because the work cannot begin until warmer weather prevails.

"I don't think it will slow us down too much," Eppley said.

S-curve improvement plans financed through the Federal Aid to Urban Systems program, call for new curbs along the roadway, improved street lighting, wider traffic lanes and the installation of a traffic signal at Lincoln Street and Ill. Rte. 83.

Improvements will be jointly financed by the Federal Highway Administration, $402,303; Illinois Dept. of Transportation, $106,917; and the village $53,780.

During construction, the S-curve will be closed. Detours will be set up. The work is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Park board hopefuls urged to attend meeting Thursday

Candidates interested in filling two vacancies on the River Trails Park District Board are urged to attend the board's meeting Thursday.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the park district offices, 1313 Burning Bush Ln., Mount Prospect. Current board members said they want to meet prospective candidates and show them how business is conducted.

Two six-year terms will be filled during the April election. The vacancies on the five-member board will be left by the resignations of two members, Kenneth Rudnick, 1606 Cedar Ln., Mount Prospect, and John Johansen, 908 Ironwood Pl., Mount Prospect. Both men are leaving the board for business reasons.

Candidates should pick up nominating petitions at the park district office. The petitions may be filed through Jan. 24. For more information, call the park district office, 293-4445.

Minton in bid for Mayor's office

with library officials to provide special services for the deaf and to establish a book delivery service for disabled senior citizens who do not have the opportunity to visit the library.

Like Rhea, Minton favors Mount Prospect's current manager-council form of government. He said he will not promise tax cuts if they mean curtailing village services.

"We're reaching a period of no growth," Minton said. "Within five years we will have a stabilized tax base and will need additional revenue sources. I'm not saying we can foresee any tax cuts. That's like shipping snowballs to the Eskimos. It's unrealistic in this day and age."

In addition, Minton favors relocating village board meetings to the new library, acquiring the Citizens Utilities Company's water and sewer lines in the northeast area of the village and implementing the recently completed downtown development plan quicker.

Minton won election to the village board in 1975 to a four-year term as trustee after making an unsuccessful mayoral bid in 1973 against Teichert. He has served on the village building, judiciary, public works, and fire and police committees.

In April, Minton said, "We are going to witness a changing of the guard. I think I have matured as a candidate and learned from my mistakes made in 1973. My daddy always told me, 'If you don't learn from past mistakes, that's already another mistake.'"
